AT THE ISIS NEXT WEEK

For next Sunday night, pretty and petite Marguerite Clark comes back again. A remarkable situation developed in society when Hilary Farrington, the well known author, on learning that his wife, Eloise Farrington, one of the most beautiful women of the smart set, was about to elope with Darrell McKnight, a society man, not only made no protest, but actually aided the project.

The situation referred to actually develops in Marguerite Clarke's new Paramount photo play, "Let's Elope." But Mr. Farrington, the husband in question, had a motive in aiding his neglected wife to elope with McKnight, and this was to prove to her that he loved her and that her faith in the man of her second choice was misplaced. Of course, the developments following this unique triangular love affair, tend in the end to bring husband and wife closer together than ever, but for a time, marital discord hung like a thunder cloud over the Farrington household. The developments were not without their humorous side and they will furnish admirers of Miss Clark an hour of delightful entertainment.

On Monday night, the sixth and seventh episodes of "The Lost Express." In addition there is the enchanting Oregon girl, Margarite Fisher in "A Square Deal." It goes over with the same vim and speed as her comedy dramas and carries the endearing Fisher personality thru five reels of entertainment with a few spots of high emotionalism and marked here and there by funny Fisherisms. The story deals with a marriage problem.

For Tuesday night Priscilla Dean is at her best in "The Wicked Darling." It is the story of a girl who tried to beat it back to the straight and narrow path because she learned to love a man who trod that path unwaveringly. He did not know she had been a thief until an old crime associate of hers told him about it. Then the unexpected happens.

"The Final Close-Up" is the name of Shirley Mason's latest Paramount picture. It comes Wednesday. It's the story of a little department store clerk who was a picture fan and she wondered why things didn't happen to her as they did to people in the movies. Then, all of a sudden, things did begin to happen, and it winds up in great shape with Father acting as the board of censors. It starts the tears and makes you chuckle. The added attraction is Mrs. Sidney Drew in the laughable "Bunkered."

On Thursday night, Harry Carey plays the part of Lin McLean in "A Woman's Fool." Lin was the best hearted man in the West but a perfect fool where women were concerned. He married a waitress so she could lead a better life, not knowing she had deserted a husband and baby. Then Lin fell in love with Jassamine Buckner and Jassamine with Lin. Everything was going lovely until somebody told Jassamine about the waitress. It was a sensation on the night of Broncho Buster's ball that made the world one sweet song again.

During the Friday night run of Charley Ray's great base ball picture, "The Busher," fans are cautioned not to throw pop bottles at the screen. The poor umpire is doing the best he knows how. The story concerns a small town youth, who when he enters professional baseball gets a big head and falls down on the job. He vows to never play again but the girl in the case enters in and Charley pitches his way into the big league. It'll get you up cheering—that how good every inning—beg pardon—reel is.

The Saturday bill includes the brilliant Japanese star, Sessue Hayakawa who appears in "The Courageous Coward." They called him a coward and said the gun men had bluffed him into dropping the prosecution of the accused murderer. He could not betray the man he thought his sweetheart loved, and so bore the stigma of coward. It is a romance of the underworld of Chinatown where love, murder and the fantastic orgies of the notorious Barbary Coast are woven into a gripping drama.

On Sunday night, Nov. 2, the great Doug Fairbanks appears in his famous, "The Knickerbocker Buckaroo."
