THE WEST SIDE.

E. C. PENTLAND, Publisher.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1890.

OUR CITY ELECTION.

Even at this early day there is some pretty loud talk of putting independent candidates in the field against the regular nominees on the citizen's ticket. Well, this is presumably a free country, and Independence, as it's name implies, is an independent and free community, but, as rule, it is better to suppress strife in municipal elections than pander to the injured feelings of some one who may feel sore over the results of the convention. Personal antagonism seldom, if ever, result in good to a community, and unless evidence of fraud is indubitable, or a candidate is unquestionably incompetent, it is at least prudent to stand by the regular nominee. The WEST SIDE has no axe to grind, no perquisites to accrue from the coming city election, but is simply making a general statement in a non-partisan and impersonal way, and the reader can take it for what it is worth, and nothing more. That is all.

WHO PAYS THE TAXES.

The Commercial Review, of Portland has been at great pains to collect from the tax rolls of the state of Oregon, comparing the amount of personal property and real estate taxed, and as a conclusion asserts that "an analysis of these results will prove the following statement, and challenges contradiction of any of them:

1 The farming community of Oregon are paying today, under the present system of taxing personal property and credits, EIGHT-TENTHS of the entire state tax.

2 That this disproportion is aggravated by the existence of the law permitting deduction "debts" from assessment, as the result is simply to wipe out entirely, in cities, all personal property taxes in the country.

We omit several other sections, but the above go to prove what we have often stated, that the present system is oppressive to the farmers. We have stated also that the wholesale fraud, practiced, in giving such a large indebtedness in the cities has a bad moral tendency. For the above two reaons alone, deductions for indebtedness should be abolished.

THE BALLOT.

The WEST SIDE acknowledges the receipt of an address, in pamphlet form, "To the Electors of Oregon," by the "Ballot Reform League" of this state. In this address it is claimed that the Australian ballot system is a decided improvement upon all previous methods. Its most distinguished and salient features are: First, compulsory secrecy in voting; second, an exclusively official ballot; third, the filing of certificates of nomination, etc. We may have something definite to say in regard to this new system in the near fulure, but have time and space for only a word in this issue.

The present system, with all its imperfections, is a remarkable improvement upon the old Greek method of voting. The evolution of the ballot is as marked as any other event of history, and there is clear evidence of gradual improvement all along the line of its historical development. It is notoriously true that the present American system of voting is a hum bug and a fraud—a rotten machine, manipulated largely by political tricksters and demagogues. We will welcome any reform which has a tendency to purify the political atmosphere, but are in no hurry to say that the Australian ballot system is a panacea for all of our political ills. Like Ajax, we call for "light."

WHAT IS GAINED.

Those who advocate deducting in debtedness in taxing property should be able to show what gain, if any, Oregon has received through deducting debts. They cannot say that taxes are lower. They cannot say that it catches the rich. They cannot say that it makes a good showing for the state. They cannot say that it encourages honesty. They cannot say that it is fair toward the saving, out of debt taxpayer, they cannot say that the law is easily enforced, They cannot say that it encourages capital from abroad to invest in the state. They cannot say that it encourages enterprise; they cannot show that a lack of this clause in other states has been other than beneficial. Summing it all up we see but one argument in favor of deducting debts, and that is to allow those who are in debt to escape taxes. For the sake of a few people in Oregon who are out of debt, let us have a law that will deal fairly with them. If individuals will go in debt they should not saddle their burdens on their more cautious neighbor. Let the man who dances pay the fiddler.

THE WORLD'S FAIR.

There is a right and wrong way of doing everything. The right way may not seem the very best way in all cases at first, but it will generally prove to be the most satisfactory in the long run. Take, for an example, the plan proposed by the committee of the Oregon Press association, in which each county in Oregon has a World's Fair commissioner and Portland five, making thirty-six in all, and they elect their own president, secretary, and executive board. Compare this with the plans wherein boards of trade or the governor of Oregon appoints four or six commissioners, and judge which come nearest to the people. No doubt but that the popular plan of having a large commission is somewhat cumbersome, but is it not the best?

