For sprains, swellings and lameness there is nothing so good as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. Try it. For sale by Kirkland Drug Co.

The telephone company was badly shaken up by the late winds and Manager Lines has been quite busy thereafter.

When you cannot sleep for coughing, it is hardly necessary that any one should tell you that you need a few doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to allay the irritation of the throat, and make sleep possible. It is good. Try it. For sale by Kirkland Drug Co.

Over in Monmouth on Tuesday evening, through a broken insulator, the electric light wires came in contact with a large tree and burned it nearly in two. As it is impossible for the company to go over its lines all the time, it requests that any one seeing a broken insulator or cross in the wires to report the same to the office, thereby doing the company as well as its patrons a service.

The China pheasants are having a good rest, as the rain of late has been a little too much for the hunter.

"For three days and nights I suffered agony untold from an attack of cholera morbus brought on by eating cucumbers," says M. E. Lowther, clerk of the district court, Centerville, Iowa. "I thought I should surely die, and tried a dozen different medicines but all to no purpose I sent for a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and three doses relieved me entirely." This remedy is for sale by Kirkland Drug Co.

J. J. Sturgill, organizer of the Fraternal Union, will speak in the opera house tomorrow evening.

C. H. Markham, of the Southern Pacific railroad, says that 500 carloads of poultry and 500 carloads of eggs were shipped into California last year. Fortunately shipments of eastern poultry and eggs into Oregon have greatly decreased; in fact, we have exported considerable quantities—from Southern Oregon to California, and from the Willamette valley to Puget Sound and Alaska. There is evidently ample room for a large expansion in the poultry business in Oregon.

The "crab club" held a meeting Saturday night and discussed the subject in its usual flowery manner.

Mrs. James Gibson, of Portland, is visiting Mrs. J. A. Wheeler and other friends in this city.

Hon. Rufus Mallory, of Portland, will deliver a political speech here on November 2.

Mr. Ben Harris and family of Wells Station visited Saturday and Sunday with the family of James Harris in this city.

Robert Wilcox, a former resident and business man of this city, came down from the eastern part of the state on a short visit.

The whist club met at Mrs. W. P. Connoway's residence last Friday evening and was royally entertained. The next meeting of the club will be held at the residence of Mrs. L. Damon.

As a result of the heavy rains during the latter part of last week the river here on Sunday morning was over three feet above low water and steamboats would find no difficulty reaching Independence.

The orchestra gave a pleasant dancing party Tuesday evening at which a goodly number of young people were present. These parties seem to be growing in favor and the orchestra comes in for encoursgement.

Virgil Housley, lately from Canton, Ohio, and a cousin of Mrs. T. D. Campbell, is visiting here for a short time. he is also looking up timber claims for an Ohio syndicate. Mr. Housley is a veteran of the Spanish war in Cuba and came out of that campaign broken down in health. He hopes the climate of Oregon will brace him up once more.

The late rains have raised the Willamette to a four-foot stage and steamboat navigation would now be easy None of the shippers have yet received notice of when the river service will begin. It is supposed that the O R & N will as it did last year, do the entire work on the river, and among the reports current among the business men is one to the effect that the latter company is to charter one of the Corvallis and Eastern boats for the service. Of the report, however, there is no confirmation.—Times.

In furnishing a house, consider where and how you are to live, and the number of pairs of hands there are to do the work, and select your furnishings accordingly. If the articles you are buying are well made and good in shape and color you will make no mistake in selecting them, no matter how simple they are: indeed the simpler they are the better, Do not be in a hurry to fully furnish your house. When buying a new piece of furniture, a drapery or a rug, keep in mind the fact that it should harmonize with the old furnishings. —November Ladies' Home Journal.

A Baltimore man is suing his wife for a divorce because she goes through his pockets at night. He ought to be laughed, if not kicked out of court. In the first place, a man who can't hide all his money except what he is willing his wife should extract from his clothing doesn't deserve to go down town with more than a nickle for car fare. And then any man fit to have a wife ought to understand that 30 cents thus obtained does her more good and makes her pleasanter than $3.70 handed out and presented to her in the open. It is the woman, not the man, in this case, that is entitled to a divorce.

Shepherd Dogs.

The natives of New Mexico seem to have an original way of training shepard dogs. A pup is taken from its mother as soon after birth as possible. The young of a sheep or goat is taken away and the pup is substituted. After the first few days the pup is never fed except just before the flock goes to pasture in the morning and just after the sheep are brought in at night. As soon as it can walk it goes out with the flock and stays with it all day. Whenever it begins to anticipate supper by trying to drive the flock in before sundown it is punished. After about a year old it takes a flock out, guards from other dogs and coyotes during the day and brings the sheep in at the proper times at night without supervision. All kinds of temptation have been tried on a dog that was encountered in the hills with a flock, but in spite of all it would remain faithful to its duty'—The Denver Field and Farm.

