The Successful Ones.

The election for county officers passed off very quietly Monday although much hard work had been done by individual candidates.

In some ways the results were very much of surprise, but still the majority of the voters are satisfied. Following is a list of the successful ones:

- Supreme Judge, CHAS. E. WOLVERTON, Republican. District Attorney, JULIUS N. HART, Republican. Joint Representative, I. M. SIMPSON, Dem-Rep. Congressman First District, THOMAS H. TONGUE, Republican. Food and Dairy Commissioner, J. W. BAILEY, Republican. Presidential Electors, TILMON FORD, J. C. FULLERTON, O. F. PAXTON, W. J. FURNISH, Republican. Senator, B. F. MULKEY, Republican. Representative, G. L. HAWKINS, Republican. County Judge, J. E. SIBLEY, Peo-Dem-Sil-Rep. Clerk, U. S. LAUGHARY, Republican. Sheriff, J. G. VAN ORSEDEL, Peo-Dem-Sil-Rep. Treasurer, E. V. DALTON, Peo-Dem-Sil-Rep. School Superintendent, LEONARD STARR, Republican. Surveyor, LUTHER GROUND, Peo-Dem-Sil-Rep. Assessor, F. E. MYER, Peo-Dem-Sil-Rep. Coroner, DR. L. N. WOODS, Republican. County Commissioner, J. B. TEAL, Republican. J. D. Irvine, Republican, has been elected Justice of the Peace. W. J. Mulkey, Democrat, of Mouth was elected constable. A. Huston, Democrat, was elected road supervisor. He had no opposition.

After the Battle. The fight is over. The battle of ballots is ended; a truce has been declared for six months, when we will take up the campaign for president. While we are waiting for the next political fight, let us drop our personal, factional fights and see what good we can do for our county. Although the campaign just ended has not been a bitter, partisan one, there was more or less of personal feeling injected into it and thus who were unlucky in not being called to serve the public in an official way are bound to feel more or less humiliated. Let us not, therefore, rejoice over their defeat though we may want to do so very much. It is but natural that the successful ones should feel elated and perhaps unthinkingly give unlimited expression to their feelings. Let us drop politics for awhile and talk crops. Let us see how we can work it to get our roads improved. Let us pull together for those things that will help our town and county; in fact, let us be anything but selfish and uncharitable.

The War Over.

Preria has fallen. The Boer resistance has utterly collapsed. There was no tragedy at the end. England is mistress of all South Africa. Lord Roberts has won the end-of-the-century hero's crown. The experts never guessed the details of what would happen, from start to finish—so the fact that some newspapers guessed a little wrong does not furnish a suitable occasion for any sarcastic flings. The only certain thing from the beginning was that England would win; but just when or at what cost was still recently doubtful. The war has ended more fortunately for all concerned than could have reasonably been expected a few weeks ago. Nearly all south Africa will be British territory henceforth, and England will doubtless treat the conquered people liberally and as fairly—better, possibly, in the end, than they would or could have treated themselves, though it will be very hard, for awhile, at least, for them to realize or appreciate this—Evening Telegram.

One thing is certainly admirable in the British army, and that is the way the officers do their work without too much talking. Had Roberts and Kitchener been in the United States navy, for instance, they would probably have enacted the Sampson-Schley business over again. If the Jings would let the Hay Pauncetote treaty, providing for the neutralization of the Nicaraguan canal, get through, they would be surprised to find how easy it would be to pass the canal bill. It seems necessary to remind the country that the Hague treaty did not bestow any extraordinary powers of mediation upon the President but merely provided that any head of any country might mediate if both the belligerents were willing. It is likely that all the proposed amendments to the constitution were voted down; even that one giving certain rights to the negro. But then it was in bad company and had to go out with the rest. However, the action of congress nullifies its effects; it is practically a dead letter anyhow.

In Flanders, the automobile is known as the "snelvoertuig" or "speeding machine." When the Flemish take to scorching, one's imagination fails to conceive of the havoc these horrible machines will work. In addition to being dressed in a little brief authority, the census enumerator of the present year is empowered to ask twenty-six questions at each house. The Gervis Star reports that a number of farmers in that neighborhood have plowed up their fields of fall grain and planted the ground to potatoes. The late rains, they thought, had injured the fall grain so much that it would not have made a profitable crop. The spring grain, however, especially that sown late, was helped by the late rains. An Oregon young man not long ago proposed marriage to a young woman, but hearing that her hair was false he declined to fulfill his engagement. She brought suit against him for breach of promise, but she was nonsuited on the ground that she had won the young man's affections under false pretenses—Oregon City Enterprise.

We believe this to be a libel on the young women of Oregon. Never yet have we seen one in the condition described by the Enterprise. If the young man depended on hearsay for his evidence, we consider the young woman extremely lucky in getting rid of him. The Rural New-Yorker says: "The oleo people have been trying to play a dead game. They made the cotton-seed oil people think that oil was the chief ingredient used in their stuff. They did the same thing with the swine breeders and the beef cattle men. The result was that the representatives of all three of these industries went rushing to Washington, claiming that the Grouse bill would ruin them. Now what is oleo? A sworn formula given by Armour & Co. is as follows: Thirty-four pounds neutral lard, twenty-seven pounds oleo oil, twelve pounds cotton-seed oil, eighteen pounds milk, nine pounds salt. The cost of the 100 pounds, in 1896 was $2.91. Tax, tubs and mixing brought it up to $6.41, or less than six and one-half cents per pound. It is a wonder the oleo men do not claim that they make a great market for milk. This game was proved a little too deep." The St. Louis Globe-Democrat says that "the country expects to hear from Oregon an emphatic opinion on the subject of expansion and the gold standard." Come now, good people let us not disappoint the country.