An Englishman has invented a machine to milk cows. What's the matter with the rosey cheeked, bright eyed, buxom girls of England?

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our regular correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 24.

The secret is out at last, and there is no longer any mystery as to the democratic howls for a recount of the population of New York city, by the census bureau. It is not because they hope to gain an additional member of the House, and one more vote in the electoral college for the state of New York. They are playing for much larger stakes. The scheme is to create such a hubbub over this recount that congress will pass a resolution ordering it, and then for the milk in the cocoanut—the postponement of the congressional apportionment until the Fifty-second congress meets. They know that an apportionment bill, such as Representative Dunnell's, will give the republicans from 17 to 19 additional representatives in the fifty-third congress and an equal number of voter in the electoral college, which will elect the next president, and they are playing a bold game in order to prevent the present congress making the apportionment at the coming short session, and to get the apportionment into their own hands, but it is a decided waste of energy, The first business of the republican house, which meets December 1, will be to perfect and pass a fair and just apportionment bill based upon the returns of the eleventh census. The bill introduced by Mr. Dunnell at the last session will necessarily have to be somewhat changed because the population of the country fell below the estimates upon which it was based, but there is not the slightest danger that democratic howls can succeed in having the bill postponed.

Everybody here is talking reciprocity. The new Spanish minister, Senor Miguel Suarez Guanes, has arrived here, been presented to the president and has already negotiated with Secretary Blaine looking toward a reciprocity treaty between the United States and Spain, which will, of course, include Cuba, In his speech to the president the new minister made it very plain that his government was anxious to have reciprocity, and privately he has talked even plainer. Negotiations are also in progress with several other countries, notably those of Central and South America, and it will not be surprising if the senate shall be called upon to ratify four or five reciprocity treatise before the expiration of the fifty-third congress.

The joint senate and house committee, authorized at the last session of congress to visit the Pacific coast for the purpose of investigating the alleged violation of the Chinese immigration law, left here Saturday morning in charge of a deputy sergeant-at-arms of the senate, and accompanied by a clerk and a stenographer to take down the testimony taken by the committee. The first meeting is to be held at Spokane Falls, Wash., where Senator Squire will join them. They are to visit in the order named: Tacoma, Seattle, Port Townsend, San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego, and expect to return to Washington about Christmas.

The president spends the greater portion of his time just now in the preparation of his annual message to congress, which promises to be an unusually interesting and important document, but he takes time to coufer with republican senators and representatives, who are arriving quite rapidly in order to get the benefit of their advice on the subjects which he proposes to treat in his message.

It is thought that within a week or ten days the most of the republican senators and representatives will be here and it is proposed that a conference be held to decide upon the legislation of the coming sessions. It is known that the president will take strong grounds in his message for the immediate passage of the apportionment bill and the shipping bills, and it is believed by many that he will also urge the passage of the federal election bill by the senate, but there are some doubters as to the last measure.

Postmaster-General Wanamaker has weathered the financial storm in spite of the determined effort of Jay Gould and the Louisiana Lottery company to break down his personal credit, and I am told by a banker that Mr. Wanamaker's credit is as good as it ever was. This attempt to bring about the private financial ruin of a public official because of his official acts is one of the most disgraceful in our history. Mr. Gould dislikes Mr. Wanamaker because of his advocacy of a postal telegraph system, and the lottery folks regard him as the author of their ruin, so they combined for revenge. The purpose being to force Mr. Wanamaker into bankruptcy. But it was useless. The lottery law is in our statute books to stay, and Mr. Wanamaker will take a more advanced stand than ever, in his annual report, in favor of a postal telegraph.

I heard a gentleman say today that the president had decided upon the successor to the late Justice Miller, and that his name would go to the senate immediately after congress meets. The gentleman's relations with Mr. Harrison are such as to leave no doubt in my mind. He would not tell the name of the new justice, in fact he wouldn't admit that he knew it.

Why could not Polk county have some good commissioner to represent us in showing our resources at the World's Fair? A man elected by the people, to represent the people.

