A PROFITABLE INVESTMENT.

According to uncontroverted statements the capital stock of the Western Union Telegraph Co. in 1858 was $358,700. The stock dividends declared between 1858 and 1866 amounted to $17,810,146, and the stock issue for new lines was $1,937,950; so that the capital stock on July 1, 1866 was $20,133,800. In 1866 new stock was created to the amount of $20,450,500; so that the total capital of the Western Union on the 1st of July, 1867, was $40,568,300. The largest dividend declared by the company up to 1874 was 414 per cent. The largest amount of stock ever divded at one time was $10,000,000, and for a period of seven years the dividends were about 100 per cent. a year on its average capital. It was by adding dividends to dividends, and by piling the one up on top of the other that this tremendious amount of $46,000,000 of capital and debt was created. The history of the company shows no change of policy. In '74 the company bought up its own stock and the stock of other telegraph companies and accumulated a fund of over $15,000,000, which was held in one shape or another in the treasury of the company. An investment of $1,000 in 1858 in Western Union stock would have received up to the present time stock dividends of more than $50,000 and cash dividends equal to $100,000, or 300 per cent.; in 1863, 100 per cent.; in 1878, $6,000,000; in 1881, one of $15,000,000 and another of $4,300,000; in 1886, 25 per cent. The Western Union plant, exclusive of its contracts with railroads, could be duplicated for $35, 000,. Its present capital is $85, 960,000. It has realized $100,000,000 of net profit in twenty-five years by its high charges.

FARMERS' ALLIANCE.

Reformers are extremists always, but reforms must come in our government and from no class of people do they come more directly for the common good than from the farmer. The organization of Farmers' Alliances means a resolution in many ways. The ridi cule heaped upon those who hold ideas at variance with those commonly accepted does not prove the ideas to be without value. It has been said that a people cannot govern themselves and that a central power is the only proper one for true freedom. The organization among the farmers is to prove that at least they know by whom the government should be conducted, and while certain classes will seek to place obstacles in the way of the accomplishment of their desires the spirit of independence still burns too freely to be discouraged easily. Reforms are needed, and reforms must come. Let the false ideas of political parties be exploded, and let the laws be made for the bone and sinew of our people, instead of the speculator and politician. We are the people, and our demands must be obeyed. Even though both republican and democratic parties go to the wall, principles founded on justice and right will prevail. The farmers' alliance is not partisan, it is not working for its own advance ment into power, but simply that its ideas of government to benefit the people may be tried. It is a party of principles.

POSTAL TELEGRAPH.

Postmaster General Wanamaker has issued a pamphlet giving in detail his plan for establishing a telegraph system on the same basi as the present postal service.

He recites the demand which is expressed through the boards of trade and other organizations for a postal telegraph. He points out the dangers arising from allowing the government to own the telegraph lines, and his plan is to lease present lines and do government business over them, and allow the company to do as much more as they wish. The payment for messages is to be by stamps on the envelope the same as now, and the charges to commence will be from 15 to 50 cents for twenty words and two cents per word for all in excess of twenty. In order that it may cost the government nothing to try the experiment he proposes that it be limited in its operation to cities having free deliveries only, and later it can be extended. Mr. Wanamaker has struck a good idea and we hope to see his plans put in operation. The present charges are altogether too high.

A writer for the Voice has made a curious calculation one of the possible effects of the bill authorizing the government to loan money on land to the amount of half its value at 2 per cent. interest. He takes Astor, of New York, as an example of what a large land owner could do under the operations of the bill. Estimating his real estates at $100,000,000 Astor could borrow from the government on it $50,000,000 at 2 per cent. Investing this sum in land he could then borrow $25,000,000 and upon the land purchased with that sum he could get $12,000,000, continuing in this way until his loan from the government would be only $12,250. Mr. Astor would then have invested in land $169,987,729. If he received from his tenants rents amounting to six per cent., this would give him an income of $11,999,263. Out of this he would pay the 2 per cent. interest to the government, amounting to $1,999,710, leaving him a clear income of pretty near $10,000,000, instead of the $6,000,000 which he now has. He would thus make $4,000,000 annually, by the plan which the farmers' alliance has proposed for the purpose of putting an end to the money monopoly. This is of course, a fancy sketch, but is not with out signification.

