CONSIDER!

W. P. CONNAWAY . . . Chahler. INDEPENDENCE of the Southern Pacific from mence active work in the Spring.

FALLS CITY

Will Soon be

The steel rails and ties are now on land for the Extension

Corvallis to Junction City.

The ALBANY & ASTORIA

Is crying for a Railroad from this City.

Is crying for a Railroad from Independence.

Railroad, passing through Independence, is ready to com-

Is the best advertising medium in Polk county, and constantly growing better.

TRY IT

VOL. VIII.

$2.00 Per Year.

Five Cents Per Copy.

NO. 17.

WEST

SIDE

Polk County Pulishing Company FIRST NATIONAL BANK. Does a General Banking Business

When not pald in advance . . 2.50 TO ADVERTISERS.

ludependence is lected at the head of navigation (the me i of the year on the Willamotte river, and on the main time of the Gregon and California Ratroud, rentains a population of 100 people; it the principal shipping point in the country which is one of the largest, most weating and hieldly populated in the Willemotte valley.

The steadily ingressing circulation the Wass line is onlying enables it to be one of the book of Advertising Mediums.

JOB PRINTING! Latest and Best Styles,

LOWEST : LIVING : RATES. PHYSICIANS-DENTISTRY.

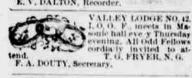

LEE & BUTLER. Physicians & Surgeons U. S. Examining Surgeons. INDEPENDENCE OF A STREET DR. J. K. LOCKE.

Physician - and - Surgeon, Buena Vista, Oregon.

DR. J. B. JOHNSON,

Resident Dentist. All work warranted to give the best Independence, SECRET SOCIETIES. A. O. U. W.-INDEPENDENCE LODGE Masonie hall. All solourning brothers invited to attend. JAMES GIBSON, M. W. E. V. DALTON, Recorder.

ATTORNEYS. A. M. HURLEY.

Attorney and Counselor at Law Office: Next to Independence Nat'l Bank Independence, Or.

A. B. GRIGGS, МЕЛТ - МАККЕЗ.

Choice Meats Constantly ON HAND.

Mitchell & Bohannon SASH and DOORS, also SCROLL SAWING-

G. W. SHINN,

House, Sign and O nament PAINTER.

Paper Hanging, Freecoins, Etc. Paint rooms opposite Jone's Stables, Independence Miss. Ada Judson. JUDSON & WILLIAMS,

DRESSMAKERS. Cutting and Fitting

A SPECIALTY. MRS. A. M. HURLEY.

Next to Independence National Paris

Millinery Fancy Goo

Durham Bros. CITY - FISH - MARKET

Fish of all Kinds in Season

" Main' St., "Tal pendence.

** Grand-learn how to nvet disease. Consultation an treatment personally or by teron sparmatochen or gent weakness and all discusses of mer send for book. Private offic gliftears of Appetitation fee

CITY HOTEL «Ot St., Independence.

First class in every respect Speci attention given transient customers. A sample room for commercial travelers.

Custom Goods for Merchants and others Re cut and Pressed. I will open monthly ac-couts with Merchants at Independence and Buy your tickets East of E; C. Pentland. Edwest C. Street - Opposite P. O.

BANKS.

Independence, Oregon.

THE INDEPENDENCE

Capital Stock, $50,000.00.

transacted; loans made, bills discounted, com mercial credits granted: deposits received or

DIRECTORS:

oshua McDaniel, H. H. Jasperson, A. J.

Goodman, H. Hirschberg, A. Nelson, T. J. Lee, I. A. Allen, Established by National Authority.

-THE-

Capital Mational Bank

OF SALEM OREGON

Capital paid up, $50,000.00.

Surplus, $15,000.

J. H. ALBERT, Cashier.

LOANS MADE

T . Farmers on wheat and other merchantable produce, consigned or in store, either in pri

Drafts drawn direct on New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Portland, London, Paris, Bur-lin, Hong Kong and Calcutta,

THE POLK COUNTY BANK.

MONMOUTH, OREGON.

Prest lent. (Portland) I. A. MACRUM
Vice President P. L. CAMPRELL
ashier I. G. POWELL

Capital Stock, . - $50,000

DIRECTORS

A conversal banking business transacted. De is received subject to check, or on certificate bereast. Leans made, bills discounted ex-age bought and sold, interest paid on time

Le Office hours & m. to 4 p. m.

