Since the advent of the type setting machine on the Oregonian that paper has a much neater and cleaner appearance. The placing of type-setting machines in the Oregonian office at Portland threw fifty-two men out of employment. Miss Nettie Ryder now has one of the most costly bicycles owned by any one in Polk county. It was made a present by a friend. Samuel Wilson, who has been in the employ of the Oregon Pottery company at Portland for the past two years spent the 4th, in town. W. E. Cooper and wife spent last week at the camp meeting at Turner. The attendance there was very large and great interest manifested.

The bonds of four county officials were not approved until Thursday, consequently the new officials were not installed until Friday, July 5th. Prof. Wm. Parker, who has been teaching the Ballston school for the past two years, and is now engaged for another year, is in town this week. The long contested Bentley vs Hirschberg lawsuit is about decided. Mr. Bentley getting judgement for over $8,000 to the supreme court this week. J. H. Thorp, of Sevier, reports to us as having seen in Marion Co. a field of barley in the shock, cut June 29th, which he thinks is the first of the year. The family of William Sanderoock, will leave next week for Portland, their house on B street will be occupied by Mr. Doestader, the livery stable man. Independence was without mail communication since the trains ceased running last Tuesday, until Thursday morning, on account of the great strike.

James Alexander living south of town has a very valuable relic, being a pair of bullet molds, owned and used by his grandfather in the Revolutionary war. The following marriage licenses were issued by the clerk during June: Charles Byron to Mattie Martin; Charles E. Shaw to Etta Pearl Keyser; Milton W. Ford to Viola McNamee. The new postal orders which are now in use at the postoffice here, are considered by the postmaster as not nearly so convenient as the old form. No more postal notes are to be issued. Messrs. Wilkins & Ferguson have been pulling off all the lower branches of their hop vines, in the yard near town, and claim that it adds strength to the hops on the upper part of the vines. Mr. A. Dockstader, of Buena Vista purchased the livery stable here of Peter Cook, and on July 1st, took formal possession. Mr. Cook has not yet decided on what business he will follow.

The action by congress to increase postage on newspapers about 700 percent has met with a protest from all over the country. This congress will be increasing the rate of postage on letters the next thing. Rufus Smith, of Monmouth, and his daughter Mrs. Noble are quite sick. Mrs. Goodnight returned to her home in Vancouver last Saturday, but it is believed ready to come back if the symptoms get more serious. Several weeks ago several persons here rented the motor handcar to go to Monmouth, and the handcar was stolen, and they had to walk home. The party who took the car is now known and explanations are now in order. Mr. Dockstader found considerable trouble in finding a dwelling home vacant here in Independence. A town with no empty houses and no empty store buildings is not in a very bad condition, commercially speaking. Yes! Independence is all right. Squire Irvine, our newly elected justice took his seat last Monday, and has rented the room next to the Wm. S. King, for his office. He offers to marry the first couple applying to him at half price, and guarantees the knot to be tied as tightly as anyone can do it. Mr. Wynkoop, who was purser on the Altona for so long a time came up on Saturday's train from Portland, remaining here over Sunday and returned to Salem Monday to meet his wife. He will be purser on the boat running from Portland to Oregon City, July 4th. Last Saturday as Joseph Hecker, living on Soap Creek, just in Benton county, was returning home from trading in Independence, and near T. B. Huntley's farm, his fine team of horses took fright and ran away, badly damaging the hack, but not injuring either himself or his son. The game of base ball at Talmage last Sunday between Independence and McMinnville was hotly contested from start to finish. The attendance was the largest of the season, and a crowd of 2,000 could not have made more noise. The result of the game was a score of 15 to 13 in favor of McMinnville. A new county road is being petitioned for to start at the Grace church on the Monmouth-Dallas road and go past Jay Ellis' house and past W. S. Elkins, and thence to the present county road this side of Dallas, it cutting off about three miles of distance. The residents along the proposed route are nearly all favorable.

DAMAGE IS NOT GREAT. Streets and Sewers Have Not Suffered Much From the Flood.

The Evening Telegram has the following to say regarding the recent flood at Portland: Immediately after the subsidence of the waters, the impression gained ground, without reasoning from cause to effect, that the city would be required to expend an enormous sum of money in repairing damages done to streets by the flood. Inquiry at the office of Street Superintendent Gradon, however, dispels that illusion. Mr. Gradon says that the water did comparatively slight damage to the streets and the expense attached to making such repairs is insignificant. Some of the bridges on the East Side and in the north end of the city, though, have been seriously affected by the froth. They are in somewhat of a dangerous condition, needing immediate attention. In view of that condition he asked the common council at its last regular meeting for an appropriation of $5000 with which to place these bridges in proper shape again, but his communication was referred to the street committee.

