BIMETALLIC PLATFORM
The Money Issue Now
Dominant.
Unrestricted Coinage Is Demanded.
The Government Only to Regulate Issue of Currency, Which Must Be Legal Tender.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 5.—The following was issued today by the American Bimetallic League:
Statement of the issues on which a new party will organize.
The money question is now indisputably the dominant issue in the United States and will remain so until settled finally. Other questions, however, important, must wait for this, which is a greater or less extent involves all others. The issue is between the gold standard, gold bonds and bimetallic standard, on the one side and the bimetallic standard, on the other.
First—On this issue we declare ourselves to be unalterably opposed to a single gold standard, and demand the immediate return to the constitutional standard of gold and silver, or the restoration by the government independently of any foreign power, of the unrestricted coinage of both gold and silver into standard money at the ratio of 16 to 1 and upon terms of exact equality, silver coin to be full legal tender as money, and to be in payment of all debts and dues, public or private.
Second—We hold the power to control and regulate paper currency is inseparable from the power to coin money, and hence that all currency intended to circulate as money should be issued and its volume controlled by the general government only, and should be legal tender.
Third—We are unalterably opposed to the issue by the United States of interest bearing bonds at a time of peace and we demand the payment of all obligations of the United States as provided by existing laws in either gold or silver at the option of the government and not at the option of the creditor. On this issue we appear in the name of the intelligence and patriotism of the American people.

TO THE PEOPLE.
The address to the people of the United States says:
This great cause will never be won without unanimous action. It will never be won unless those who believe in it come together and elect to the presidency and to the Congress a party which will give to the people a platform of policy, give up the gold standard and restore the bimetallic standard. No less persistence and level-headedness is required to bring about the restoration of a bimetallic standard.
While this is the case, it cannot be expected that the republicans will also give their consent to a life time of questions and go to the election of a party in a body or to a wing of that party. Nor will the democrats give up convictions they believe to be essential to the government and give up to the republican party or a division of that party. Nor is it possible to induce republicans and democrats together to go into the popular party for the reason, if no other, that the platform of that party contains declarations and the party advocates policies to which they cannot give their assent. Therefore, no course seems more possible than that to substitute for the true being other questions and come to the front in a new organization to fight the battle of 1896 on the issue on which the prosperity and happiness of the people so largely depend.
While not unmindful of the interest of the people of other countries in this question, it is not an issue that can be safely submitted to the decision of foreign governments or that can depend on what other countries may do.
It is believed the United States has never enough in the commercial world to restore the link between gold and silver, broken in 1873, but should gold for any reason temporarily go to a premium, it will none the less operate on prices generally, and certainly a premium on gold here would, like the fall in price of silver in silver countries, inure on every side to the advantage of the United States.
We especially urge upon you the importance of immediate organization in townships and counties throughout the entire country for the purpose of carrying out the great movement for the common good of all.
The address is signed by the following executive committee, appointed by a bimetallic conference called at Washington February 22, 1895:
J. A. Warner, president of the American Bimetallic League, chairman; John P. Jones, U. S. senator; William M. Stewart, U. S. senator; J. I. McLaughlin, of S. S.; Anson Wolcott, of Indiana; George G. Merry, of Colorado; Henry Jones, of Georgia; J. C. Green, of California; J. W. Sheldon, of Connecticut; C. J. Hillyer, of the District of Columbia; Bryon E. Shear, of Colorado; Mortimer Whitehead of New Jersey.
If the conference had authority from the people to name a candidate for president it would name Joseph C. Sibley of Pennsylvania, but not having such authority, it can only suggest the name and invite expressions from the people by petition, resolutions or otherwise. The committee was appointed to select a provisional national committee to consist of one member from each state and territory and the District of Columbia, to take charge of this movement.

The Miles bill for a grain inspector was considered in committee of the whole and reported favorably.
The bill by King relating fraternal insurance societies under the insurance laws of the state failed to pass. Notice of reconsideration was given.
Among the bills passed were:
A bill contracting with Bancroft, Whitney & Co. for ten years for the publication of supreme court reports.
In the senate the most important measure to pass was the bill which remits the penalty and accrued interest on delinquent state, county and municipal taxes due and payable in the past two years if paid by July 1st; all the penalty and half the interest if paid by December 1st; one-half the penalty and two-fifths of the interest if paid later.
This senate also passed a bill appropriating $122,000 for deficiencies of the various state institutions; defining homesteads and increasing exemption from $1,000 to $2,000; to bond state university lands for $225,000 and reimburse the state for previous appropriations.
Twenty-two bills were postponed, among which were: To reduce the salaries of all county officers.

