FRIDAY, JUNE 8, 1894.

LWAYS GIVE THE NAME of the

Lightning has again struck Polk county, and knocked democrats and populists into a "cocked hat." Yes, on Tuesday the air was resounding with the victorious shouts of republicans, who at the same time, commissated the creet fallen pops, and dem's, who falled to bring their forces to the front, those forces that governor Pennoyer assured us the woods were full of them. They must have surely taken to the woods and remained there. Democrats fooled the populists, and led them to the last ditch, where they will remain until the sound of the last trumpet. Republicans themselves are astonished at the great victory they have achieved over their foe, and yet by that victory they are aware that they have assured prosperity to one and all. Let the news flash ever the wires to our eastern states, that Oregon has fired the first gun for victory in 1896. Protection, protection to home industrys in the slogan of the republican party of Oregon, and the people have answered to that call in unmistakable tones, that will reverberate o,er hill and valley throughout our broad land, that will also be answered by the vast majority of people, that protection to American people, must prevail from this time henceforth for ever. At notime in the history of our country, has a republican victory given greater assurance of a "change" that will inure to the benefit of the whole people. Let us extend the per of congratulation to our democratic friends, assuring them that our victory and their defeat, will cause them to rojoice in times to come.

The "leading" democratic paper of Polk county has lost its "crow," and now bewails with tears the loss of all hope of ever becoming a factor in the reorganization of the party. Democracy is not in it, and now for the next twenty-five or thirty years must take a back seat, and be supplied with that industrial prosperity at the hand of republicanims, that the democracy with its free trade principles could never bring about, All hail to the victories republicans, who now for a quarter of a century will give to Americans, American industry and national wealth.

The total vote for congressman in Polk county this year was 2815, for governor 2831, in 1889 the total vote for congressman was 2344, an increase, of 471 votes. The average prohibition vote was 109, populist 453, democratic 845, republican 1395. The average reublican majority in Polk in 544. The average republican vote of Polk county is 94 more than the democrats and to give, were that $500,000 was conpopulists combined.

Populism has received its death blow. On the 4th of June the blow was struck, that leveled it with the dust, and now it awaits the burial service to put it placed the following epitaph. Now populism, dead and gone, Pennoyer moans from night till morn. His friends around this busy town, Have lost their smiles, put on a frown.