INDEPENDENCE DAY. HOW IT WAS OBSERVED IN INDEPENDENCE.

An Attendance of 5000—The Day was Bright and Clear, the Races Interesting—A Pleasant Affair. When a few of our citizens met to discuss a 4th of July some said times were too hard to undertake anything of the kind. Others argued that as very few adjoining towns would be apt to celebrate it offered a good chance to draw a large crowd. So the celebration was undertaken and owing to the intelligent management of the executive committee, composed of Messrs L. C. Gilmore, W. P. Conaway, J. A. Veness, W. W. Percival, J. F. O'Donnell, J. H. Alexander and J. M. Stark, it proved an entire success. The main object of a 4th of July celebration from a pecuniary point of view is to attract a crowd and in that particular the committee was eminently successful, it being variously estimated that the crowd numbered from 5000 to SIX THOUSAND PEOPLE and they came from all directions—in wagons, on boats and on foot—there were no trains. We therefore say that the executive committee is deserving of thanks for their untiring energetic work.

THE MORNING PROGRAMME. At an early hour people began arriving and long before the time for the procession to start the streets were crowded with teams and the walks lined with people. Out at the picnic grounds, J. P. Irvine, Clodfelter Bros., the Congregation church the Christian church and two strangers had stands, there were two swings, several tent shows and all did a thriving business. Promptly at 11:00 o'clock the procession started. L. Damon was in the lead, the speakers followed, and then came the City brass band led by D. V. Poling. The state liberty car was a most beautiful sight, Miss Dora Cooper, the goddess of liberty, looking very much a goddess, presiding over her forty-four states. Over her head floated the stars and stripes. Following it came the Oregon car, Miss Bessie Butler, representing Oregon and well may our state feel proud of its representative; Miss Alta Estes, as Justice, clothed in red and holding a pair of scales; Mable Wells, as Peace, clothed in blue, and with a dove and laurel branch. There were the thirty-three counties represented by little ones, dressed in white. Then came the heads of the fire department and the fire boys. Hook and ladder company No. 1 with their apparatus gaily decorated and little Claude Hubbard seated holding a trumpet. G. Kennedy preceded the company carrying a miniature ladder with a crest of flags etc. Hose Co. No. 1, in bright uniform had their cart neatly ornamented and surmounted by little Ethel Alexander as their chief ornament, and hose Co. No. 2, with little Pearl Kelly as goddess. The Independence band took part in the parade. Then came a few bicycles and the pluguggies followed. This feature created much amusement. There were many grotesquely dressed characters, and an old tumbled down dray with the worst looking horse obtainable and a band which made discordant music, but the feature which attracted the small boy was a wagon wheel fastened on a log one side dragging on the ground, causing it to revolve, and on it were perched two mowers, who went round and round first up had then down. Arrived at the grounds, after music by the brass bands, the chorus of voices, led by D. V. Poling sang "Niagara" which was loudly applauded. Rev. J. R. Baldwin, delivered the invocation, and after singing of "Star Spangled Banner," by the choir; Hon. N. L. Butler, of Monmouth, delivered the oration, Hon. J. C. Moreland being unable to attend on account of no trains running. He made a most patriotic address, one eminently suitable to the occasion and which was one of the best speeches we have ever heard the gentleman make, and considering the shortness of time for preparation, was remarkable. Mr. Butler is a ready and fluent speaker. After another song by the choir and music by the band the vast crowd separated for dinner.

Fire at Talmage. On last Monday, at the noon hour, the Talmage hotel was completely destroyed by fire. Mr. and Mrs. Sid Moore, who built the hotel last year had eaten an early dinner and got in their buggy to go to Independence. Shortly afterwards fire was discovered by the flour mill whistle; and coals from the kitchen stove which had dropped out on the floor had started the blaze and it took energetic work to put out the fire but it was finally accomplished and the volunteer fire-men were resting for a few moments preparatory to returning the furniture when it was discovered that the fire had gone between the rustic and the ceiling inside the house, and the whole upper part of the house was in flames. Nothing could be done to save it and it was quickly enveloped in flames. The building cost $1000 and was insured for $1000 and the furniture for $500.