Surprise Party.

A pleasant birthday surprise party was given Miss Elva Taylor at her home on Wednesday evening. Young folks to the number of about twenty congregated at the residence of J. S. Bohannon and at 8 o'clock proceeded to the object of their attack. Miss Taylor was taken so completely by surprise that for a few moments she was at a loss what to do or say, but the intruders were soon relieved of their wraps and the evening was pleasantly spent playing games, singing, music and other amusements. At a late hour refreshments were served after which the guests departed, everyone having had a very enjoyable time.

Those present were: Mrs. R. J. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Taylor; Misses Louise Hopper, Edith Owen, Bertha Bohannon, Nellie Brant, Bessie Taylor, Edith Lines, Arline Lines, Grace Damon, May Irvine, Elva Taylor, Orba Taylor; Messrs. Elic Fluke, Ernest Johnson, Louis Brant, Claude Hubbard, Roy Hawkins, Glenn Goodman, Charley Bilyeu, Sam Damon, Dee Taylor.

Walker Bros. sold 193 bales of hops last Saturday to Hi Plummer at 15½ cents per pound.

The post office holds for better address a letter addressed to J. B. Matney, Sherman county.

On Monday Roy and Irvine sold 167 bales of hops to T. A. Livesley for 14½ cents per pound.

Lyon Lodge No. 29, A. F. and A. M., met on Saturday evening.

Homer Lodge No. 45, Knights of Pythias, had work in the second rank Wednesday evening. Next Wednesday evening the lodge will work in the first rank, having a candidate therefor.

The Degree of Honor had a big meeting Monday evening. No work was done. Several applications were received and it is the intention of the lodge to have a big time next meeting, which will be on November 12.

Adah Chapter No. 34, Order of the Eastern Star, met Tuesday evening and initiated a candidate. The work was done in Adah's usual faultless manner, the floral part being unusually impressive. At the next meeting, November 13, there will be more work. After the meeting refreshments were served.

The whist club trophies are quite neat. They were made by O. A. Kramer. This week the champion badges were worn by Mrs. J. S. Cooper and J. A. C. Brant, and the consolation badges by Mrs. O. D. Butler and F. A. Donty.

The Independence National Bank has added an inside partition behind the counter which adds to the business looks of the institution and to the comfort of the officers and clerks.

Mr. J. J. Scrafford, a spry young man from Corvallis, and nearly 84 years of age, was visiting his sons, J. B. Scrafford of this city, and Mart Scrafford of Airlie, during the past three weeks and returned to his home on Monday.

News comes from Falls City that on Saturday night the general merchandise store of Emmett & Co. was broken into and robbed. Seven dollars in coin and a small amount of merchandise were taken.

Out of 200 head of horses brought to Heppner to sell to agents of the German government, only 70 were accepted and shipped away. The sellers say that all the horses would have been accepted if their owners had "seen" the inspector. —Heppner Gazette.

Albany is just now experiencing the inconveniences of having the streets in darkness. Holdups are beginning to be reported and the people are clamoring for lights. There is a misunderstanding between the light company and the council which is expected to be soon cleared away. Independence might profit by other cities' experience and install a few street lights. It looks odd to see citizens in this age carry lanterns when electricity is so cheap.

Saturday was a fine day for China pheasants; at least it was a fine day for them to hunt the brush. Several hunters were out after these birds but they report poor luck.

Waldo Forsey, an old time friend of H. H. Jasperson back in Douglas, Nebraska, is visiting Mr. Jasperson here and also his father and mother out on the Luckiamute. Mr. Forsey is going to make a tour of the country before he returns home and will probably spend six months in this state. He seems well pleased with his visit.

On Friday, Henderson Murphy, a prominent farmer living near Independence, received a letter from his son in-law at Dayton, state of Washington, instructing him to purchase some stock sheep A. M. Rayburn is the name of the son-in-law, and he took occasion to say to Mr. Murphy that if Mr. Bryan was elected president next month, Mr. Murphy was to immediately fatten the sheep and sell them for mutton. Mr. Rayburn would evidently rather lose two dollars on each head of sheep right away as mutton, than to hold them for wool and lose the whole business. Mr. Murphy has secured a good flock of sheep for Mr. Rayburn and trusts that he will not have to sacrifice them.

