FRIDAY, JUNE 29, 1891.

When a man is doing the very best he knows how, and prospects are bright for success, what is the use of worrying? It simply makes him all around uncomfortable.

Portland having gained the consolidation battle, through and through, and the city being cleared of the "bosses," we may look for a millennium in Oregon. Portland is Oregon. Portland is politically pure, therefore Oregon is politically pure.

The city council at its next meeting will pass a new sidewalk ordinance, in which all lumber for the surface shall be one and one half inches thick in the rough, and dressed on one side, and the stringers three by six. All sidewalks in the business portion of the city are to be of two-inch lumber.

When a man has everybody owing him, as the banks claim is the case just now with them, and can not get his pay, it makes him feel terribly injured; but when a man owes everybody, and can not pay any of them, how does he feel? We will run the risk of being a banker. You have heard that old saying, "God pity the rich, the poor can beg." It would be a terrible downfall for the rich man to come to poverty.

If the third party is to cut any figure in national politics it cannot continue to mean one thing in the South and another in the West.

CURRENT GOSPI.

If the Itala is searched it is probable that among her crew will be discovered Taseot, Silcott and the man that struck Billy Patterson.

EXAMPLE.

If Russell Harrison doesn't bridle his tongue irreverent people will begin to call him father Old-man-afraid-of-his-son, and the name will be both truthful and appropriate.

Dogs.

Dogs are not the only things that need muzzling at certain periods. Without being in the least personal or calling any names, we believe that there are men whose muzzling would be highly beneficial.

How to Build a Creamery.

There are a number of Philadelphia people who would willingly take the stand to testify against the national bank system, particularly as to the protection given the depositors through government supervision.

The newspaper man who accepts the position of private secretary to a public official not only destroys his usefulness as a journalist, but in nine cases out of ten he injures his future prospects, certainly as a journalist if not financially.

Ex-Senator Mills says Blaine will never be president. Perhaps not; but since Mr. Ingalls made such a bad break in prophesying his own political future his predictions have not been valued as high as they were "once upon a time."

If a certain ancient adage were to be reconstructed it is probable that the sluggard would be told to go to the real estate boomer instead of the ant, for lessons in activity. Certain it is that the average real estate man could give the ant seven points in ten and then beat it out in a game of "rustling."

Farnell's marrying Mrs. O'Shea will not probably restore him to the leadership of the Irish party, but it will give him control of her large fortune, which will doubtless go a long way towards reconciling him, at least that is the effect which money has on most people.

A returned Boston missionary came pretty near striking the bed-rock of truth regarding the American Indian when he recently said: "The best way to solve the Indian problem is not to bother with it at all. Leave them all to the Western people and they will treat the red man fairly and keep him in his place at the same time. Eastern philanthropists, who meddle with affairs of which they have no accurate knowledge, do more harm than good."

There is a disposition in various sections of the country to present costly "testimonials," obtained by passing the hat among the people, to public men. Why should a public man be specially rewarded in this way for doing what he took an oath to do when he accepted office? To foreigners it must appear that as a rule our public men should perform their duties, else why should the people put up their money to buy costly presents for the feasts of their friends.

As a rule the editor gets a thousand kicks to one cures. Once in a while he gets a kind word, and it warms and cheers his weather-beaten, storm-tossed heart to the innermost core. Most people are afraid to tell an editor when he writes an article that particularly pleases them for fear of making him proud, we suppose; but if they find any thing that does not accord precisely with their views they will neglect their business to hunt him up and tell him of it. Pshaw! dear friends, don't think you will spoil the editor by giving him an occasional word of cheer any more than you will spoil your child by complimenting her upon a piece of patchwork she has finished. Of course you could beat the job yourself, but that does not deter you from heaping words of encouragement upon the child. It has done its best. So you could doubtless beat the average editor at running a paper! Of course you can. The man does not live who can't beat an editor at running a paper. The editor is willing to acknowledge that you can. He only does it because you have not the time to; but this fact need not deter you from giving him a word of encouragement occasionally.

A newspaper, if it has any brains, conscience and muscle back to it, must continually decide between doing its duty and injuring its pocket. In any position but that of an editor the public is able to separate the individual home from punishment seldom fits the crime.

In China, swindling, no matter what the rank of the swindler, is punishable by death. A member of one of the highest Mandarin families has just been sentenced to be executed because of swindles he perpetrated upon traders of Paris and London, while connected with the Chinese embassy in those cities. This is a law that America would do well to import. Swindling, from the low-down buncy steer to the oily-tongued, high-toned bank president or cashier is entirely too common in this country, and even when its perpetrators are punished, which is not as frequent as it should be, the matter of pipe will also depend on location, for the expense is controlled by the distance. Butter workers, butter boxes and various other articles will cost from $50 to $100, according to quality. With the above figures you can approximately calculate the cost of a good modern dairy.—Ex.