Last fall I was taken with a kind of summer complaint, accompanied with a wonderful diarrhea. Soon after my wife's sister, who lives with us, was taken the same way. We used almost everything without benefit. Then I said, let us try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which we did, and that cured us right away. I think much of it, as it did for me what it is recommended to do. John Hertzler, Bethel, Berks Co., Pa. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by all dealers.

Honors For Editors. The newspaper men seem to have been in it, in the recent election. H. R. Kincaid, of the Eugene Register, will be secretary of state; W. B. Leeds, of the Ashland Tidings, state printer; B. F. Alley, of the Florence West, is a state senator; in the house will be editor Patterson, of Heppner, Stewart of Coos, and Curry, Guild of Tillamook and Yamhill. Morehead of Lane, Curtis of Clatsop, and Hofer of Marion.

People are fools to suffer when a remedy can be found to cure them. Oregon Kidney Tea is no experiment, and not a fake to get your money. Why will you hesitate, when we assure you that it is absolute cure for all kidney and urinary diseases. The Remnant. "Tell you, it's a great thing to be a democrat nowadays." "I'd like to know why." "So exclusive, you know."—Indianapolis Journal.

"My little boy was very bad off for two months with diarrhea. We used various medicines, also called in two doctors, but nothing done him any good until we used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which gave immediate relief and soon cured him. I consider it the best medicine made and can conscientiously recommend it to all who need a diarrhea or colic medicine. J. E. Hare, Trenton, Texas. 25 and 50 cents bottles for sale by all dealers.

Wanted—Ten ton of bacon by Wilcox Baldwin & Co. The Wilson tariff bill has at last passed the senate. You get more news in the WEST SIDE than any other paper. You will find the complete official returns of the state of Oregon in this paper. Mrs. J. W. Buster received a telegram on Thursday, from Roseburg, that Mr. Buster was sick and to return home at once, and she took the first train. We trust there is nothing serious the matter.

Nearing The Grave. In old age infirmities and weakness hasten to close the gap between us and the grave. Happily scientific research and pharmaceutical skill have allied themselves in furnishing us a reliable means of ameliorating the ailments incident to declining years, and of renewing the waning physical energy. Its name is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a widely comprehensive remedy in disease, and an inestimable blessing to the elderly, the feeble and the convalescent. Rheumatic ailments, trouble with the kidneys and lumbago are among the more common ailments of the aged. These are effectually counteracted by the Bitters, which is likewise a prevention and curative of malarial complaints, dyspepsia, constipation of the bowels, and the acquisition of vigor.

RECORD OF CRIMES AND ACCIDENTS. A Chicago drummer went on a spree at Kansas City and sold his samples. He has been arrested. Blind Wood, a wealthy Chinese, was sandbagged and robbed at Tacoma one night of $400 and his watch. Two of the Dalton gang of train robbers and horse thieves have been wounded and captured in Indian Territory. Pat Coniff, aged 21, pushed an inoffensive Chinaman into the water at Petaluma and then ran away. The Chinaman was drowned. Charles H. Lavelle, the defaulting county treasurer of Langias, Wis., pleaded guilty and was sentenced to prison for one year. At McKendree, W. Va., W. B. Wilt returned home and found his horse in a stable and his eight children and a maid-servant cremated. His wife escaped. The Victoria (B. C.) police want Frank Adams, formerly a member of the construction works of the Sidney and Victoria railway, on the charge of forgery of $50.

At Carthage, Mo., John Peterson, a local carpenter, long out of work, was shot by a policeman and killed while stealing to keep his wife and four children from starving. R. McMann, a brakeman at Livingstone, Mont., shot and killed his wife and then cut his own throat. He was aged 34 and his wife 18 years. No cause is known for the deed. Elizabeth, the divorced wife of Dr. Richard Slaughter of Fennimore, O., was found dead on the porch of a neighbor's house with three bullet holes in her head. She is supposed to have run to the neighbor's when attacked, and was murdered while trying to get in. She was 70 years old.

She Was Invited. "Did any one say anything to me?" asked Mamma as she saw the family at luncheon. "No, my child, but will you have some salad?" "I don't know," replied the child. "Mamma said I must not eat 'less I was 'vited.'"—Newport Daily News.

Twelve steel plates from designs of illustrations to "Punch," made nearly half a century ago by Onaway, have been discovered in London.

THE INDEPENDENCE SAWMILL. It is Now Running On Full Time and Rushed With Orders.

