AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. S. P. SMITH, of Towanda, Pa., whose constitution was completely broken down, is cured by Ayer's Sarsaparilla. He writes: "For eight years, I was, most of the time, a great sufferer from constipation, kidney trouble, and indigestion, so that my constitution seemed to be completely broken down. I was induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and took nearly seven bottles, with such excellent results that my stomach, bowels, and kidneys are in perfect condition, and, in all their functions, as regular as clock-work. At the time I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, my weight was only 129 pounds; I now can brag of 169 pounds, and was never in so good of health. If you could see me before and after using, you would want me for a traveling advertisement. I believe this preparation of Sarsaparilla to be the best in the market today."

Ayer's Sarsaparilla Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Cures others, will cure you

PACIFIC COAST ITEMS.

A BRIEF CHRONICLE OF CURRENT NEWS OF IMPORTANCE.

A Bonanza in Dirt—Omnibus Ejects. The Late Senator Stanford Eclogized. Judge Morrow a Hero—County Offices Combined.

Mrs. Lease, the Kansas orator, will soon lecture in California. The Congress mine, near Prescott, A. T., has been sold for $1,500,000.

James Sample Walker, one of the most noted sports of the plains in the early days, died at Stockton recently. Mrs. Peter Jackson, wife of a farmer living near La Gr., died, aged with Ed Randall, a blacksmith. She left three children.

E. C. Smith of Smith's bank at Monterey has been indicted by the grand jury for obtaining property fraudulently.

A beet sugar factory at Anaheim, Cal., is assured. Bonds have been sold and the factory will be in running order in time to handle this year's crop.

Al Collier, an ex-deputy assessor of Los Angeles county, has been arrested on a charge of embezzlement of sums collected while in his official capacity.

The Great Northern has cut wages and caused a strike at Seattle. Carpenters were cut from $29 a month to $24, car repairers from $55 to $45, and their foreman from $75 to $45.

Under an old law providing for the charging of counties for the care and clothing furnished insane criminals, the Stockton asylum authorities have made out claims against several counties aggregating $10,995. The matter will be tested in the courts.

There is much complaint among the orchardists east of Fresno that the birds are picking off the apricot and peach buds to such an extent that they will greatly injure the fruit crop. Some of the farmers have taken to shooting the birds, thus securing from the orchards what they do not kill.

An landslide at the foot of Portland Heights, at the corner of Thirtieth and Jackson streets, Portland, Or., struck the residence of Charles Cardinell, and lifting it from its foundation carried it two blocks, throwing it over an embankment into the street below. Two neighboring cottages were torn from their foundations.

The party organized at Post Falls, Ida., for the rescue of the cook of the Carlin party, the unfortunate George Colgate, is on its return journey down the Clearwater river and is expected to reach Kendrick shortly, having been out for 69 days. They suffered many hardships, but were unable to discover a trace of the deserted cook.

Memorial services in honor of the late Senator Stanford were held at Stanford University a few days ago. Professor Newcomer read an original memorial ode. Ex-President Harrison spoke feelingly of the late senator. Addresses were made by President Jordan, Horace Davis, ex-president of the University of California, and others. Mrs. Stanford was present at the services.

Frederick Witting, who on Aug. 9 of last year eloped from Eureka with Mrs. Nettie Farrar, who took with her her two-year-old son, is in the jail there on a charge of adultery preferred by the husband of the woman, Frank Farrar. The husband by legal proceedings has recovered possession of the child and the woman is left penniless and alone to reflect over her stormy experience.

A sensation was developed in the Bart will case at San Bernardino the other day. A letter said to have been written by the testator's daughter was introduced. It contained suggestions as to the disposal of his property and was written while Bart was on his deathbed. The daughter denies that she wrote the letter, although experts testified that it is in her handwriting.

Frank Matthews, who secured the privilege of working over the dirt and refuse at the old Selby Smelting works at North Beach, San Francisco, has evidently struck a bonanza, judging from the appearance of the bullion, chips, buttons and other material already gathered. The total product, which represents less than two weeks' work, is worth about $1,700, and the total value of the dirt on the site of the works is estimated by Mr. Matthews at from $12,000 to $18,000 or $20,000. He paid only $200 for a three months' privilege.

