The salmon packing industry on the Columbia river is in a very unsatisfactory condition. Fish sold in advance is now being delivered at a loss. The season is so far advanced that packers desist from getting enough fish to fill the canneries. The canneries on an average have packed 40 to 60 per cent less than at this date last year and some 90 per cent less. The river has been rising for some time but the expected run of fish has not come and they are getting scarce. There is a bare possibility that the packers in catch up but many consider this an off year for the Columbia river and say the pack will not exceed that of 1890. Returns from eighteen packing companies show the amount of the salmon packed to date is $1,300 cases, against 146,000 cans on June 1 last year.

In localities exposed to the north cork is better than in those exposed to the south, and it is seldom found in calcareous soil, preferring always that of the felspar, this being found principally in the province of Georgia. ## ITEMS FOR OUR FARMERS.

Nicely cured beef is an addition to the dinner table at any time and it is an economical article of food especially on the farm, where very often a beef is killed and there is no sale for all of it and it can be saved by corning. For small quantities the following plan is said to be excellent: Cut the beef in small pieces, leaving out the large bones, pack in a six-gallon crock with a weight on top. Pour over the beef boiling hot brine made as follows: Two gallons of water, three pounds of salt, one ounce of salt-petre, a pound of sugar and two large spoonfuls of soda.

After two weeks, heat and skim the brine, and repeat the process whenever you think necessary, but never put the brine on hot after the first time. If the weather is hot you can add a handful of salt and soda at any time, and like all pickling be sure that the brine covers the beef. If packed in a barrel a large cloth should be tied over it in summer, to secure it from flies.

The new firm of Patterson Bros. is a large dealer in watches, clocks and jewelry. They have received a dainty line of ladies' watches in silver and gold. Lady school teachers should consult them, as they offer extra inducements.

One of our farmer friends, in speaking of labor saving devices for the farm said that he once saw a wood box which struck him as a savior of labor, and in 24 hours he had one. The idea consisted in having half the box built in the farmhouse kitchen and the other half extending into the woodshed. Enough wood can be thrown from the shed into the box to last several days, and there is no dirt packed into the house. A neat cover built over the box in the kitchen keeps the wood out of sight and can be used as a seat near the stove. Another convenience is a table against the wall of the kitchen which can be folded up when not in use, thus saving the room which a table would occupy. A wide board is all that is necessary and a pair of hinges.

Mr. J. M. Staats, who raised and is the present owner of Jay M., a thoroughbred horse, a son of the celebrated Altamont, will be in Independence (Thursday, Friday and Saturday of each week.

There is no garden but could be much improved by a good thorough being, and the time of year that the garden needs the stirring of the soil is just when the warm dry weather commences. The man who cultivates the soil in the garden continually has always a better crop than the one who is satisfied with a hard surface. The benefits from a loose soil is often as great as from expensive manuring. Those who will try the experiment of frequent being, and no manure on the soil, and an abundance of manure and no hoeing, will find of the two that the former plan is preferable. In the growing season all the rain that falls is needed by the crops, and a loose soil keeps the rain, which the hard soil allows to run off.

Remember when in Salem to call in at Strong's restaurant, now Westcott & Irwin, and get a meal not to be excelled on the Pacific coast for 25 cents, at 271 Commercial street.

Mr. Hirschberg says the only successful method of getting rid of stumps and trees on a farm is to dig them out roots and all, but it is said that an easy and successful way of getting rid of the big stumps is to bore a hole into the stump, two inches in diameter and 18 inches deep. Do this in the fall, and fill with a concentrated solution of salt-petre, and plug up to keep out water. By spring it will have permeated every part. Then fill the hole with kerosene, set on fire, and the whole stump, it is said, will be consumed, even to the roots. The ashes remain to fertilize the soil, and there is scarcely any labor connected with the operation. It is, at least, worth trying.

We have heard it stated quite often lately that Oregon is not a natural dairy country, and that farmers are to be excused for allowing butter from the east to be shipped in to compete successfully with the home article. Our informant says the natural peculiarities of Oregon are deficient in the peculiar juices necessary to make butter, therefore the farmer that attempts butter making, as a business, will fail. If the gentleman is correct the sooner we find it out the better. We wish to hear from some of our readers on the subject.

When moss is allowed to accumulate on the roofs of buildings the decay of the roof takes place much sooner, and an excellent plan is to keep the moss scraped off. When moss has accumulated it may be removed in the following simple manner: Sprinkle lime freely along the comb of the roof and let the rain dissolve it, and carry over the shingles. Every particle of moss and dirt can be removed by it. When shingles are kept clean they last much longer. Newly laid roofs if treated in the same way are much benefited.

WANTED.—Farm lands, acre tracts, town lots, anywhere in Polk county. Will take nothing for sale without a contract, but will give close attention to every piece so contracted. No property taken at higher than market prices, and we can get you better prices than you can yourself.
