THE Salem Statesman contains a recent decision by the supreme court of Oregon which will interest a great many persons, and at the same time cause us to study the question of the justice of laws which can work such an injury to a feeble old man as in the case mentioned. In 1872 one J Morrison living in Wasco county, being 62 years of age and no longer able to do much work, decided that he would give all his services, such as they were, to his son-in-law, on an understanding that he should be cared for until his death. Before his death the son-in-law died and the heirs refused to fulfill the contract. Suit was brought for breach of contract and won, but taken to the supreme court and upon technicalities reversed and a new trial ordered. There are many similar cases where the children prove ungrateful and show their ungratitude to indulgent parents. They are always sad cases to contemplate.

THE earth (or rather the use of the earth) naturally and rightfully belongs to each and every human being born into this world, says a writer in the St. Louis Courier. The right to unobstructed access to the soil, the passive factor in the production of wealth, is as sacred, as inalienable, as truly God given, to each human being, as is his or her right to breathe the air, use the light of sun, moon and stars, or quench physical thirst with nature's purest beverage. On this rock of truth, the single tax plants its feet and boldly defies the world, the flesh and the devil of human nature. If this is not justice, then is there no such a thing as justice in the universe.

WITH the increased valuations of property under the new law, there will be large accessions to the school fund. With increased population there will be more schools and more teachers needed. The wise expenditures of these moneys will require the careful attention of our best business and professional men. The city, the public, the growing childhood of this day and generation, demands that the best thought and purpose of our best men and women to be given to our schools. There is no politics in our school management and should not be. But there is a great responsibility, even if there are no emoluments.—Salem Journal.

THE income which the telephone company receives from Independence Monmouth and Dallas will probably reach $250 a month, of which at least $200 is clear profit. The amount of their taxable property in each town will not reach over $200. If the income from the three towns reaches $2000 a year why should the company not pay some proportion of that as taxes? Judge Brewer of the United States Supreme court has decided that cities can charge rental on the poles in the streets, and it would seem as though some such method must be employed in this case.

WE publish elsewhere the decision of Judge Brewer on the use of streets for telegraph and telephone poles. At last a method of taxing such corporations has been found, and it is founded on justice. If some poor man leaves a cord of wood in the streets a few days he is compelled to remove it; but these rich companies could have poles all over the country and pay nothing for the privilege.

THE suggestion made by the editor of the Monmouth Record, that this is a good country for a starch factory will bear investigation. Let the potatoes raisers have someone go East and investigate the best methods and latest inventions, and apply them here.

THE Mill Creek portion of Polk county ought to be annexed to Yamhill county. Sheridan is their nearest trading point and McMinnville is a nearer county seat than Dallas.—Sheridan Sun.

THERE goes Bro. Guild in another one of his mad hallucinations—Transcript.

THE trouble up in that neck of the woods, is that the people there are wanting another county with either Ballston, Perrydale or Sheridan as a county seat, and the pretended inconvenience of getting to a county seat either in Polk or Yamhill, cuts but little figure.

MANUFACTURING ENTERPRISES.

Independence Possesses Many Such Valuable Improvements.

One, standing most prominently among the numerous manufacturing enterprises of the city of Independence is that of the amply equipped and long established sawmill of Messrs. Prescott & Veness. Here we are called upon by our own convictions to state that these gentlemen merit more than ordinary commendation for the manner in which they have so successfully carried forward their business under many adverse difficulties, their first mill being swept away by the high water of the Willamette in February, 1890. With no exaggeration, theirs is the best equipped, most successfully and satisfactorially conducted lumber manufacturing establishment on the upper Willamette river. They cut and carry on hand at all times a quality of lumber as good, if not superior, to any mill in the valley. Additions and better facilities for the progress of their establishment, which now bears an enviable reputtation, are constantly being added which raises the estimation of their industry to a lofty elevation in the minds of an appreciative public. The latest, and perhaps the most important, valuable acquisition to their already quite complete establishment is that of a dryhouse, capable of holding 30,000 feet of lumber which will bear a few words of explanation. The dimensions of the building are 22x32 with an 18-foot wall. Underneath the storing department is placed a large boiler which is kept constantly heated, from which the hot air passes upward through the carefully stacked lumber drying it sufficiently to be dressed, in the brief time of one week. From the dressing machinery the lumber is taken to a large shed where it is so stored as to render the work of obtaining a particular piece a very light task. Messrs. Prescott & Veness are the manufacturers of a superior quality of finishing and dimension lumber and are prepared to fill any order on reasonably short notice. The capacity of their mill is 25,000 feet per day and gives almost constant employment to from 20 to 25 men. Besides their establishment at this place they are conducting the only logging camp in this vicinity, on the Luckiamute, from whence comes the finest quality of logs to be seen in this part of Oregon. From this stream came 4,000,000 feet of saw timber which is on hand at this place to be utilized in supplying the demands of the surrounding section. Their plant at this place represents the outlay of about $16,000, besides several thousand dollars invested in the logging camp, which gives employment to 15 or 20 men and to which all their supplies are taken from this city. If an enterprise in our midst deserves patronage and commendation it is the lumber manufacturing establishment of Prescott & Veness.

Nature's Surest Ally.

If nature did not struggle against disease, even in weakly constitutions, swift indeed would be the course of a malady to its fatal termination. While nature thus struggles let us, lest worse befall us, aid her efforts with judicious medicinal help. Experience must be our guide in battles with disease, and that "lamp to our feet" indicates Hostetter's Stomach Bitters as a safe, tried and thorough ally of nature. If the blood be infected with bile, if the bowels and stomach are inactive, if the kidneys fail to expel impurities of which they are the natural outlet a course of the Bitters is the surest reliance of the sufferer, one, moreover, that is sanctioned by professional indorsement and use for nearly half a century. No American or foreign remedy has earned greater distinction as a remedy for and preventive of chronic liver complaint, malaria, constipation, kidney and rheumatic trouble and debility.

Steady Progress

Has characterized Hood's Sarsaparilla ever since it was placed before the public. Wherever introduced its sales have grown from year to year, until now it is the most popular and successful medicine offered. Any druggist will confirm this statement. The secret of this success lies in the fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla is a medicine of merit. It does actually accomplish all that is claimed for it, and when given a fair trial, is reasonably certain to be of benefit.

Positive Statements.

"Since Hood's Sarsaparilla has been in my hands for sale I have had frequent and unreserved testimonials in its favor. Although carrying this preparation for less than one year, my sales have been greater than of any similar preparation, and the testimonials in its favor are at once positive and personally noticeable." A. WAGNER, Healdsburg, Cal.

Sells On Its Merits.

"My boys say, 'Papa, why don't you buy more of Hood's Sarsaparilla at a time: we are always short.' It sells on its own merits." F. BEAL, Portland, Oregon; the oldest druggist in Oregon.