It was the 18th day of April when the Prescott & Veness sawmill burned to the ground, and exactly two months later it was again sawing lumber. The new mill in many respects is much better than the former one and is pronounced by experts to be the best single mill south of Portland. The change in the fly wheel gives the engine more power. The improvement in the feed gear, saves time, consequently the mill saws several thousand feet more lumber per day. The large planer, which will dress a stick six inches thick and two feet wide on all four sides at once is an improvement. The old planer is there for light work. To go and see the mill in operation now presents a busy scene. The following are the names of the men employed: J. A. Wheeler, manager; J. Flukes, head Sawyer; J. W. Lemond, engineer; D. E. Lemond, edger; Chas. Macaulay, rated setter; J. A. L. Myers, trapper; J. B. Ford, 1st off bearer; J. B. Blackenship, 2nd off bearer; J. D. Winn, wood saw tender; Wm. Smith, planer; J. Dodge, E. A. Milles, M. Armstrong, A. Crosby, and J. W. Cooper, lumber pliers; B. B. Baldwin, night watch; Fred Veness, planer off bearer; Wm. Winn, teamster; Sol Cox, boom-tender; J. Hancock, log puller; W. Wade and J. K. P. Graves, carpenters; and Ed. Grubbs, slab-wagon.

Duty of Republican Senators. When the Wilson tariff bill was first proposed to congress very few republicans in the country were willing to admit that it should be allowed to become a law, if any method could be devised to defeat it. It passed the house of representatives under the whip and spur of the committee on rules, without full discussion or adequate consideration. In the senate it has had a somewhat peculiar experience, the present draft being very different from the one which passed the house; but notwithstanding the change made, it contains almost every bad feature of the original bill. True, the rates of duty have been increased on some articles, but as a whole very little has been conceded to the principles of those who believe and advocate the doctrine of protection.

Lumber has been put on the free list, to the great detriment of New England and Northwestern states; the duty on agricultural products has been greatly lowered, striking a very serious blow to all the states bordering on the Dominion of Canada; and there is no hope or expectation that any duty can be saved on the great American product of wool. With that on the free list, sheep husbandry will be practically destroyed in this country, and the duties on the manufactures of wool will be lowered to such an extent as to seriously interfere with the prosperity of the manufacturers of woolen goods. Indeed, it is safe to assert that either they will be compelled to close their establishments, or reduce the wages of the operators to almost the starvation point.

In addition to this, there is little expectation that the proposed income tax proposition will be materially modified, so that the people of the North, who will necessarily pay a very large proportion of this tax, will have an added burden placed upon them by this legislation.

BUENA VISTA. Wild blackberries are reported unusually abundant this season. Sam Wilson, of Portland is visiting friends and relatives here this week. Miss Ollie Armstrong, of Corvallis, made a short visit with her aunt, Miss Dockstader, this week. An ice cream and strawberry social was given last Tuesday evening by the Evangelical ladies. It was well attended. The new independent Evangelical church is nearing completion. A. Anderson and wife returned from McMinnville, Monday. A. D.:—Always put on the brake before you go down hill. Our worthy livery man, Mr. Dockstader, will soon leave to take charge of the Cook stable, Independence. Mr. J. M. Prather, accompanied by his wife, went to Scio last week.

DIED. BRUMAGEN—At Portland, on June 30th Mrs. F. J. Brumagen, aged 40 years and 30 days. Mr. and Mrs. Brumagen resided in Independence for some time and were much thought of by a wide circle of intimate friends. The remains were brought up on the Modoc last Monday and were buried in the Monmouth cemetery on Thursday by the side of her two children here. Rev. Weaver, of Portland, officiating.

Although Pink Patterson enjoyed a splendid trade on the 4th of July and sold temperance drinks, candy and cigars to hundreds, he will continue to cater to the every day wants of the public. Manager Kirtson, of the Sunday baseball game, has decided after last Sunday's bolterous game to reorganize the team.

THE CHINESE AT HOME. MANY OF THEIR CUSTOMS ARE THE REVERSE OF OURS.

How They Compare With the Japanese.—What Constitutes an Education.—No Hereditary Aristocracy. The samples we get of China in our country give us very inadequate ideas of the people. We have here to contemplate a civilization entirely unlike our own, but in itself much more complete than ours. In the presence of the Chinese, all European and American customs and manners seem to be reversed. These people turned out before the Christian era. They invented printing 1,000 years before Gutenberg and Faust flourished, and they knew the use of gunpowder when our forefathers were using bows and arrows. In most things which appear on the surface they are our exact opposites. They mount a horse from the right side instead of the left, read from left to right, say west south instead of southwest, their mariner's needle points to the south, the men wear petticoats and the women trousers, they shave the fronts of their heads and not their faces, shake their own hands instead of each other's as a greeting, write their family names first and their given names afterward, have their marginal notes at the top of their books, place a distinguished guest on the left and are careful not to uncover in his presence, wear white for mourning, the men sew and the women work in the fields, and so on to the end of the list.

