Of the Port Arthur Atrocities.

This Must Hail From the French man So Bitterly Scored by Villiers and Creelman.

A representative of the French army who followed the movements of the Japanese from beginning to end as-serts that after the day on which Port Arthur was taken he witnessed no such atrocities as have been pub-licly charged. On October 21st, when licly charged. On October 21st, when the Japanese were in wild excitement over the mulilations of their comrades, many unresisting Chinese were killed. His view of the affair, as now clearly set forth in private letters, entirely fails to substantiate the accusation that an unrestrained reign of terror continued three days. He says there were many atrocities on the day of battle, but that ended them.