PRINCIPLES NEVER DIE

No party can stand still and live. The new idea has the same right to place and trial as had its predecessor. The party that looks behind and is content with old examples and old issues is unfit to hold place in this county.—Polk County Observer.

The above statement is, in the main, correct in theory; it is still better in practice—especially when it comes to voting. But there is another point of view to take into consideration, which the astute editor of the Observer has left out of the count altogether.

All progress means the growth of new ideas, but not necessarily the elimination of "old examples and old issues". The spirit of civilization assimilates all that is useful of the old thought of the world, as well as all that is good and true of the new thought of today. The germs of many of the new ideas, which we term modern, were in existence hundreds—nay, thousands of years ago, but they were covered up with the dust of ages. When revived again they were not cast aside because the germ thought had its roots deep down in the centuries of the past, although the outcry of "old, exploded notions" was heard in certain quarters. An issue may be dead, so to speak; it may be "snowed under" by the vote of the people; politicians, and even editors, may pronounce it outside the pale of public discussion; contemptible demagogues and slimy sycophants may sneer at it as an "old fogyism," and yet it may contain a vitalizing and revivifying principle which is destined to regenerate a nation, or become a beacon light for the stumbling footsteps of humanity.

AN ENABLING ACT.

And now comes a Dallas man and attempts to inform his hearers that an enabling act will b asked for at Dallas from the coming legislature. We can scarcely credit the rumor, and yet it may be true. Dallas already has the county seat, and since a vote on relocation would simply mean the decision on building a new court house—and that was decided last election—we fail to see why the subject should be agitated again so soon. However, if Dallas feels that the people do not know what they want and a court house is needed, we see no reason why any other part of Polk county should get up in arms about it. This part of Polk county is ready to vote at any time; but we certainly would not ask for a vote under present circumstances, although they are more favorable now than ever. We believe in being consistent.

IT WOULD PAY,

The Independence and Monmouth Motor Railway is a paying investment. It already pays a fair interest on the money invested, and that is doing pretty well for a new enterprise established with local capital, and successfully completed under many difficulties. The road is a standard guage, and the construction work is first class all through. The passenger traffic is continually increasing, and the enterprise is attracting more than local attention. There is already very lively talk among our local capitalists of extending the road on to Falls City. This is a good scheme and it would ultimately pay a handsome profit on the money invested. One of the most productive and wealthiest regions of the Willamette valley lies along the prospective line of this road. Besides, Falls City is itself an objective point of more than ordinary importance, because of its splendid manufacturing facilities, its almost unlimited resources of excellent timber, etc. The extension of this road will give a great impulse to the business interests of central and southern Polk county.

The close commercial alliance between Monmouth and Independence is making the business interests of both cities practically one, and a railroad connecting these points and Salem is a certainty in the near future. Capitalists are already discussing the possibility of the scheme.

With a railroad from Indepen dence to Falls City a great industry could be built up at the former place. Puget Sound lumbering companies ship their logs thirty and forty miles by rail, and a handsome profit is realized by both the manufacturer and the transporter. The same could be done here, and will be, too, at no distant day.

The November issue of Public Opinion, a magazine published in Washington, D. C., contains thirty-five advertisements of Washington towns, and just four of Oregon. From 1880 to 1890 Washington increased 365 per cent, in population and Oregon 78 per cent. The wealth of Oregon, according to the tax roll, is $100,000,000, and of Washington $200,000,000. It is time that Oregon got a move on. It takes rustle to build a state—and money also. Oregon has the money but somehow no rustle.

CURRENT POLITICAL TOPICS.

Senator Morrill and Hon. E. J. Phelps, ex-Minister to England, have the right idea of the sentiments that should exist in the hearts of political opponents. Little Vermont has reason to be proud of such sons.

* * *

Well, the election is over, and in spite of the change in the control of the popular branch of the national legislature, things go on very much as before, we have to hustle for every dollar we get, and mighty hard hustling and few dollars it is with the most of us. Politics occupy a very small portion of our lives, and the effect of the success or defeat of any political party is scarcely apparent to the closest observer of ordinary every day affairs among the people.

