THE SILVER STAR RISING.

(East Oregonian.)

As everybody knows, there is a great popular leaning toward "free silver," or more accurately speaking the coinage of silver by the government on equal terms with gold.

Notwithstanding, it is the wrong step to take—in fact, a step backward—it is going to be taken because popular enthusiasm is behind it, and office seekers and politicians are always susceptible to the popular will, no matter how far wrong it may be.

Notwithstanding, it is the wrong step to take—in fact, a step backward—it is going to be taken because popular enthusiasm is behind it, and office seekers and politicians are always susceptible to the popular will, no matter how far wrong it may be.

From an equitable standpoint this is fair and proper. But it will cause a row which will end in both being dethroned. No king's head was ever put in danger until another set claim to his throne.

The long struggle in the house over the Bland bill for the coinage of the silver bullion in the treasury was ended today by the passage of the bill by a vote of 198 to 129.

At its close—and its end must come, because all things have ends—Industry and Enterprise will find all the expense of the "fun and frolic" taxed up to them to be paid at once and in "cold cash," with all the sacrifice and vexation of spirit that means.

"Free silver" has a charming sound about it, yet it means more slavery, more misery more poverty, more shackles, more excess, and, in the end, greater hard time than what is expected from it.

But silver is going to carry the day, be put on a par with gold, because the people have the idea of free coinage thereof fixed in their mind as the great remedy for the ills of the present time and nothing betwixt heaven and earth will or can prevent them from registering their will. MARK THE PREDICTION.

For our part, although opposed to the step as being in the wrong direction, we are willing to abide by the voice of the people, because we firmly believe it to be the voice of God.

It sometimes happens that we cannot reach an object by going directly toward it, so an indirect route has to be taken to reach it. The silver route is indirect, but it may be the only route which will lead to the overthrow of privilege and the establishment of principle.

number, and this is all that semi-blind and stumbling human beings can ever hope to accomplish.

Bland's Bill Passed.

The long struggle in the house over the Bland bill for the coinage of the silver bullion in the treasury was ended today by the passage of the bill by a vote of 198 to 129. The special order to bring the bill to a vote was adopted by a bare quorum immediately after the house convened. This broke the opposition of the filibusters and they were powerless to do anything further. All the amendments offered to the measure by its opponents were defeated. The one which polled the most votes was Outhwaite's amendment to strike out the second section. The bill as passed is in the nature of a substitute for the original text of the measure. The changes, do not affect the material features of the bill, which provide for the coinage of the silver seigniorage in the treasury, the issue of silver certificates thereon, if need be in the discretion of the secretary of the treasury, in advance of the coinage, and thereafter after the coinage, of the remainder of the bullion as fast as practicable and the issue of silver certificates thereon to take the place of treasury notes issued under the Sherman act which are to be retired and canceled as rapidly as the coinage takes place. The changes made in the substitute simply make specific the fact that the seigniorage is to be coined, and that this bill shall not affect the redemption of the treasury notes under the existing law.
