A Marked Improvement. The Collins Flouring Mill Co. have taken out of their mill a carload of rice and are putting in their place two 20th Century roller and bolter.

The advance made in the system for the production of the necessities of life is something remarkable, and everywhere there has been a great gain in the new. The old grinding process of milling has given way to the roller process which still remains as the best yet invented for grinding. But the process of bolting the flouring wheat has been ground has changed to the sieve system. This is illustrated in the change now being made in the Collins mill, where before were stacked 12 rollers, cumbersome and hard to run. The two new machines, made out of a series of bolting cloth, will do the work of the rollers formerly used at a far less expenditure of motive power. When the work of putting in the new system is completed, which will be about the first of August, the proprietor will have the most up to date and only full sifter system mill in the state.

The reputation of the product of the Collins Flouring mill has always been first-class and with the new system being put in at such expense, the quality of the flour will be much improved, making a more granular flour thereby having more strength and also whiter color.

This mill will not only be kept up with the times but pushed ahead in the other mills of the valley for doing good work, thus enabling the proprietors to get a higher price for their flour and materially benefitting the farmers of the community by paying them a higher price for their wheat.

What Two Cents Will Do. It will bring relief to sufferers from asthma or consumption, even in the worst cases. This is about what one dose of Foley's Honey and Tar costs. Isn't it worth a trial? A. S. Locke.

Cure for Cholera Infantum—Never Known to Fail. During last May an infant child of our neighbor was suffering from cholera infantum. The doctors had given up all hopes of recovery. "For years I have been greatly bothered with kidney trouble and enlarged prostate gland. I used everything known to the profession without relief, until I was induced to use Foley's Kidney Cure. After using three bottles I was entirely relieved and cured. I prescribe it now daily in my practice and heartily recommend its use to all physicians for such troubles, for I can honestly state I have prescribed it in hundreds of cases with perfect success." A. S. Locke.

Government Land Lottery. Look out now for an outcry from some of the "unco guid" ants, that the Government has gone into the lottery business, and therefore has formed a new league with the devil. Hereafter, when a reservation of Government land was to be opened to settlement there has been a fierce scramble, a running, raging fight, in which not only the strongest but those of the stronger who were most unscrupulous and lawless, were the successful. In opening tracts of land in Oklahoma last week, the Government has pursued a different course. It has gone into the lottery business—and it is herein that it will be the object of expressions of shocked and senile virtue. Even under this arrangement the rush of people to obtain land, and a long and weary wait of thousands in suspense and under a burning sun, could not be avoided. But the worst features of former occurrences of the sort have been eliminated, and the "sooner," with his pre-emption parchment in the shape of a rifle or shotgun, has been at least partly balked. He may force his way up toward the head of the line, but that avails him nothing except the avoidance of a little delay, and the first one served with a lottery ticket stands no better chance than the last one, to secure a claim. When every applicant has been given a ticket, a drawing will be made, until all the parcels are disposed of, and the lucky ones will get a piece of land, while the unlucky ones will have to look for one elsewhere, or purchase a tract from one of the winners. This is certainly an improvement on the old method, and if there are any ants who don't like it, why don't they propose something better.—Telegram.
