Proof Demanded.

The Enterprise of the 15th Inst coutains a scurrilous article whose author claims to be an ex-republican. The denunciation and villainous epithets applied to the republican party are so giaringly false that it hardly seems possible a man who was once a republican could find it in his heart to say to many mean things about his old associaties, consequently I am led to believe that this ex-republican is none other than a simon-pure democrat.

Passing his attacks on his beloved party by, for they are unworthy of notice, I desire to call him to time in his quotation from our lamented Lincoln. A great many things are published these days and are accepted as truths, when a little investigation would con vince the reader that the writer was in error. The alleged quotation of Mr. Lincoln was so inharmonious with Mr. Lincoln's writings that I have made a