A printer don't go to the doctor every time he is out of "sorts;", nor to the baker every time he is out of "pi;" nor to hell every time he wants to see the "devil;" nor to the wood pile every time he wants a "stick;" nor to the Bible every time he wants a good "rule;" nor to the gun-shop every time he wants a "shooting-stick;" nor to the cabinet shop every time he wants "furniture;," nor to the bank when he wants "quoins;" nor to the lawyer when he has a dirty "case;" nor to the butcher when he wants "phat;" nor to the old cheese when he wants "live matter;" nor to the grave-yard when he wants "dead-matter;" nor does he go fox hunting when he wants a "chase."

Let the government lease the use of our telegraph lines and carry out the idea of letting the post office have a postal telegraph. Let the same system apply in dealing with our railroads. Let the government agree to pay so much for the public use of our railroads. Let the post office department handle the money and all persons traveling can either buy of the post office department or the railroad company. The cost of a ticket any where on the Pacific coast we will say would then be only about $2 50; to Mississippi river about $5 and New York $7.50. The ultimate government of the railroads and telegraph lines will be on that plan.

A twenty dollar gold piece contains twenty dollars of gold, and the alloy thrown in. A silver dollar contains ninety per cent. silver and ten per cent. alloy. It pays the government to coin silver.

H. E. Hayes Lecture to the Farmers.

H. E. Hayes is the grand master of the state grange of Oregon. He is a man who has traveled much and sees in the present condition of the farmer need of a great change. He spoke in the opera house Monday evening. His chief points made were that the farmers should organize and demand their rights and that one of those rights was a relief from the present depressing condition of affairs. That we are in need of more circulating medium and that the government should provide us with it. That we should have the free coinage of Silver. That the government could loan money directly to the people under proper limitations. That the many objections urged against the government loaning money on real estate security would vanish when investigated. That in order to carry out these needed financial measures for the relief of the farmers that the farmers send farmers as representative to our legislature and congress, and until they do, no legislation strictly for the farmers need be expected. The lecture was listened to with marked attention.

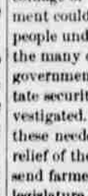
Spreading for Leagues Around

The marshy, overflowed lands, sunken lots and half submerged river banks, which give them birth, the seeds of malaria impregnate the air, and are inhaled at every breath by thousands unprovided with any adequate safeguard against the baneful influence. Yet such exist—potent alike to remedy or to prevent, pure in its constituents, and the professionally recognized substitute for the hateful drug, quinine. Its name is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a family specific and safeguard, foremost not only as an antidote to malaria, but also as a means of permanently removing dyspepsia, and relieving constipation, liver complaint, rheumatism, kidney and bladder ailments, and nervousness. Among invigorants it takes the first place, and is also a superb appetizer. Use it systematically.

A QUAKER'S DOZEN.

Richard Stege, the well known proprietor of the Quaker Dairy, No. 30 Ellis St., San Francisco, last week sent the following letter to the Edwin W. Joy Co.



"My family have been taking Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla now for months with splendid results. Our experience has been that after taking it regularly for a short time and getting the system started right, an occasional dose thereafter keeps the system in perfect condition. A peculiarity of your vegetable compound inexplicable to me is, that it does not lose its effect, but seems to accomplish the same results continuously. As a liver and bowel regulator and corrective it is perfection. We would not be without it in our house. In fact I have just bought dozen bottles to get the reduced price."

A. M. Rowe, of 823 Jones street, S. F., also writes that it has been his habit for years to awake in the mornings with a headache and an exhausted feeling; but since the first bottle he has had no return of his old time debilitating headaches.

BEET SUGAR.

Claud Spreckels, who has a controlling interest in the successful beet sugar factory at Watsonville, California, is nearly ready, your committee are informed; to erect an other beet root sugar factory in another part of California. The Watsonville factory is an investment of $500,000; it turned out during the short beet season of sixty days last year forty tons raw sugar from a consumption of 400 tons beets per day, or for the season 2,200 short tons of sugar. If run for the full season of one hundred and twenty days, it would have produced 4,400 tons or nearly 5,000,000 pounds. The factory is so built that now with an outlay of about $50,000 this capacity can be increased to an output of 7,500 tons, strictly number one raw sugar, if run the full season of one hundrred and twenty days, and then sugar should be produced at 3 cents per pound: the present price is 3¼ cents.