A SICKENING RECITAL.
Horrible Death in an Elevator at Seattle.
Seattle, March 5.—As A. M. Nelson, postmaster at Seabolt, Kitsap county, shortly after 6 o'clock tonight was seated in an elevator of the Pioneer building talking to Lewis Thompson, the elevator man, at the door of the fourth floor, Thompson went out to light the gas in the hall. The elevator started to drop and Nelson seized the lever and attempted to stop it. The elevator shot upward and Nelson, becoming excited, tried to jump out. He was caught between the floor of the elevator and the top of the door and his neck was broken. A young girl, a friend of Nelson, who was in the elevator at the time, was told by the elevator man to grasp the lever and slowly lower the elevator. She, too, lost her head and led the elevator down with great rapidity. Nelson's body, which was hanging half out of the elevator, dropped outside, and the door on the fourth floor being open, it pitched headlong down the shaft. The body was horribly mangled.

He will go to Astoria tomorrow with ex-senator Saunders of Montana.

Only a few invitations were issued and aside from the two senators and Gen. John C. Cowin, of Omaha, there were no guests present. The reception was attended by about forty members of the club including Attorney General Ideman who is president of the club. Lunch was served in the club's rooms, after which the senators made a few brief remarks.

All information was refused by the board. It is said no date was given in the certificate. Upon investigation it was learned that Archbishop Corrigan's clerk, by inadvertence, omitted to enter the date of the Gould-Castellane marriage certificate, and the paper was returned to the proper persons for correction.

The Rich Husband Awaits His Affec-

New York, Mar. 5.—Judge Barrett has granted absolute divorce to Mrs. Alva Vanderbilt from William K. Vanderbilt. The decree by Judge Barrett awards the custody of the children to Mrs. Vanderbilt, it being provided that they shall be educated in the United States. Action was begun January 3d, last, and the defendant put in an answer denying the charges. Through the fact that he does not know some months that the Vanderbilts were agreed upon the general proposition of divorce, it was not known by the public until the decree was filed today that proceedings had been begun. Vanderbilt met Miss Smith, who afterward became his wife, in 1878, when he was 29 years of age. It is understood the settlement upon Mrs. Vanderbilt includes the noble palace at Newport, the residence at Fifty-second street and the apartment house at 120th street and security for $500,000 a year.

"Tony" Ergerati, until recently employed as cook at the Palace hotel, charged that she not only fitted him out with a trunk to take to his home, but that when he demanded fulfillment of her promise she set upon him, blackened both his eyes and threw him and his belongings out of her house. Mrs. Hanagan, who has given the cook a sound drubbing and threw him out of her house, but she denies the engagement to marry.

FIRE IN A COAL MINE.
Seattle, March 4.—Fire was discovered this morning in the pump room of No. 12 mine at Black Diamond, about 1,300 feet from the surface and soon gained such headway as to drive the men out. The head of the slope has been sealed and steam is being forced into the fire to smother it. This will take a week or two and in the meantime 100 men are idle.

The Dalles, Mar. 4.—This afternoon John Hill, a Russian Finn, was instantly killed at Seufert's fishery. York's Starving Thousands.

NEW YORK, Mar. 4.—The marriage of Miss Anna Gould, daughter of the late Jay Gould, to Count Paul Ernest Boniface de Castellane was solemnized today, at noon, Archbishop Corrigan officiating at the residence of her brother, George J. Gould.
At 11:30 relatives and intimate friends assembled at the house, which was artistically decorated throughout with tropical plants, roses and lilies. They entered the music room and passed into the East India room, where awaiting the approach of the bride stood the bridegroom, attended by his brother, Count Jean de Castellane.
On the dais stood Archbishop Corrigan, wearing ecclesiastical robes. Mr. Gould placed his sister's hand in Count de Castellane's hand and withdrew to the left, where his wife and two little children stood muffled in furs. The bride and groom were then pronounced man and wife by the archbishop. The ceremony was witnessed by the fact that the bride has not, as has been frequently stated, surrendered her own religious faith. "Ave Maria" was sung by Rosa Sacher, stationed at the foot of the stairs in a large hall.
After the benediction Mendelssohn's wedding march filled the room, and the bride received the good wishes of the archbishop and her friends.
A delicious wedding breakfast was served.
At 2:30 the bride, attired in a traveling dress, passed through the hall, crowded with friends anxious to bid her farewell.
The bride's wedding gown was of heavy ivory satin duchesse, tastefully trimmed with Point d'Alger lace, two twelve-inch wide, and of rare and beautiful pattern.
After the ceremony the superb jewels were laid out in the library table on a cloth of heavy red velvet. Among the first and most costly of presents was a heart-shaped watch. The center was a rare and world-famous Eternity diamond, surrounded by eleven diamonds, each of which is large enough to be worn as a single stone. This was the gift of Miss Helene de Castellane, who is the bride's aunt. Mrs. and Mrs. George Gould's present was a collar of superb pearls consisting of ten strands, each pearl being the size of a big pea. The strands were crossed by bars of platinum holding rows of brilliant white diamonds, these dividing the pearls into ten compartments. In each bar were twelve diamonds. In the center collar there were seventy-two diamonds and 800 pearls. Mrs. Frank Gould presented a chain of 200 diamonds which could be worn in coils about the neck or twisted as a bracelet about the wrist. Mrs. Owen Gould gave a large cluster of diamonds, each one of the glittering ribbon having as a tassel a superb blue and pink diamond.
The Marquis and Marquise de Castellane presented a superb unique necklace consisting of five ropes of pearls, each string of which is of historic interest, one having belonged to Henry Quatre and another to Marie Antoinette. At one end of the necklace securing five strands was a magnificent square emerald of exceeding beauty, surrounded by twenty-four diamonds. This is an heirloom in the de Castellane family and could pass only to the oldest son. Another present by the Marquis de Castellane was a ring of two stones, a superb ruby and sapphire. Count Jean Castellane's present was a diamond hat pin of exceeding beauty of design. General and Mrs. Eckert presented a superb diamond star. A magnificent tiara of diamonds was presented by Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gould. In addition to these gifts were many lesser ones of scarf and lace, bonnet and hat pins studded with diamonds and resplendent with colors of ruby, sapphire, amethyst and diamonds. On the book shelves were fans of every description, cloaks in leather cases, Dresden and ornolu clocks, tiny watches and watches studded with jewels, silver and gold, glass jars and gold tops decorated with curious workmanship and ornamented with monograms surrounded with coronets, silver pitchers, salvers, loving cups, silver in every shape and of every form, cut glass bowls, decanters, set-a-tete sets in silver, China and glass, in fact, almost everything one would see in Tiffany's.

