The phrenologist and stereopticon show which was here last week did not stop at Independence as it would have had to pay a license. Our officials should have made them pay a license the same as other towns do. Yes, why didn't they pay a license?

The beginning of the final examinations at the Normal commences next Saturday, and you can see nnmerous students walking along solitarily with an open book in their hands, pouring over its contents, and every little while you will hear them exclaim, "I do wish that final was past!"

Chas. Miller, who lives a few miles south of here, brought to town Monday a very beautiful specimen of an owl, but no one was able to name the species. Its back and wings are of a light yellow sprinkled with dark grey Kidney Tea is no experiment, and not a and its breast was very near white except a few dots of light grey. It wings measured very near three feet from tip to tip. From its heavy coat of feathers it is probable that it came from the northern regions. Mr. Miller captured it in his barn.

A Serious Aceldent.

Last Saturday as Clark Teale was drawing wood to the second story at the Normal building, he accidentally let loose of the handle of the windlass and was hit on the cheek bone by the handle, being rendered unconscious for an hour, it being thought his cheek bone fractured. Dr. Poole was called immediately and dressed the wound, At last accounts Mr. Teale is resting easily and is improving as rapidly as could be expected after receiving such a heavy blow.