BEAMER & CRAVEN,

-Dealers inand

All kinds of Harness and Saddlery

Goods. Carriage Triming and

SPECIAL BARGAINS.

Curry Combs, three bars, 5 cents.

Brushes, 10 cents.

Complete set of Team Harness,

TAYLOR'S

ash Grocery & Bakery

-ON C STREET.-

an Bread, Pie- and Cakes on hand every day except Sunday, an and fresh stock of samed goods, floar, coffee, sugar, capdies, cigars and tobaccos, D. S. TAYLOR, Proprietor.

PATTERSON Bros,

CLOCKS AND

DEPENDENCE, · OREGON.

W. G. SHARMAN,

MERCHANT TAILOR

Suits Made to Order and fit Guaran-

JEWELRY.

WATCHES,

repairing.

Vice President.

R. S. WALLACE.

National

ABRAM NELSON, .

IND PENDENCE, POLK COUNTY, OREGON, FRIDAY, MARCA 6, 1891

A GRIEVOUS COMPLAINT. The hard on a fellow, I do declare?"
Said Tommy one day, with a pont;
"In every one of the suits I wear
"The peckets are most worn out.
They're hout as big as the ear of a mole,
And I never have more than three;
And there's always coming a mean little hole.
That loses my knife for me.

"I can't make 'em hold but a few little thing flome cockies, an apple of two, A knife and pencil and bunch of strings, Some nails and maybe a zerow, And markes, of course, and a top and ball, And shells and pubbles and such, and sman olds and ands wes honcest, that 'e

"I'd like a stit of some patent kind, With puckets made wide and long; Above and below and before and belo Above and below and before and behind, flewed extra heavy and strong.

I'd want about a dozent or so,
All easy and quick to get gi;
And I should be perfectly happy, I know,
With a handy rig like that."

—Eudora S. Burnstead in St. Nicholas.

"Twe lost my pepper pot," said Deb-orah, looking sharply about the kitchen. "I wonder if you've been up to any of your tricks, Jim?"

Jim gave no answer except a toss of the head as he slowly walked across the kitchen, but Deborah's quick ears caught a little chuckle as he went out the door. "I'll give it to you some day, you young rascal, if you carry away my things!" went on Deborah, shaking her fist at the little fellow.

"What's the matter, Deborah?" asked her mistress, coming into the kitchen.
"Oh, it's that Jim! He's always up to mischief. It comes nateral to that gypsyish sort to be tricky and sneaky, and there's no such thing as gettin' em

"If it's natural to them we ought to make some allowance for it," said Mrs. Graham, with a smile, as she helped Deborah to hunt for the missing pepper

"No use a-harborin' such, seems me," said Deborah. "May be so," said Mrs. Graham, "but one of us somehow seems to have the

"I have," said Deborah very decid-"Look-a-there now-a everlastin"

The two watched Jim as with a roguish twinkle in his small black eyes made his way to where old Carlo was taking his morning nap under the lilac bush and gave him a sudden poke. The dog raised his head with a growl. but Jim stood at a little distance, with a grave and innocent look at something

Carlo settled down again, and quick as lightning Jim gave him another poke. Up jumped Carlo, with a savage poke. Up jumped Carlo, with stood in look at his termenter, but Jim stood in and a quieter place

"I've seen him do that a dozen times." breastpin, and it was laid to a poor young girl that worked in the family. She was disgraced and turned off, and ever so long after it was found out that that creetur'd been the thief. I've no "use for such!"

And so every member of the family could have declared, but no one would be the one to say that Jim must go. In the course of a long drive over country roads through a heavy storm the farmer had found Jim drenched and half starved. Of course he brought him home, and after being warmed, fed and made comfortable the wild eyed, dark eration and enflourage. -New York Ledtled himself in such good quarters, and had since showed no desire to leave them.

"You can come and help me, peel the peaches now, Marian!" called Mrs. Gra-ham to her daughter. Marian came, looking admiringly at the baskets of rosy cheeked, downy fruit on the great table, all of which was waiting to be made into peach butter. "Is that your pearl ring?" asked her "Oh-yes. I was clearing my drawer

The pretty lassie worked for hours over the peaches, paring, stoning, meas

"My ring, Deborah! I left it on the would not wish done to yourself."

up all the peelin's and flung 'em out to

With tears in her eyes Marian ran living in good society none will question. looked about the kitchen with a forlorn ous, and she went up stairs again with a Popular Science. woebegone look.