GERMANY HAS THE GRIP.
(Copyrighted, 1895, by the Associated Press.)
BERLIN, March 2.—The influenza has taken hold of the people of Berlin with a strong grip. The muggy weather or appears to have favored its spread. In fact, according to statistics of the local sanitary bureau, three quarters of all sickness in the city at present is due to influenza. The epidemic has apparently taken the firmest hold of the well-to-do classes.
It is also noted that the complaint which was at first of a mild character, has grown much more dangerous, and the number of deaths from influenza and its complications this week has reached several hundred.
In the reichstag the usual attendance dropped to about forty, some 150 members either suffering or recovering from the attack. The total number of cases in Berlin is estimated from 30,000 to 40,000. Among the sufferers are the two vice-presidents of the reichstag and numerous court officers.
It also develops that Emperor William has just recovered from a mild attack of influenza.
U. S. Ambassador Runyon has also suffered from a mild attack of the disease.
As foreshadowed some weeks ago, the emperor has convened a state council for March 12th, the main purpose being to devise means to aid the agriculturists of Prussia who, especially in the eastern provinces, are heavily depressed in financial condition as a result of foreign competition in grain and cattle.

Congress Does a Rushing

Bills Passed at the Rate of Two a Minute—Doings of the Closing Hours.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 2.—Senator Mitchell today presented to the senate the credentials of George W. McBride as senator from Oregon for the term beginning March 4th, next, to succeed Mr. Dolph.
A RUSHING BUSINESS.
Washington, Mar. 2.—About 250 bills and resolutions were laid before the house today and most of them were favorably acted upon.
The pension bills favorably acted on at last night's session were passed at the rate of one every half minute.
Under suspension of the rules a bill was passed appropriating $17,000 for Washington and Lee University to reimburse it for injuries sustained during the war.
THE CLOSING HOURS.
Washington, Mar. 2.—The near approach of the close of congress manifested itself today in the crowded senate galleries, eager claimants about the corridors and the bustle and confusion of important measures hurriedly passed.
The senate worked industriously throughout the day and although the usual appropriation bill invited demands of oratory on our new navy, the demands of time reduced this to a minimum and made rapid progress possible. It was kept steadily before the senate throughout the day and again at the night session with the determination not to lay it aside until it was passed. There were constant interruptions, however, as the conference committees reported their progress in reconciling differences on pending bills between the senate and the house.
Early in the day the agricultural and fortification bills were finally agreed to and made ready for the president's signature. Five others besides the naval bill are yet to have differences harmonized in the conference.
At the outset of debate on the naval bill an effort was made to defeat the plan of reduction made by the appropriations committee, by which the house bill was cut about $2,000,000 and the number of battleships reduced from three to two. After a sharp debate in which the need of a strong navy was discussed, the committee was sustained. The speech of Hill was notable in urging that the United States had won her greatest achievements without a navy and urged both diplomacy and reason, instead of cannon balls and force.
German took occasion during the day to state that the wholesale appropriations stood as already made, the total for this session would exceed that of any session since the government was formed. After recess, the senate resumed consideration of the naval bill. Squire resumed his speech on the Puget sound naval station and after speaking an hour, Gorman consented that the item be placed at $20,000.