At Grand Island, Nebraska. the Oxnard Beet Sugar Factory has lately started with a capacity of 350 tons of beets per day. At Chino, California, San Bernardino county, the owner of 10,000 acres of beet producing soil offered a bonus of 2,000 acres to responsible parties starting a factory there. A factory is there being built with expected capacity of five hundred tons beets daily. It is expected that the production of beet sugar in the United States for 1891 will be at least double what it was in 1890, when its estimated total product was between five thousand and six thousand short tons or about 12,000,000 pounds against imports last year of beet sugar amounting to 563,206,600 pounds, or nearly fifty times as much as our own production. Germany alone shipped us 512,100,240 pounds with a valuation of $25,600,512.

SUPPLY OF CANE SUGAR.

The best cane sugar years our country ever had were 1854, 1859 and 1862, when the domestic yield was in 1854, 495,156,000 pounds; 1859, 427,962,150 pounds; in 1862, 528,321,500 pounds, or in these years about three-fourths of the import, while for the season of 1889-90 they were but 275,000,000 pounds against importations of all sugars the same year of 2,632,447,440 pounds. This country will never be able to raise from the cane sufficient sugar to satisfy the sweet taste of her people. It is estimated by one of our heaviest dealers in sugar that Portland alone consumes and distributes over 25'000,000 pounds per annum. This is nearly all cane sugar, although a little beet sugar is shipped here from California and sold with as great satisfaction as the other. If this twenty-five million pounds could be manufactured in Oregon, it would open up to beet sugar cultivation over eight thousand acres of land; give the farmer a return of over $550,000; establish five sugar factories, each having a capacity as large as the one now in Alvarado, and employ several hundred persons besides those in the field. There is, besides, the increased value of the land to the farmer. According to Mr. Dyer, land at Alverado will rent cash in advance, for sufficient to pay interest and taxes on land worth $300 per acre. Another correspondent from the same place writes that land for beet growing is worth $350 per acre. Mr. Oxnard, a large American producer of beet sugar, says that in Europe wherever the beet is grown the selling value of the land has increased in the noticable way; experiments every where in sugar beet culture prove this, and the more successful the Oregon farmer proves to be in knowing and practicing the methods of plant cultivating and harvesting the beets, which are matters of vital importance, the higher in value will be the beet produce, the greater will be the increase in the value of his land, and the sooner will a factory be built to take his product. The best substitute yet for cane sugar is sugar from the well-cultvated sugar beet. According to Senator Paddock in his speech before the United States Senate last year, the beet sugar industry is more important than any twenty others in in this country. This beet can be grown to better advantage in our state than in any other section of the United States.

Aesop has told us the tale of a mule which, from overfeeding, galloped about and felt gay, saying to himself: "My father, surely, was a high-mettled racer, and I am his own child in speed and spirit." Next day he was sick and weary; he then exclaimed: "I must have made a mistake; my father, after all, could have been only an ass." A man, after eating a good dinner, may feel extravagantly joyous; but next day (I don't mean you to infer he feels like an ass) he is surly and grim, his stomach and liver are sluggish, he is morose, despondent and "out of sorts" generally. For Indigestion, Biliousness and all derangements of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is an unequaled Remedy. I have been troubled many years with disease of the kidneys and have tried many different remedies and have sought aid from different physicians without relief. About the 15th of April I was suffering from a very violent attack that almost prostrated me in such a manner that I was bent over. When I sat down it was almost impossible for me to get up alone, or to put on my clothes, when kind Providence sent Dr. Henley, with the OREGON KIDNEY TEA, to my hotel. I immediately commenced using the tea. It had an almost miraculous effect, and to the astonishment of all the guests at the hotel, in a few days, I am happy to state, that I was a new man. Nothing Succeeds Like Success

So said Bulwer, that greatest of Novelists, and he never spoke more truly, and he might have added with equal force, that merit is the essence of success. Wisdom's Robertine is the synonym of merit, and its history is success. The magical effects of this preparation have been attested by thousands of the leading ladies of society and the stage. It is the only article ever discovered which gives a Natural and Beautiful tint to the complexion, at the same time removing all roughness of the face and arms and leaving the skin soft, smooth and velvety. It has long been the study of chemists to produce an article that while it would beautify the complexion would also have the merit of being harmless, but these two important qualities were never brought together until combined in