'She's a dreadful careless little piece, said Deborah, looking after her, "always a-leavin' her things 'round. But I ain't a-goin' to say it to her now she's a-feelin'

"Ha, ha-you thievin' rascal! I've caught you at last, ain't I?" Mrs. Graham and Marian hurried out at sound of Deborah's excited voice to see Jim struggling in her grasp. He was uttering short, angry cries and doing his best to free himself.

"I was just a-washin' my dishes," cried Deborah, "when this limb comes a-peek in' and a-pryin' 'round. I mistrusted he was up to somethin', an' I kep' my eye on him and seen him pick up one o' my teaspoons and sneak off with it. I took after him, and just got hold o' him right hero-see? He was just a-slippin' that apoon into that hole fer to hide it!"

Mrs. Graham looked curiously at the hole, a small one near the ground in the weather boarding of the spring house. "Bring an ax and knock that off, Deborah," she said. Deborah did so, and the three bent over what they saw. "I'm blessed if there ain't my pepper pot!" exclaimed Deborah. More-than the pepper pot was there. Keys, nails, screws, a button hook, a gimlet, and as they turned them over Marian gave a scream of delight and matched up her pearl ring.

Then she made a quick rush for Jim, and hugged and fondled him until he

"You dear old crow! exclaimed Marian. "If you hadn't stolen my ring off the table that day I never should have seen it again. Oh, Deborah, you have pulled out half his tail feathers!" "Never mind," said Deborah; "they'll grow again."—Sydney Dayre in Youth's Companion.

Costly War Implements. Tens of thousands of pounds of capital have to be sunk ere a single 111 ton gun can be manufactured. A particular reason for its being costly to make is that its production consumes a great amount of time. To build such a gun takes as long as to build a first class cruiser. Yet another reason lies in the fact that the are many and inevitable failures, which entail great waste of labor, if not of material.

The 111 ton guns, without their mount ings, cannot be produced or sold to the government for much less than £15,000 apiece, the 67 ton guns for less than about £10,800 or the 45 ton guns for less than £6,300, and the expense of firing these gurls, apart from the wear and tear of the weapons, mountings and ships, may be judged from the amount of pow-der and the weight of projectile used. In the case of the 111 ton run the full powder charge is 960 pounds of slow burning cocoa or 850 pounds of Westphalian brown prism, and the projectile weighs 1,800 pounds.

In the case of the 67 ton gun the full powder charge of slow burning cocoa is 680 pends, while the projectile is of 1,250 pounds weight. In the case of the 45 ton gun the full charge of brown prismatic powder is 295 pounds, and the projectile weighs 714 pounds. The esti-mated cost of one round from the largest gen is about £80, from the second about £30 and from the smallest about £30; but this is the cost of powder, cartridge and projectile only. - London Tit-Bits

A Singular Dental Operation Anson Washburn, the 14-year-old son of Austin Washburn, of the Bee line. sat in Dr. J. B. Morrison's office reading a paper and fanning himself unconcern-He has passed through one of the most remarkable operations known in dental surgery. When he was about 5 teeth on the right side of the upper jaw.

much attention, except careful watch-When exploring for the eye tooth he found it between the hard palate and the floor of the nose, pointing toward. The rain, which filled the high lay down with a long drawn sigh. Jim cut loose, carefully cleaned of all foreign the swans. Everything shoneout of the ordinary.-Indianapolis News. ing his rake through the gravel of the

and the balsamic. The first includes those derived from sweet smelling flowor essential oil, of perfumes is obtained

The Bible of the Buildhists. The bible of the sect is not without beauty and high moral as well as poetic conceptions. There is much in it of the nature of mythology and mysticism. which Buddhists do not pretend to understand themselves, yet there is much to admire. From a book of extracts and translations from the Buddhist bible I the game and his potations. His aidsgive a few examples: "The perfect man is like the lily, unsoiled by the mud in which it grows." and put it on to see how pretty it looks and forgot it. I'll take it off."