We shall find in China the origin of much that we have seen in Japan. The position of woman in the family and society is about the same, except that the Japanese women do not cramp their feet, and therefore can go about more freely. The domestic architecture is similar, so far as external construction goes, but the Chinese consider the roof, and the people do not squat on the floor. Both wear loose, flowing robes, which the Chinese button, but the Japanese do not. In the conversation of the people the Chinese indulge in honorifics as much as the Japanese. It is the correct thing to ask your friend to condescend to come from his elegant house to your humble abode, or to allow his distinguished cup of tea to descend to your unworthy self. The Chinese classics are also the classics in Japan, and the Chinese ideographs are used by Japanese writers. Education is mainly etiquette. The Chinese have 3,000 rules of behavior, which the educated man must know. If a man have bad manners, they say he is not educated.

The Chinese sages, like Confucius, Mencius and others whose works are classics, enunciated a high grade of ethics. Confucius stated the golden rule, though negatively, thus: "It is nothing I do not want done to me, I will not do it unto another." His ethical teachings are in rank with those of the Greek and Roman moralists and the Hebrew prophets, but are without reference to a Supreme Being who requires us to keep his commandments. The family customs are similar to the Japanese. Society is patriarchal. The family, not the individual, is considered. Marriages are arranged as in Japan to perpetuate the family, and so between are employed to settle the terms. There is only one wife, but concubines are taken into the house at will. The wife finds life burdensome when she is the servant of the household, especially of her father-in-law and mother-in-law, but when she becomes a mother-in-law she gets her own things and makes it warm for her daughter-in-law. The Chinese have as many genealogies as the Japanese and numerous grades of obedience to be employed according to circumstances. Three prostrations, each with three knockings of the head against the floor, are supposed to be about the extreme of respect. The people vary a good deal in the different sections of the empire. In the mountains, and the people there are smaller, more volatile and brighter than in the north, where the crowded dwellers on the plains and paddy fields are heavier, less excitable, not so quick to see or act. There is no hereditary aristocracy in China. All the people are bound to obey the will of the emperor and have no rights in his honor or respect. There is no caste, as in India. The people are classified as natives and aliens, the latter being subdued people in the provinces; conquerors and conquered, with special reference to the prohibition of marriages between the Manchoo and Chinese, and freemen and slaves. There are no laws against slavery. Every native is allowed to purchase slaves and retain their children in servitude, but the number of slaves is small, and their condition is comparatively easy. Probably there are no better mannered people in the world than the educated Chinese. They are also very competent business men, and as such enjoy an excellent reputation.—Cor. Boston Herald.

Marriage Proposal Reform. A suggestion is made for a legal reform which, while retaining broad promise actions, would deprive them of all their ornamental trimmings in the shape of love letters and the other usual incidents of courtship. It is proposed that no promise of marriage should be held valid unless it is made in writing upon properly stamped paper. Young ladies might affix a sixpenny stamp to the letter in which the avain declares his affections and ask him to be so good as to cancel it with his autograph.—London Tit-Bits.

A gambling house on Market street, San Francisco, was robbed by two men a few nights since. The men entered the place with drawn revolvers and gathered up about $4,000 and started to run. One of them was captured. In their flight the thieves dropped a number of $20 pieces on the sidewalk. Newsboys and messenger boys swarmed about the place and picked up the coins while the officers were pursuing the robbers. The one captured is William Paulsell, son of the late harbor commissioner, A. V. Paulsell.

A passenger train was derailed at Roscoe, near Los Angeles, by two masked robbers the other night. The engineer noticed that the switch at Roscoe was open, but could not stop the train in time to prevent a derailment. The engine and two carsloads of oranges left the track. The fireman and an unknown tramp were killed. As soon as the engine jumped the track two men ran to the side of the engine and covered the engineer with guns. The robbers fired a volley along the side of the train to keep the trainmen and passengers from alighting. A brakeman was forced to accompany the robbers to the express car and compelled him to place two dynamite bombs against the door. After shattering the door the robbers entered the express car and forced the messenger to give up the contents of the safe. The robbers escaped. They secured about $20,000.