In that eventful year for Oregon letters, 1852, the Scott family left the Elm Tree farm in Taxewell county, Illinois, on the ox-line journey to the far, far west. It was in the dread cholera time, a scourge that took away the mother in a few brief hours. Harvey W. Scott was then a boy of sixteen. Arriving in Oregon he became the first graduate of Pacific University, and in 1865 took up his life work on the great paper of the northwest. What Benjamin Franklin was to the Atlantic colonies, that Harvey Scott has been to the Pacific coast—a fearless writer, constantly hammering into the people industry, economy, temperance, pure politics and plain, common sense. No account of the great editors of our time can omit the name of Harvey Scott, of the Oregonian.—Eva Emery Dye, in "Oregon Writers," in October Pacific Monthly.

DRESSMAKING PARLORS.

Mrs. J. C. House and Mrs. E. M. Irvine have opened Dressmaking Parlors one door east of H. H. Jasperson's on Monmouth street, and solicit a fair share of your patronage.

The good people of Monmouth must feel as though they had been swindled some in the past now that prices on coal-oil, groceries and bread have been fearfully cut We cannot understand how people can patronize a store which kept prices up to the top notch and, when honest competition comes, cut prices to the lowest possible notch, We would naturally think that the people might lose confidence in the integrity of such an institution.

H. W. Murphy had a fall last Friday and hurt his left shoulder so badly as to be unable to use his arm.

On Saturday, David Hedges sold his hops in Salem, getting the highest price yet paid for this season's crop He sold 198 bales to T. A Livesley at 15 3-8 cents.

The steamer Altona came up here on Sunday night and regular trips may be looked for from now on. This is the first boat to reach here from below since the early part of July.

The wild geese have commenced to fly through this section of the country and the boys are getting their guns loaded with BBB shot. The WEST SIDE is of the opinion that a will goose is good eating.

Jess Whiteaker, who was nearly dead with smallpox in Butte, Montana, is reported as being out of danger. G. W. Whiteaker, his father, received a telegram to this effect on Monday.

It is estimated that there are not many over a thousand bales of unsold hops at Independence at this writing. A few growers are determined to get the highest price and are holding their hops.

Dr. W. R. Allin of this city, will locate in Independence in a few days for the practice of dentistry. Dr. Allin is a graduate of one of the best dental colleges in the country, and has had a great deal of successful experience in the practice of his profession.—Statesman, Oct. 20th.

Lake Dorris was in the city Monday noon on his way to Eugene from Stockton, Calif., where he has been working for the past year. He will resume his old position in the hardware store of F. L. Chambers.—Albany Democrat

If one wants to get the full benefit of the darkness and wet he should go to the motor either when it leaves for Dallas or is returning therefrom. Of all the darkness imaginable one can find this to be the worst. He steps away from the coach and runs into most any old thing all the way up town. There ought to be a light or two to put strangers on their good footing.

The grocers' war over in Monmouth is having some effect on business here in Independence. Prices there seem to be below those here and our visitors are less in consequence. In fact we wouldn't be surprised to hear of Independence people going to Monmouth to do their trading.

The late heavy winds almost settled the apple question, insofar as it relates to the picking. Wherever any apples had been left on the trees by the owner, the wind shook them off and now one can see bushels and bushels of fine apples being fed to animals or going to waste.

Last Friday was a trying day to H. M. Lines, manager of the local telephone business. Many of his wires were crossed as the result of the storm the night before and some of the poles were made rather sick. He had to go over the whole system to straighten out the line and as the streets were too muddy to ride his wheel, and as the city council has seen fit to forbid wheeling on any of the sidewalks, Mr. Lines had to foot it. Before night he looked like a pheasant hunter who had been out all day in the rain and didn't get any birds. It would certainly seem as though the council could give wheel riders a few privileges while the streets are impassable for their wheels.

The first thing to bear in mind when teaching either a child or a class of children to sew is that each one must be interested and taught to look upon the work as a pleasure not a task. To force a child to do a stint in sewing as they used to do, is sufficient to make her dislike it when older.—November Ladies' Home Journal.

The supreme court of Oregon has at last rendered an opinion in the Montour —A. O. U. W. case. As there are many Workmen readers of the WEST SIDE we give the following synopsis:

Lillian Myrtle Montour, respondent, vs. Grand Lodge, A. O. U. W., of Oregon; appellant from Multnomah county; M. C. George, judge; reversed, opinion by Justice Moore. After an exhaustive review of the facts and of laws of A. O. U. W., the opinion holds that under the facts as they appear in the records, Montour was illegally suspended on the 28th of July, but also says:

"Evidence shows that about November 19, 1894, Montour insisted that he was a member of the order in good standing. But inasmuch as he thereafter signed an application for re-instatement he thereby admitted that a controversy existed respecting his position in the order, and having submitted this question to the members of the lodge for their determination, and not having appealed from their decision respecting a matter of which the lodge had jurisdiction, he is bound thereby, though the attention of the tribunal may not have been called to the failure of the financier to give him credit for the one dollar so paid."