Another: "The perfect man will not be angry with him who brings him evil se angry with him who brings him evil re tated themselves toward the marker. ports of himself, lest he be not able to When the marshal was thirsty they all judge truthfully of the matter whereof wished to prepare his grog. Twas a over the peaches, paring, storing. At he is accused." Its moral code contains crush of epaulets and plumes, a clash of length she skipped up to her room to such rules as "Do not steal;" "Do not grosses and metal tipped shoulder knots, and the sight of all the agreeable smiles, ard;" "Do not to another what you the fawning, courtier like reverences of corner of the table—back here. Have From these examples it may be observed uniforms in that lofty oak wainscored ou seen it?"

how nearly their moral law runs parallel hall, looking out upon parks and courts with our own; and that this has exerted of honor, recalled the autumns of Com-And I've just this blessed minute scraped a potent influence in forming the Chinese character is evident. Also, that they cover the cardinal rules of right

The system offers motives in the way kept, and searched eagerly. But the of rewards for right living and punish on the staff, belted, with curled hair ments of evil doing. It develops sympand light colored gloves, who was an exnacious meal, and no ring was to be athy, the source of many virtues. It pert at billiards and capable of van found. More slowly she went back, and teaches the equality of all men. One quishing all the marshals in the world, hope that the ring might have escaped.

But Deborah's scraping had been vigorciety or breaks them _W C. Button in the world, but he knew how to keep at a respectful distance from his chief, and while he ciety or breaks them.-W. G. Benton in strove not to win endeavored not to be

All Mail Matter Is Counted. he handles and must make a daily report of the amount of work he has done. must not only give the grand total, but classes of mail matter, and also how the the Prussians going to attack? pieces reached the postoflice. The letters, etc., are mailed at the postoffice, in which case they are known as "drops," collected by carriers, arrive The staff fluttered wifh admiration. by trains, or, in the case of foreign Turenne asleep upon a gun carriage was matter, are brought by steamers. A nothing compared to this marshal, standreport must be made of every piece that comes in by any one of these ways.

When one considers that an average of about 600,000 letters alone reach the general postoffice here every day, it will be seen that the task of counting them is a big one. Let a person count 1,000 and then try to get some idea of the labor involved in keeping a record of 1,000 times that many, and his head will swim at the thought. As the counting is done by a number of men, and the letters are subdivided into batches, the labor is not so enormous as might at first be supposed.-New York Tribune.

Semi-Respectable. Friend-Why don't you give up this

A LOST BATTLE

As they had been fighting for two days and had passed the preceding night with their knapsacks on their backs be neath the drenching rain, the soldiers were exhausted. Nevertheless, for three mortal hours they had been kept waiting, with grounded arms, in the pud-dles of the highways and the mud of the Overcome with fatigue and loss of sleep, their uniforms heavy with water, riers arrived in hot haste. They dethey huddled together to keep warm, to sustain themselves. There were some The marshal was inaccessible. Nothing who slept as they stood leaning on their could prevent han from finishing the neighbor's knapsacks, and weariness and privation were best pictured on those unbent faces abandoned to alumber. sides. It was wretched, What were they doing there?

was taking place? The cannon, their muzzles pointed to ward the woods, had the air of watching something. The masked mitraillenses did they not attack? For what were they waiting?

They were waiting for orders, and the headquarters did not send them. The headquarters, however, were not far distant. They were at a handsome chateau in the style of Louis XIII, the red bricks of which, washed by the rain, glistened on the hillside among the trees. It was truly a princely dwelling, and well worthy of bearing the banner of a marshal of France. Behind a great ditch and a stone railing which separated them from the highway the grassplats ran straight up to the steps of the manvases of flowers.

On the other side, the private the chateau, the hedge was full of lumi-nous gaps; the pond in which swans were swimming stretched out like a mirror; and beneath the pagoda shaped roof of an immense aviary, sending forth shrill cries into the foliage, peacocks and golden pheasants beat their wings and spread their tails.