The Salem Statesman tells us that the "executive committee of the I. A. A. O. held a business meeting yesterday" etc. Now will the Statesman kindly inform an ignorant public what "I. A. A. O." means? "Next week," announces a Missouri editor, who has the Sheldon episode still fresh in his mind, "we will be running this paper as Jesse James would have run it. Delinquent subscribers may expect a call from us with their accounts stuck in the muzzle of a six-shooter. Otherwise this paper will have to be run as the sheriff would run it." Hobson is coming home! Now then, girls, all together!

Did you notice the 3-line "dig," aimed at Corbett's solar plexus, in Thursday's Oregonian. Scott must have got home once more. Well, it looks very much as if McBride is going to succeed himself as United States senator from Oregon. If dreams are inherited, does it show that a man who has the nightmare is descended from a hostler ancestor? The Louisville Courier Journal quotes the following words of the poet, applying them to the Democratic party: "The lightning bug is brilliant, but it hasn't any mind; it stumbles through existence, with its headlight on behind." Doesn't that fit the free silver, anti-expansion party to a T. The Boston board of health has declared consumption a contagious disease, and provided for isolating and disinfecting cases. It seems very heartless to deprive a consumptive of the means of earning his living, and supporting those who depend upon him as long as he is able to work, and we fancy that some stronger proof that the disease is contagious will have to be furnished before public opinion will support the new regulations. The Kaiser should not presume on the good nature of the United States. If he goes ahead with his meat bill, he is likely to hear something drop over here. Of course we will not retaliate, but there are more ways of killing a cat than choking it to death with cream, all the same. For years, Germany has excluded our products on the ground that they were impure and unwholesome. Now, for the past year, there has been a law on the statute books authorizing the secretary of agriculture to exclude impure foreign products, and it is quite possible that the secretary will see fit to use it against Germany. Old-timers recall the fact that Mr. Clark and Mr. Maginnis of Montana, who are now rivals for the vacancy in the senate from that state, one having an appointment from the acting governor and one an appointment from the governor, and neither having one chance in one hundred to win, were together in Washington once before as claimants to seats in the senate. Just after Montana became a state what was known as the "rump" legislature elected Clark and Maginnis to the senate, and they appeared in Washington to take their seats, but were never allowed to do so. They are what might be called by the superstitious senatorial hoodoos.

At the last national creamerymen's convention, Prof. T. L. Haacker, of Minnesota, explained the principles involved in the selection of the dairy cow by the use of living models. He did not care whether the udder went well back or not, or well forward or not, or whether it was large or small. He looks first at the body or barrel, to see if that is large and deep, as this is the measure of the cow's ability to digest and assimilate food. Next he looks at the thigh, to see what disposition she makes of the food, beyond the amount necessary for support. The more the rear line of the thigh curves in, the cheaper will the cow produce each pound of butter. If she has a large barrel, he knows there is a communication from the throat to the barrel, that the food will go there and something will be done with the food nutrients. If the cow is fleshy and blocky, she puts these nutrients away as tallow in her tissues. If she is spare, angular, ewe-necked and cat-haired, he knows she turns the nutrients into milk solids and puts them in the udder. If the udder is large, she puts large quantities of water in it with the fat and other solids. If the udder is small, she puts the fat and other solids in the udder, because there is no other place to put them, and puts less water in the milk. This is a startling assertion, but Prof. Haacker asserted that for six years every pound of food given to each cow has been weighed and every pound of milk and butter fat produced from the food has been weighed and recorded, and the facts, without a single exception, are as stated. Prominent milk veins, dished face, yellow ears inside, slim tail, full square udder, etc., he declares are points of no value. The only thing to know is that, the cow has a spare, deep frame and small, thin quarters.—Orange Judd Farmer.

The quarterly conference of the Methodist Episcopal church south will be held at Wheatland at the Pentecostal camp grounds June 9, and 10. There will also be quite a number of baptisms on Sunday the 10th at 1 p. m. Rev. F. A. Perry, one of Michigan's most successful pastors—evangelist is in charge. The convention will continue till the last of June. Already the camp ground is glorious with revival fire, and many souls have been brought into the experience of a personal Pentecost.

THE ELECTION.

While waiting for the official canvass, we give the result of the vote cast in this precinct. Next week we will have the whole vote from the record, something that cannot be gotten now.

Table with columns: CANDIDATES, Republican, Democrat, Peo-Dem, Sil-Rep, Independent, Total.

Senor Buencamino, a former member of the Filipino Cabinet, refers to the American troops as "forceful." If the Senator had read up history he would never have had any doubt on that point.

Admiral Dewey is getting no delegates to the Kansas City or any other national convention, but he sizes up the situation for that other Democrat very accurately. "The South was never in a more prosperous condition than it is to-day," says the Admiral, who has just been through that section, "and I know that the people of the South don't want Bryan for president."

Lawyers come high but people will have 'em. A case in point occurred in Otego county the other day. There were only six heirs at a partition sale for $1,504.76. The bills for the attorneys engaged by the parties interested amounted to and were allowed by the court, at $1,421.83, leaving $82.88 for the six heirs, or $13.81 each.

A new scheme, "funeral insurance," is being pushed by a Chicago burial association. A policy, good for any member of a family, will be issued for $50 and a $75 funeral is guaranteed. This looks like a bargain, but is doubtful if the bait proves tempting, for men and women are so constituted as to not take kindly to paying their funeral expenses in advance.

Severe Nervous Disorders

That Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People have cured obdurate cases of locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, and St. Vitus' dance, is the best evidence that they will cure all lesser nervous disorders, because the principle in the treatment of all nervous diseases is the same. Nervousness is a question of nutrition. Food for the nerves is what is needed and the best nerve food in the world is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.
