Charlie Vanduy is employed by the West Side Trading Co. to deliver groceries and has to get up at five o'clock in the morning. He brought an alarm clock. It worked all right the first morning, but since then it wakes Mr. J. M. Vanduy, in the next room and he calls Charlie up in the morning. This is a case where the wrong fellow saws wood.

Christmas Festivities. Christmas festivities at the Auditorium commenced last Tuesday evening. There were two trees, and exercises by the children of the public school. A large audience was present. The several grades of the public school furnished the program of exercises which were very creditably gone through with. The program as published last week was substantially carried out. Rev. S. A. George delivered the prayer. Prof. Hayes was the master of ceremonies and each of the eight grades of the public school furnished a part of the program. Wayne Williams sang Santa Claus. One feature of the evening which seemed out of place was the concert responses by the pupils in Miss Hill's room such as "That was very well Mrs. Tuck." "Good for Paul!" "That was the best." Such actions will do for a first ball game but seem out of place in what is believed to be a religious festival. Prof. Hayes very properly had it stopped. The Christmas chorus by the little Brownies, created much amusement. The program and all the exercises passed off very pleasantly.

On Tuesday evening there was a Christmas tree at the M. E. church, under the auspices of the Sunday school. The church was nicely decorated and the trees were heavily laden with presents. A novel feature of the evening was the Dutch windmill, which ground out the gifts. It was about two feet high, with fans eight feet across. First Santa Claus (E. G. Heath) attempted to start the mill, but failed, then the fairies came to his assistance, but failed. Then the brownies came in and they were more successful and the windmill started.

The literary programme was as follows: Opening Hymn, "Joy to the World." Prayer, "Prayer for the World," by Mr. Stansbury. Opening address, "Rosa Wilcox." Song, "The Christmas Song," by Mrs. Moore. Recitation, "Stepping in Father's Tracks," by Howard Heath. Anthems, "The Christmas Song," by Ethel Whiteaker. Recitation, "The Christmas Song," by Ethel Whiteaker. Exercises, "The Christmas Song," by Ethel Whiteaker. Distribution of presents from Windmill. Closing Song, "The Christmas Song," by school.

The exercises Wednesday evening at the Presbyterian church were of quite an informal nature, there being a programme and a treat for the children, but no Christmas tree. The church was quite well filled. Miss Blanche George, the elder daughter of Rev. S. A. George made her first appearance before an Independence audience in a recitation entitled "The Ruggles' Christmas Dinner Party," and she captured her hearers with her elocutionary powers and has quite sustained the reputation, which had preceded her of being a very talented delineator of character. Miss Nellie Hill gave a very interesting impromptu talk.

The programme of the evening was as follows: Opening Song, "The Christmas Song," by choir. Prayer, "Prayer for the World," by Rev. S. A. George. Recitation, "The Christmas Song," by Ethel Whiteaker. Song, "The Christmas Song," by Ethel Whiteaker. Recitation, "The Christmas Song," by Ethel Whiteaker. Lillian Conaway. Blanche Cleland. Ethel George. Inez Fuller.

A short talk, "The Christmas Song," by Miss Nellie M. Hill. Address, "The Christmas Song," by Rev. S. A. George. Recitation, "The Christmas Song," by Miss Blanche George. "The Ruggles' Christmas Dinner Party."

For Rent. GOOD HOUSE AND LARGE BARN FOR rent cheap. Apply to 12 2012. R. H. JASPERSON, Prop.

Treat to the children. Benediction by pastor.

One of the notable features at the Christmas tree at the Baptist church was the crowd. The church was literally packed and many could not gain admittance. The one large tree was well filled with presents and nearly one hundred packages of candy and popcorn were given to the younger portion of the Sunday school. The weight of those standing in the back part of the church settled the floor in the center and the stove pipe came unjointed. It was caused by the springing of the flinders through the center of the church.

The programme as carried out was Opening Song, "The Christmas Song," by choir. Prayer, "Prayer for the World," by Rev. W. T. Flemer. Recitation, "The Christmas Song," by Ethel Whiteaker. Anthems, "The Christmas Song," by Ethel Whiteaker. Exercises, "The Christmas Song," by Ethel Whiteaker. Distribution of presents from Windmill. Closing Song, "The Christmas Song," by school.

"JEPTHAH AND HIS DAUGHTER." The Cantata at Monmouth Last Thursday Was a Success.

No greater success has ever been reached in an amateur performance on the stage than was given the rendition of "Jephthah and his Daughter," a dramatic cantata given at the Normal chapel at Monmouth last Thursday.

Miss Rose Bassett, the vocal teacher of music in the Normal had full charge of the entertainment and to her should be in great part given the credit for its success.

The plot of the cantata told briefly is: The Israelites, or Jews, were oppressed by a rival nation, the Ammonites, but had no one to lead them to battle. They called on Jephthah to lead them and in taking command of the army he made a vow to the Lord that should he be victorious in battle he would offer as a sacrifice the first living thing he met at the door of his house. His beautiful daughter Iphigenia met him. He asked the Lord to release him from his vow. Finally his daughter offers herself a willing sacrifice and is placed on the altar and her father pierces her heart with the glittering steel.

Something near fifty persons were on the stage, the chorus of maidens containing twenty and the company of soldiers sixteen, and their training in chorus work and marching was artistic and pleasing.

Prof. J. M. Powell took the part of Jephthah, the ninth ruler of Israel, and well sustained his character both in dramatic effect and his solos.

Miss Rose Bassett sustained the difficult role of the daughter of Jephthah, and was most charming in her Gypsy song, in her dance with the maidens, and as the devoted daughter of the warrior, willing to give up her young life in answer to his vow to the Lord. In addition to having a sweet voice, well trained, Miss Bassett is decidedly prepossessing in appearance and has great histrionic ability, a pleasing presence on the stage seeming to come most natural to her.

Miss Bertina Cole, the close friend of Iphigenia, was ever at hand with sympathy and loving caresses.

Mr. George Frost made an excellent prophet with the exception that his make-up was somewhat crude.

Claude Nowler and Fred D. Thielsen made a favorable impression in the characters of the Jewish princes.

Sarah, Ruth, Anah and Leah, Maidens of Gilead, were well impersonated by Misses Francis Holden, Mattie Best, Marie Watts, and Ella Thomson.

A very beautiful and impressive scene was that in which Miss Lella Parrish as Naomi comes on the battle field and finds her dying brother, Elion, (John McCoy) and she leans over him he sings his song of brotherly love and dies in her arms. It was a scene well acted out.

The choruses and dances by the maidens were well rendered. The drill of the Jewish soldiers commanded by Jephthah brought forth rapturous applause.

The orchestra of twelve pieces furnished excellent music for the occasion.

The Athletic Club Incorporated. Last week the Independence Athletic club filed articles of incorporation the capital stock being $250, and the officers of the club, until the meeting the 2nd Monday in January are: Dr. Rabbitt, president; C. E. Staats, vice-president; B. F. Burch, secretary; A. L. Bailey, treasurer. Board of governors: The president and secretary and H. Hirschberg, W. H. Patterson, J. E. Kirkland, J. B. Morin and Ed. Williams.

The club has leased the O'Donnell building 40x65 and is fitting it up for gymnasium rooms. The former tin shop will be fitted for a card-room and bath. The membership now numbers about sixty and the club is solid financially.

Geo. W.
