Smallness of Historic Places.

The strongest impression made upon the American traveling in Europe for the first time is usually astonishment at the small size of the historic places which he has so longed to see.

The royal chamber where the grande monarchie received brilliant crowds of courtiers, foreign diplomats and nobles before rising is too small to satisfy an independent Irish-American cook who knows her rights in this country.

The apartment of Mary, queen of Scots, at Holyrood, still garnished with her mirror and bed draped with gold embroidery, is still more cramped, while the supper room in which Rizzio was murdered is but a narrow, dingy closet, reached by tiny winding stairs such as usually lead to a garret.

The dwellings of the great Scotch dukes and earls in Edinburgh in ancient times were reached for the most part through dark, steep alleyways or closes not three feet wide, and the homes of the great races of Hamilton, Moray and Eglington were smaller, darker and more uncomfortable than those of an American mechanic today.—Youth's Companion.

Four Rich Men.

Countless young men who coveted everything of the late Jay Gould except his coffin may be surprised to learn that Mr. Gould generally wanted and needed money quite as much as they. Property isn't money, as many able business men have often learned to their cost and misery.

Chauncey M. Depew is credited with the statement that the late William H. Vanderbilt, one of the three richest men in the United States, was always poor and in debt. Many business men can understand this strange statement, though the young men aforesaid will take no stock in it until they become business men themselves.—Harper's Weekly.

Forging Antiquities.

The forgery of antiquities has been a recognized industry in Europe for many years, but it is little known that the famous English "Flint Jack" has his counterpart in this country in one Burnett, "a small, dull, yellow man," as a neighbor described him, who lives on the French Broad river in North Carolina. For a long time he was in the habit of riding to the towns and selling "fake" arrowheads to dealers and visitors, as well as mortars and pestles that had the appearance of having been long buried.

A Method of Procedure.

"Some time ago there was a bank failure at Dallas," said Alex Somers of Temple, Tex., at the St. James. "There was a pompous, ignorant man who was one of the bank's directors at the time of its suspension. He was seen coming down the steps from the directors' room immediately after the doors of the bank had been closed, and an anxious depositor buttonholed him and asked: 'Now, what are you going to do for us creditors? How much shall we get?'"

Some Old Style Hats.

The gold laced cocked hat was largely used in 1778, not only on account of its military look, but because it probably protected the wearer from seizure by the press gangs, which were at that time more than usually active. The flat, folding, crescent shaped beaver known as the cocked hat was still to be seen in 1818.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Disagreeable Situation.

"—If you're engaged to marry, do you really love him?—Oh, yes. And, what's better, the other girls love him."—Rock Herald.

How We Grow Old.

The thread that binds us to life is most frequently severed ere the meridian of life is reached in the case of persons who neglect obvious means to renew falling strength. Vigor, no less the source of happiness than the condition of long life can be created and perpetuated where it does not exist. Thousands who have experienced or are cognizant—including many physicians of eminence—of the effects of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, bear testimony to its wondrous efficacy as a creator of strength in feeble constitutions, and debilitated and shattered systems. A steady performance of the bodily functions, renewed appetite, flesh and nightly repose attend the use of this thorough and standard renovant. Use no local toxic represented to be akin to or resemble it in effects in its place. Demand the genuine, which is an acknowledged remedy for indigestion, malaria, nervousness, constipation, liver and kidney complaints and rheumatism.