* * *

The Tammany tiger in New York city has again proven his right to be king of the jungle by thrashing everything in sight. With the control of patronage amounting to $36,000,000 a year, for which the citizens of the metropolis get very poor municipal service, Tammany has no fears of being ousted from the big city's treasury, no matter how corrupt its officials may become. There's a moral in this to those who care to see it.

* * *

The fellow who has has been telling you for two months past exactly how the congressional election was going and whose predictions were all wrong, has already begun telling who is to be elected Speaker of the House of Representatives in the Fifty-second congress. This fellow everybody is acquainted with him—knows more that isn't so than was ever printed on a circus poster.

* * *

Leave the profitless task of explaning the why's and wherefores of the recent election to those who can find nothing better to do.

* * *

When Mr. Dunnell introduced his congressional apportionment bill in the house of representatives he was under the impression that the census would show our population to be 64,000,000 or more, and the bill was based upon that number. Now that the official figures—a million and a half less—have been given out it changes the face of the entire matter, and it will be necessary to prepare a new bill. It seems a great pity that this important question cannot be entirely divested of politics, and the number of representatives reduced to two hundred or less, instead of being increased as they are certain to be. The present number—330—is entirely too large. This is admitted by every one who is familiar with the business of the house of representatives, and yet, there is not the slightest prospect of a reduction in the number, on the contrary, the new appointment is certain to make it more than 350. Our statesmen know well enough what ought to be done, but if it interferes with schemes for party supremacy it isn't done. It is all very well, and even appropriate that Henry M. Stanley the African explorer, is a sort of adopted citizen of America, should be welcomed to our shores, but there is no occasion for gushing over him. It is not love of America that brings Mr. Stanley and his bride to the United States, but love of American dollars which he hopes to coax out of our pockets by his lectures on Africa. It is always best to look at things just as they are.

* * *

A good many of the voters of Pennsylvania seem to entertain similar sentiments to those expressed by Representative Kennedy of Ohio, in his notorious expurgated speech.

* * *

The democratic rooster is for the time being the National bird; the republican eagle is in a somewhat dilapidated condition and even the Thanksgiving turkey makes way for the proudly strutting democratic cock. Turning "flip flops" seems to have been a favorite pastime in a number of states on election day.

NO LONGER A TERROR.

Modern Treatment That Cures Constipation.

According to the San Francisco dailies a remedy has been discovered that with almost unerring certainty overcomes constipation. It is the new laxative principle in Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. The papers are full of recent occurrences confirming its efficiency, and we give place to their last sensation, a card from San Francisco's well known lady manicure. She says: "I am willing to relate the following experience. I have for years had a weak stomach attended with constipation, and never found but one preparation that helped me and that soon wore out and lost its effect, and I was again a sufferer till I tried Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. It helped me in every way and has thoroughly reorganized me. I had one of the most sensative of stomachs and was in continual distress, but can with the aid of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla now eat any and everything with my old accustomed freedom without any evil effects. I am both surprised and delighted, and gladly recommend it."

"THE KING'S TOUCH."

In England, two centuries ago, popular superstition credited the "Royal Touch" with curing scrofula. These superstitious practices have now become obsolete, and in their place we have a scientific remedy in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which eliminates the impurities from the blood by the natural channels, thereby cleansing the system from all taints and impurities from whatever cause arising. It is truly a royal remedy, world-famed and the only liver, lung and blood remedy guaranteed to benefit or cure in every case, or money paid for it will be refunded. As a regulator of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels, "Golden Medical Discovery" cures all bilious attacks, Indigestion and Dyspepsia, Chronic Diarrhea and Kindred ailments. As an alterative, or blood-purifier, it manifests its marvelous properties in the cure of the worst Skin and Scalp Diseases, Salt-rheum, Tetter, Eczema, and Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, as well as Lung-scrofula, commonly known as Pulmonary Consumption, if taken in time and given a fair trial.
