Normal School Notes.

There will be a lecture on "Physical Culture" at 2:30 Sunday afternoon in the Normal chapel. Everyone invited.

Girl in the Bus—"You've squeezed my hand all the way out here; now, for pity's sake, let go and let me get out"—The President rides in the bus.

She (Sunday night) — "Won't you come in, Lester?"

Lester—No, thanks. I tell you that dog of yours has had his last lunch off me." If the "particulars" are desired, inquire of those who were there.

She (very confidentially)—"This world is so cold and harsh! We have so many troubles and cares, and so often need advice and some one to lean on."

He—"Better go lean against the fence. I think it will hold you." Curtain.

Professor Miles is working up a new profession which he "follows" at intervals, now. Next year he expects to take it up as a regular thing. We will be sorry to lose him, but wish him success in his new profession.

Willis English left yesterday to take his brother's place. In him, the Normal has lost one of its best students.

The boys who were severely scalded week before last have succeeded very well in covering up their scars and footprints.

Autumn Leaves.

Autumn leaves! Nature grieves
That they fall, one and all,
To the ground's ample round;
There lying: there dying.

Autumn's gold they enfold.
Purple dye, azure sky;
Amber hue, sunlit dew,
All besem radiant beam.

Rainbow tint! Nature meant
Then no harm, only charm.
When the frost (wanton) burst
Fibred stem, — leaves fell then.

Smiling dawn; upward sun;
Sees afar leaves at war.
—Only seems, as in dreams:
Leaves do fall, that is all.

—LEOSTINE.