Although the proprietors had departed, years of age he had an attack of scarlet nothing there indicated the recklessness, fever that caused the retention of four the overwhelming desolation of war. The oriflamme of the chief of the army Dr. Morrison made an exploration and had preserved everything, even to the found the reath and drew two of them | meanest flowers of the grass plats, and down. One of them did not require it was something impressive to find so points. near the field of battle the opulent calm-nearer. The marshal had but one more ness which arises from orderly arrangements, from straight fows of trees and

The rain, which filled the highways the left jaw. The tooth was imbedded with such wretched mud and plowed whirlpool of bloody feathers. It was such deep furrows, was there but an eletreatment was needed in removing the gant, aristocratic shower, brightening one and to prevent it from aggravating the red bricks and the green of the grass book at his tormentor, but Jim stood in the cut parts and causing blood poison. The tooth and its bony attachments were the same place, half asleep, and Carlo The tooth and its bony attachments were the confused roll at the base of the hillock orange trees and the white plumage of and on the soaked highways something substances and placed in their proper thing was still. Verily, without the flag sheep. The army was in full flight, but position. The central incisor was kept which was flying from the peak of the the marshal had won his game.—Al-"I've seen him do that a dozen times," out of the boy's mouth for two and a roof, without the two soldiers on goard half hours. The teeth that were changed before the grating, never could one have hidden my pepper pot. Why, it aim't so long since I read a story about one o Washburn said that he is suffering no The horses were reposing in the stable. Jim I recken - that stole a elegant pain, no inflamination has set in and his Here and there one met grooms, or teeth are in good condition. He was derlies in undress uniform lounging in thoroughly under the influence of ether the vicinity of the kitchens, or some garduring the operation. The operation is dener in red puntaloons tranquilly drawprincipal walks. The dining hall, the windows of which Sweet odors for the bath and the toilet opened upon the steps, displaying a table are of three kinds—the floral, the aromal half cleared away, uncorked bottles, soiled and empty drinking vessels, look-ing wan on the rumpled cloth—all the ers and plants, the second those derived fag end of a dinner deserted by the from musks and resins, the third those derived from leaves and gums. The otto, heard the sound of voices, of laughter, heard the sound of voices, of laughter, of rolling billiard balls, of clinking glasses. The marshal was playing his game, and that was why the army was awaiting orders. When the marshal had once commenced his game the heavens might fall, but nothing on earth could prevent him from finishing it. Billiards! The game was this great warrior's weakness. He stood there, as grave as in battle, in full uniform, his breast covered with decorations, his eyes sparkling and his eyeballs inflamed by the dinner, de-camp surrounded him, eager and respectful, uttering exclamations of admiration at each of his shots. When the marshal made a point they all precipiweather stained overcoats vainly waiting somber groups beneath the rain.

The marshal's opponent was a captain on the staff, belted, with curled hair phia Enquirer. beaten too easily. He was, as they say, an officer with a future before him.

It was truly an interesting game. The Persons who read the reports of the balls sped, kissed and crossed their colnumber of pieces of mail matter handled ors. Suddenly a cannon flash shot across at the New York postoffice may have the sky and a nonow report made the wondered how the figures were obtained. | window panes rattle. The officers started The explanation is simple: Every piece and looked at each other uneasily. The was actually counted. Every employer marshal alone had seen nothing, had who stamps mail matter must keep an heard nothing. Bent over the billiard accurate account of the number of pieces table he was combining a magnificent draw shot. Draw shots were his forte. But another flash came, then another. The cannon reports multiplied. The tell what part was in each of the four aids-de-camp ran to the windows. Were "Well, let them attack!" said the marshal, chalking his cue. "Your turn ing so calmly before the billiard table at the very moment of action. Meanwhile, the uproar redoubled. With the cannon shots were mingled the roar of the mitrailleuses and the roll of the platoon musketry. A red smoke, black at the edges, mounted from the extremity of the grass plats. All the lower part of the park was in flames. The frightened peacocks and pheasants clamored in the aviary. The Arab horses, scenting the powder, pranced in the stables. The headquarters commenced to grow excited, Dispatch followed dispatch. Cou-manded the marshal.

C.A.SNOW&CO.

"Your turn to play, captain." unbent faces abandoned to slumber.
Rain, mud, no fire, no soup, a black and threstening sky, and the enemy on all confused, forgot his caution, and made What two shots which nearly gave his oppo-nent the game. This time the marshal grew furious. Surprise and indignation burst forth on his manly visage. Just at this moment a horse tore into the something. The masked mitraillenses stared fixedly at the horizon. Everything seemed ready for an attack. Why steps at a bound. "Marshal! Marshal!" he shouted. He met with a rough reception. Swelling with rage and purple in the face the marshal appeared at the window, his billiard cue in his hand. -"What is the matter?" he said. "What is it? Is there no sentinel on duty?" "But, marshal"-

"Very good - presently. Let them await my orders!"