Horne's motion recommending the purchase of the proprietary of Point Roberts, consisting of four square miles in the straits of San Juan de Fuca, from the United States in exchange for territory adjoining Alaska, passed the British Columbia legislature unanimously and will be sent to the Dominion government. Minister of Finance Turner spoke in favor of the proposal, pointing out that the unrestricted catch of salmon at Point Reyes is a menace to that industry on Fraser river, and stating that at present Point Roberts, being the rendezvous for smugglers, is the source of menace to both countries. This point is contiguous to the mouth of the Fraser river, where the great salmon industry is carried on.

San Diego county has been embarrassed by the decision of the supreme court which declares it illegal to pay for extra clerical hire out of the county funds. For months the county has been trying to provide some way out of the difficulty by employing what is termed "emergency clerks," but all of these were discharged on Feb. 28. The supervisors, by virtue of the amendment of 1893 to the county government act of 1891, have appointed a register of deeds, a clerk of the board of supervisors, a jailer and superior court bailiff, consolidating those offices with those of the recorder, county clerk and sheriff. By this means the compensation of officials is so increased that they can pay for clerical assistance from their own salaries. It is thought that this will result in a saving to the county of $40,000 per annum.

THE NEWS IN BRIEF.

A CONDENSED COMPILATION OF CURRENT EVENTS.

Important News of All Kinds Botted Down and Arranged for Easy People. All Superfluous Words Removed and the Essence of the News Preserved.

The musical critics at Chicago are amazed at the phenomenal range of the voice of Miss Yaw, a young Los Angeles songstress.

Five thousand pounds of giant powder which was stored in Del Monte, Colo., was removed by order of the authorities. It was taken to the mountains and exploded.

Judges Buck and Moore sustained the claim that the Spokane grand jury was illegally drawn and dismissed it as an illegal body. This invalidates all the indictments already found and may be followed by some rather serious results.

A call for the annual convention of the National League of Republican clubs has been issued. The convention will meet in Denver on June 26. Each state will be entitled to 10 delegates—large and four delegates from each congressional district. The total representation will exceed 300.

Captain Clay Whiteley, who as a corporal under General Hunter in June, 1864, was sent with a detail to burn the old homestead of General Stonewall Jackson at Lexington, Va., has returned to the widow of Jackson a small bible taken from Jackson's costly library while the famous residence was in flames. Mrs. Jackson is now living in Charlotte, N. C.

In the federal court at Wichita, Kas.; Judge Williams held that inmates of soldiers' homes, otherwise qualified, could exercise their franchise under the constitution of Kansas at any election held in the precinct in which the home is located. This decides the Populist act of 1883 to be unconstitutional. That act provided that inmates of soldiers' homes were not to be allowed to vote.

In Mrs. Mary Lease the 1,500 people who attended a meeting of the unemployed on at Boston had a speaker after their own hearts. She scored her hearers and said they brought all the trouble on themselves by voting for duties in top hats and kid gloves, and until they vote the ballot to send men of their own kind to the legislature the working people would be snubbed. She told the unemployed if they would only stay at home and mind their babies the women would soon find a road out of this terrible business depression.

The Utah legislative assembly desecrated the Sabbath by remaining in regular session throughout the entire day. The regular legislative session expired by statutory legislation on Thursday, Feb. 8, but the members stopped the clocks in each house at 11:20 o'clock and posted a card over the face of the timepiece on which were the words, "Thursday, March 8." A recess was taken each night, instead of an adjournment. Almost the entire session was wasted in partisan wrangling, leaving the really important legislation to be crowded through after the legal expiration of the session.

Queen Jumbo, the largest elephant in captivity, was sick with the grip at Rockford, Ills. As the animal is valued at $12,000, every effort to save her was made. She was given one dose of medicine which consisted of 10 gallons of whisky. Half a barrel of mustard was used in making plasters with bell quills for the patient. Quinine in one-ounce doses was given frequently. The elephant seemed to realize and appreciate the efforts of her doctors. She was very docile, and would take anything given her. She is now fully recovered.

