MORE ABOUT MR. SPURGSON.

Mn. Eprron: In your reply to my note in the West Side of April 1st, you say: "Mr. Spurgeon withdrew a few years ago from the Baptist union, of London, and never returned to it; and we learn that one of the reasons of his withdrawal was in reference to a differ-

That he withdrew from the union nd never returned to it is all true, but as to "one of the reasons of his withdrawal being the communion question," if you mean by that that the union was Patterson Bros. are having their store too restricted for him. I question the correctness of your position. The unlon was Haptist only in name, formed ehiefly for missionary purposes, and was controlled largely by those holding views differing from Raptists, and peculiar to the "new theology," so called. Among them were many Unitarians, and Mr. Spurgeon tried to free the union of those holding such views; failing to do so, he said: "I cannot affiliate with men in mission work who preach the false doctrine that my Lord was only a good man." What information have you that the Lord's supper was ever observed in the union, or even discussed! If it was never obtwo of St. Patrick's pills.
