"Little Women" which comes to the Isis on Sunday night, May 11, makes as great a picture as it does a story. Millions of children have read the book with great delight and no adult has found it non-interesting. Every public library in the United States has the book on its shelves; it is considered essential in every school library and is used as a text book in many states. A clean, wholesome, elevating story, sprinkled with comedy, thrills and dramatic instances. "Little Women" was put on the screen in response to a universal demand and its first run in any theater draws a larger attendance than any other picture with few exceptions. No child should be deprived of seeing it; no parent should miss it. The picture could only be secured for the Isis for one night, Sunday May 4.

The city council will convene in regular session on Wednesday evening, May 7.
