THE HOME NEWSPAPER.
 MORNING EDITION.
 The remonstrances against giving advertising of their towns to "outside" publications of questionable influence, which are seen in the columns of Western Washington papers at present, are justifiable and well taken. When a local newspaper is not good enough to herald a town's advantages abroad, there is something wrong with the town. The newspaper is to a very great extent what the community makes it; and by reason of its representative capacity, the community has a measure of responsibility toward it. The people who will not help make a good paper for their town must not complain if they are held in low esteem by the outside world. The home paper, properly supported, not particularly by advertising patronage, but in a hundred ways of kindness and of service which costs nothing, is always the best possible medium for advertising its locality, because it will be bright, new, and will be read by intending settlers and capitalists as a truer index to the town's social and business life than any other printed matter could be. The proprietor always spends his income to improve his paper. It seems that he can't help it. When he has a few dollars ahead he must get the paper a new dress, or some all-brass galleys, or an improved mailing machine. If a few hundred, he buys a new press, and again puts his nose to the grindstone to get out of debt. When he thinks he sees good times ahead he enlarges his paper and increases his payroll. When money gets scarce again he tries to keep a stiff upper lip, takes wood and potatoes on subscription, works eighteen hours a day, dack slides at the church, defaults at the lodge, forgets his friends and neglects his family. Whatever else he may prove recreant to, with his paper it is always "love, honor and cherish." All the aid and comfort the town gives to its paper goes into it. Subscriptions paid in advance blossom into breezy locals, and half-page ads bring forth double leaded editorials on the new water works and the shipping enroute and the county's wonderful wealth and progress. To tender it generous support is to invite capital; to withhold "tendeth to poverty."

FRIDAY, SEPT. 8, 1893.
 Advertising is to business what steam power is to machinery—the grand motive power.—Marquette.
 There is but one way of obtaining business—publicity; but one way of obtaining publicity—advertising.—Blackwood
 Folk county is the banner county in the raising of hops.
 PRESIDENT CLEVELAND is again in Washington completely restored to health.
 EVERY resident of Polk county should take an interest in the forthcoming county fair.
 THE State Fair is going to be a great attraction this year and the Polk county fair follows it. It will be a great event.
 THE young lady who dons a calico dress and a sun bonnet and goes hop picking, is the kind of a helpmeet a man wants—provided she picks hops.
 We are sincerely glad to know that we are soon to have plenty of confidence as that seems to be a scarcer article under the present administration than anything else.
 WILL our Dallas friends remember how the residents of Independence turned out at the celebration at Dallas July 4th, and reciprocate at our county fair!

The people of this country told the democratic house of representatives to vote against the Sherman purchasing act, and it did it. Now that they are left to themselves they are doing nothing. A party that has not backbone enough to live up to its principles, cannot be trusted to legislate where great issues are involved. This country is in the hands of one man, President Cleveland, and his party awaits his beck and call.
 In Mexico no man can own real estate, or obtain government concessions who is not a resident. We consider Mexico much our inferior in the art of government, but Mexico is ahead of the United States in the law which prevents aliens from controlling her lands, mines, etc. The millions of acres owned in the United States by foreigners are a source of danger to us, and some action should be taken, and the sooner the better.
 THOMAS B. REED, of Maine, in his great speech in congress August 26, has this to say of his party: What we were in the days of our victory, the same we are in the days of defeat—champions of true and solid finance. And when the time comes, as it surely will come, for us to lead this land back to those paths of prosperity and fame, which were trodden under republican rule for so many years, we shall take back with us our ancient glory, undermined by adversity; our ancient honor unsullied by defeat.
 ONE thing the discussion of silver is settling rapidly is this, namely: that if the senate is to be a permanent body senators are to be elected by the people, not by the legislatures of the states. The senate as now constituted does not represent the purposes of the people or the intelligence of the country. Senators are elected through machine methods, through corruption, through chicanery. The senate consequently falls far below the house in honesty, in intelligence, in comprehension of the wants of the country. It is abolishing itself, or changing the manner of its election, very fast.
 We have too many manufacturers, says a prominent democrat; we have too many people here, says a mossback; we want more paper money, says the populist. Give the free trade democrat his way and we will have less laborers; less laborers means less people and will please the mossback, less people means more money per capita, hence the populist is happy. The poor deluded republican wants America to do all its manufacturing, and demand for labor means better prices for labor, and when everybody is at work scarcity of money is not the cry which is heard. The democrats are in power so let them show our people the wisdom of their ideas seconded by the mossback and populist.

As outlined in the WARR SIDE of last week, Evangelists Struble and Sickafoose are to begin a series of revival meetings in this city. The town has been pretty thoroughly billed with posters during the week, announcing the dedication of the big tent which these gentlemen have just secured in Portland and at the time we go to press the evangelists are on the ground busily engaged in pitching the huge canvas, fling seats, the platform, and other accessories of the big meetings which they confidently expect to hold in this city. The great canvas church has a seating capacity of 1,000, or twice that of the largest church edifice in the city. The platform for the singers and speakers will be ample for the accommodation of a large number. "All the singers of the city," said the evangelists, "are cordially invited to seats upon the platform. The Gospel Hymns No. 4, will be used in all the services. Those having copies are urged to bring them."
 The formal dedication of the big tent is announced for 11 a. m. next Sunday, at which time the consecration sermon will be preached by Rev. George Sickafoose, father of the evangelist, and a minister of many years' standing. Following the sermon there will be a basket dinner to be eaten under cover of the big canvas. There will undoubtedly be a large attendance, not only from the city, but from all parts of the county, and the day may confidently be looked forward to as a red letter occasion in religious circles. Services will be interspersed during the day quite freely, as may be seen from the following programme, copied verbatim from the printed posters:
 7:00 a. m.—Knee drill.
 10 a. m.—Song service and testimonies.
 11 a. m.—Sermon by Rev. George Sickafoose.
 12:00 m.—Basket dinner in the big tent.
 3 p. m.—Bible reading.
 7:30 p. m.—Revival service, preceded by song and praise service.
 The last named service will be the initial one of a series to be held under the direction of these evangelists. While these gentlemen are both ministers of the M. E. church, they wish it thoroughly understood that they are with us to preach the plain gospel and to persuade men to become Christians. The matter of church membership will be left entirely to the discretion of the convert. Every pastor in the city, together with the workers of his church, will be cordially welcome to the services and accorded the privileges of laborers for the salvation of souls. We trust this movement may have abundant success.