And he closed the window violently. Let them await his orders.

They were doing that, the poor men The wind drove the rain and shot full in their faces. Whole battalions were exsion, even and green, and bordered with terminated, while others stood useless, their weapons in their hands, unable to comprehend the reason of their inactivity. There was nothing for them to do. They were awai ing orders. But as one can die without orders, the men fell dead by hundreds, behind the bushes, in the ditches, before the silent grand chateau. Even when fallen shot tore them still. and from their gaping wounds the generous blood of France flowed noiselessly.

Above in the billiard hall things were coming to terribly close quarters, also. The marshal had resumed his advance, but the captain defended himself like a lion. "Seventeen! eighteen! nineteen! Scarcely had they time to mark the The noise of the battle came to make. Already bombs had reached the park. One exploded over the pond. The mirrorlike surface was convulsed, the last shot. Then an oppressive silence. Nothing phonse Dandet. Pittsburg's Favorite "Smokers." "Talking about that apology for a smoke the Pittsburg stogie reminds me of a peculiar experience I had with that article some years ago," said an old time cigar drummer at the Continental hotel. "I was traveling for a Philadelphia house that made a fine line of goods only, and had met only with indifferent success. I was looking forward to Pitts-burg as a kind of El Dorado, and imagined sales of great magnitude in the Smoky City. "I arrived in the evening and immediperous looking cigar store, but I noticed that among the stock the stogie seemed to predominate. I presented my card to the proprietor, talked up my stock and firm to him in great shape, but did not seem to be making any great headway. The proprietor assured me that he was full up, but said he would look over my samples the following morning if I would step in. While I was talking to him and endeavoring to prolong the conversation. a gentleman walked in who immediately impressed me as being one of the solidmen of the town. He had that unmistakable sleek and well fed air of fortune's favorite. Walking up to the counter he selected four stogies and lighted one, laid down a five cent piece and walked out. "'Do you know who that is? asked the proprietor of me. I replied in the negative. 'Why, that's Phipps, Andrew Carnegie's partner, was the astounding assertion. I was completely flabbergasted. That was the mutest and yet the most convincing argument I ever had to withstand. Without a word I closed up my grips and took the next train out of town. I had come to the very natural conclusion that if men worth $20,000,000 took their smokes at four for five I did not stand much show with the plebeian smokers."-Philadel-

Probably you never heard of it before, but the water of the Gulf stream is confidently believed by certain old people on Staten Island to be a sovereign remedy for disorders of the stomach. They drink half a glassful after each meal, smack their lips, and in about three days they get well. So they say. So pilots and other seafaring men who get out to the Gulf stream are frequently importuned to bring in jugs of the gulf water for the invalids. There is a saloon keeper. down there whose faith in this sort of thing is unlimited, and he has been besieging for about three years a certain pilot of his acquaintance to bring him in some of the water. But the pilot always forgot.

The other day, however, he tickled the old man almost to death by bringing: him three jugs of the precious liquid. The saloon keeper began to brace up at once, and three days later he chased the pilot half way around the island to overwhelm him with gratitude. "So it did you good, did it?" says the "Good?" says the old man. "Why, bless you, my boy, it has added ten years ; to my life. I feel like a youngster again, I'll bet I can beat you in a foot race

And the pilot did not smile nor jibe nor jeer. But when the flood tide had been running about an hour that even ing he went softly down to the end of Stapleton pier, drew out a tin buckets and dipped up about a gallon of the limpid stream. And the next morning the saloon keeper was overjoyed to get two more jugs of Gulf stream water from his thoughtful friend.

"It's kind of a shabby trick," says the bit her to make her let him go, when he spectable?

Sew to the top of the spring house, and stood there chattering his discontent at such rough handling.

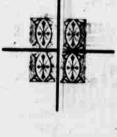

business for something that is semi-respectable?

Such rough handling.

Description of a shabby trick," says the pilot apologetically, "but as long as the pilot apologetically, "but as long as there are buckets handy around Staple-direct from Independence to destination at lowest rates of E, C. Pentland.

The kind of a shabby trick," says the pilot apologetically, "but as long as there are buckets handy around Staple-direct from Independence to destination at lowest rates of E, C. Pentland.

Herald.

INDEPENDENCE is in the Center.

YOU "CATCH ON."