Again, the opinion says: "Montour having been examined and recommended for re-instatement, and having due notice of the meeting of lodge at which action was to be taken on his application, and being present thereat except when the vote was being taken he was estopped from objecting to the regularity of the proceedings until he had exhausted remedies prescribed by the order."

The judgment was reversed and cause remanded for further proceedings not inconsistent with the opinion.

The Youth's Companion's Seventy-Fifth Year.

The new volume of the Youth's Companion for 1901 will mark the paper's seventy-fifth year of continuous publication—seventy-five years, during which it has had the approval of three generations of readers. The constant aim of the Companion is to carry into the home reading that shall be helpful as well as entertaining—reading that shall contribute to the pure happiness of all the family. Strong in the assurance that every reader gained is a friend won, the publishers offer to send the Companion free for the remaining weeks of 1900 to those who subscribe now for the new volume for 1901. There will not be an issue from now until 1902 that will not be crowded with good stories and articles of rare interest and value. Diplomatists, explorers, sailors, trappers, Indian fighters, story-writers and self-made men and women in many vocations, besides the most popular writers of fiction, will write for the Companion not only next year, but the remaining weeks of this year.

The new subscriber will also receive the Companion's new "Puritan Girl" calendar for 1901, lithographed in 12 colors.

Illustrated announcement of the volume for 1901 will be sent free to any address, with sample copies of the paper.

Horses in Demand.

The long-headed farmer who kept right on breeding good horses when his neighbor ceased in disgust a few years ago, is now beginning to reap the reward of his foresight. At no time during the past seven or eight years has there been such a demand in the middle western states for good horses as at the present time. When horses became so cheap most farmers ceased breeding, the use of their breeding stock and the feed being of more value to them than the colts they would raise. The natural consequences is that but few good young horses can now be found on the market. Iowa and Illinois, at one time two of the largest horse breeding states in the union, and where but a few years ago there were raised some of the finest blooded draft and all purpose horses in the world, is now importing from Europe for breeding purposes.—Rural Spirit.

A Generous Deed.

A few sporting men in Portland have contributed to a worthy cause, after the aid societies of that city had been appealed to in vain. Several days ago The Telegram called the attention of the public to a young woman who had suffered the misfortune of losing a limb. Being crippled for life, she was unable to work and support herself. Aware that if she could secure an artificial limb she could find a position, the unfortunate made a request for aid. The Telegram investigated the case, found it worthy, and published the facts. Contributions to the amount of $6 were received Several sporting men then interested themselves in the case, with the result that the young woman will be provided for. Taking The Telegram's word that the case was genuine, and not even asking to know the recipient's identity, these men left an order at Woodard, Clarke & Co's to fill any order the young woman should present. The expense these men have taken upon themselves to liquidate will amount to about $125.

Died.

Mrs. Sarah J. Fulkerson, wife of W. H. Fulkerson, died at the family residence in Monmouth Saturday. Deceased was 55 years old and had been in failing health for several months. She came to Oregon in 1865, with her parents, and had resided in Polk County continously ever since. A husband, two sons and one daughter survive her.

Dallas Notes.

The public schools of Dallas will open November 5. The new building is practically completed, but the contractors have until November 1 to turn it over to the district. Dedicatory ceremonies will be held, the programme being well made up at this time. It is expected that the attendance will be 500 to 600 pupils. At the college reception given by citizens of Dallas last Friday, 71 students were in attendance.

Many prunegrowers in this vicinity are preparing to plant more trees of this variety. Dallas is said to be the only section on the coast that produced a full crop of Italian prunes this season.

It Happened in a Drug Store.

"One day last winter a lady came to my drug store and asked for a brand of cough medicine that I did not have in stock," says Mr. C. R. Grandin, the popular druggist of Ontario, N. Y. "She was disappointed and wanted to know what cough preparation I could recommend. I said to her that I could freely recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and that she could take a bottle of the remedy and afrer giving it a fair trial if she did not find it worth the money to bring back the bottle and I would refund the price paid. In the course of a day or two the lady came back in company with a friend in need of a cough medicine and advised her to buy a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I consider that a very good recommendation for the remedy." It is for sale by Kirkland Drug Co.

Free to Inventors.

The experience of C. A. Snow & Co. in obtaining more than 20,000 patents for inventors has enabled them to helpfully answer many questions relating to the protection of intellectual property. This they have done in a pamphlet treating briefly of United States and foreign patents, with cost of same and how to procure them; trade marks, designs, caveats, infringements, decisions in leading patent cases, etc. This pamphlet will be sent free to anyone writing to C. A. Snow & Co., Washington, D. C