Mrs. Ellen Boice, at Clarksville, Tenn., attempted the assassination of G. O. Boyd, a colored lawyer of wide reputation. Boyd had trouble with the woman regarding a report that she had circulated against him, and administered the following morning the quarrel was renewed, and Boyd whipped her a second time. Securing a revolver she fired at him twice, but missed. Boyd is a prominent politician, and seconded Harrison's nomination from the Tennessee delegation, and was one of the committee that waited upon Whitelaw Reid notifying him of his being the choice for second place.

Walter Wellman, the Washington correspondent who has organized an expedition to solve the polar problem, and his companions sailed on Wednesday for Europe. At a special meeting of the National Press club at Washington, Wellman was presented with a handsome silk flag of the United States, which the club desired he should plant to the top of the north pole or plant it in the hole he discovered. Wellman, in a gracious speech, accepted the burden placed upon him and said the flag should be placed at the highest northern point reached by the expedition. The expedition will start from Norway and sail to the island of Spitzbergen, within 700 miles of the pole. From there the journey on the ice will begin.

It is stated in gambling circles that a project is on foot to establish a Monte Carlo at East Omaha similar to the institution in Monaco. A syndicate of wealthy local gamblers is to be formed. The site to be selected will be on the Iowa side, near the street car line. The building will have an annex in which reading, smoking and concert rooms will be arranged. In an informal discussion of the scheme proposed at a gathering of several of the wealthy gamblers, the subject of the location of a first-class racetrack was also mentioned. The plan is to establish first-class sporting headquarters upon a scale of splendor not equaled elsewhere in the country, and as the location would be outside of the jurisdiction of police authorities arrangements could be made for all sorts of sporting events.

USE OF A FLYING MACHINE. What May Be Gained by the Perfection of the Invention.

What important purpose can flight in air serve? Maxim, Langley and all who have studied the subject thoroughly agree that the speed of aeration will greatly exceed that of any terrestrial locomotion.

From this follows an entire economic change in the direction of rendering immense tracts of comparatively worthless territory at distances of 20 to 40 miles from cities much more available.

There would also result the reletting of city property in large measure to business and storage purposes.

This would to a large extent accomplish what Henry George sighs for, but would do it by means which do not involve any wrong to the land owner by the wage earner.

With flying navies capable of carrying unseen at night large quantities of explosives to the center of a city war would become so destructive that it would be soon supplanted by arbitration as a matter of common sense and self preservation.

Arbitration once established, an international police system controlling nations as we do individuals, and enforcing the decrees of boards of arbitration, would be enormously assisted by this power of rapid and if necessary destructive patrolling.

Immense areas of country, now well nigh impenetrable, would be opened to usefulness. Large sources of wealth would thus be added to the civilized world and would result in the amelioration of the condition of the savages of such regions as central Africa.

We should have to give up selfish legislation and restriction upon the commerce of other nations, and be obliged to perform to "stand on a broader heritage than that of a nation or of zone."

—Samuel Cabot in Boston Traveller.

THE OREGONIAN'S ENTERPRISE.

The Great Paper Still in the Lead—Its Latest Publication.

But few papers of the United States have ever undertaken a work of greater magnitude than has evidently been called for in the publication of the Oregonian's "Handbook of the Pacific Northwest," a copy of which has just reached the desk of the WEST SIDE.

The "handbook" is something of a misnomer inasmuch as it gives but little idea of the great scope of the work. Its value as a book of reference can be appreciated from the statement that its index alone contains upwards of 10,000 entries, but aside from its value as a statistical publication, its complete and highly interesting subject matter amply entitles the book to be classed as a history. It contains nearly 1,000 illustrations which were made in the Oregonian's engraving rooms. It is as well bound as any of the finest Eastern publications and in its press work and generally attractive appearance it is far ahead of any special publication ever issued under the auspices of any paper on the coast.

The scope of the "handbook" can be better understood when it is stated that it contains exhaustive and reliable articles on all the leading industries of Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Western Montana and British Columbia; on the climate, topography and soils of this vast region, and extended mention of every town of importance in the Pacific Northwest. Energy applied to a practical purpose, the dominant factor in the success of the Oregonian, was never shown to better advantage than in the publication of the "handbook" during a year when all business was stagnated and when nothing but unprofitable returns were looked for from most enterprises. Everybody who desires full and accurate information on the Pacific Northwest, should send for a copy of the "handbook," and the book should be kept on file in all public libraries. It is sold at the popular price of three dollars.
