THE SCOUT WHO STICKS

You may talk of your scouts who are strong on the hike, who are there on the trail, in the woods and the like; you may have all the signifiers, eagles and stars, first-aiders, athletes and sea-scouting tans; but if from all scouts you will give me my pick, I'll fasten my choice on the scout who will stick.

There's a job to be done, it's a tough one, I fear; it may take a week, it may take a year. Who's going to do it? Here comes the chap. He takes off his coat, he throws down his cap. Looks at the job, shuts his jaws with a click—fellows, that's him, the scout who will stick.

Problems arise as the job goes along. Nothing works right and everything's wrong. When things look the blackest some scouts will say: "Oh, gee, what's the use?" and then beat it away. But some one fights on through the thin and the thick. And we find at the end the scout who will stick.

—The Cave Scout.

PEACE TIME RED CROSS FACES HUGE TASKS

War Task Not Finished--Public Health Problems Must Be Solved By Red Cross

The American Red Cross, according to a statement just issued from Washington, D. C., believes that its first duty is to finish its war task, one hundred per cent. The Red Cross must also continue to carry on even more effectively than in the past, its established system of National and International relief, in mitigating the suffering caused by famine, fire, floods, and great national calamities. It must also render every necessary service to the Army and Navy, and must continue the work undertaken prior to the war in the field of nursing and First Aid.

The responsibilities of the Red Cross are greatly increased as a result of the lessons taught by the war, the statement continues. Higher standards of responsibility have been set to prevent needless suffering and loss of life. The Red Cross, with its traditions and its established organization, will aid in maintaining these standards by co-operating with all recognized agencies engaged in conserving human life and happiness. Activities already authorized include the encouragement and support of Public Health Nursing, educational classes in dietetics, home care of the sick, and First Aid, the extension of Red Cross Home Service, an increased Junior program, and co-operation in developing community health centers.

War time developments have given every community in the United States a recognized and organized center of Red Cross activity through which the people of that community may, if they wish, serve themselves, with all the advantages of national leadership, national standards, national and international contacts. It rests with the people of every community to determine for themselves just how fully they have need of a movement which under the associated Red Cross Societies is to express the effort of the peoples of the world to free themselves from needless death and suffering through neighborly cooperation and service.

You're in mighty good company when you belong to the Red Cross. So long as there's sickness, suffering, disaster, the Red Cross must stand by! The H. C. of L. hasn't hit Red Cross membership. They're still a dollar. If nine million youngsters believe in the Red Cross, it must have the right idea.

Dr. Livingston Farrand, the greatest authority on public health in America, served in France as the head of the fight against tuberculosis. He now succeeds Henry P. Davison as head of the American Red Cross. Dr. Farrand recently visited Seattle, Spokane and Portland and conferred with representatives of Red Cross Chapters of Alaska, Idaho, Oregon and Washington. "The Red Cross faces problems in the post-war period more serious, if possible, than the problems of the war itself. Not a great amount of money, but the membership and hearty co-operation of every American citizen is what is needed to help the Red Cross to solve these problems, which threaten our national vitality, and which, unless solved, will rob us of the fruits of victory," said Dr. Farrand.

"The Red Cross is the Gospel in boots."

AT THE ISIS NEXT WEEK

The two episodes of "The Lost Express" on Monday night. The added attraction is Mary Miles Minter in "Social Briars." Suppose you were a pretty girl with a graceful figure and a wonderful voice and a long-haired country Sunday school superintendent wanted you to wed and become one of the village gossips, and suppose there was a way you could escape such a fate, even though it lay over the rocky road to Broadway and—oh, see the picture! Priscilla Dean, who comes Tuesday night, has made a crook play all her own. "The Silk-Lined Burglar" is its name, and action and suspense are its keynotes from the opening iris to the final fadeaway. There's a real safe-cracker, who has made monkeys of the police; there's a rich young society girl who needs a safe-cracker in her business—what ever that may be. There's a young Secret Service agent who is at his wits' end how to stave off the ruin of his professional career—until the girl and Blackie solve the problem.

"The Hoodlum", declared by critics to be the greatest character success in Mary Pickford's screen history will be seen on Wednesday and Thursday nights. From flunkied luxury to gang chief of alley throng is a rich girl's comedy fall and Mary does everything from A to Z on the way down and up again. As a snob Amy Burke is converted into a star crap-shooter, a nimble-fingered potato peeler, the official style setter for tough girls and the most kindly and humanitarian person in the tenements. Replete with novel comedy situations, and softened by the romance of Amy and a tenement "towel thief", "The Hoodlum" is one of the most interesting and funniest of attractions. There will be a packed house on both nights, it being expected that everybody in south Polk county will see this picture.

Friday night Ethel Clayton in "Men, Women and Money." The story concerns a young and unsophisticated girl of the Middle West who becomes initiated into the ways of the smart set and from then on is a slave to that kind of life until she is finally awakened and finds beneath the glitter and glamor of society lies a dark current which sooner or later penetrates to the outer surface and engulfs its victims. Miss Clayton is afforded an excellent opportunity to display her emotional talents as the picture abounds with highly dramatic situations.

The big show of Saturday (afternoon and evening) consists of Bessie Bariscale in "The Purchase Price", a comedy and the Ford Weekly. "U B SURE 2 C SCRT SRVCE. Y? I B-leave IT 2 B A GRATE FIL-LUM!" Upon receipt of this mysterious message our code experts deciphered the system and we followed directions. Needless to say, we cannot divulge all we know, but are able to say that Captain Dumont's real name is Major Robert Warwick and he is involved in a thrilling plot with Wanda Hawley in "Secret Service." Upon viewing this extraordinary picture you will immediately realize how Captain Dumont's machinations in the Confederate telegraph office imperiled the whole city of Richmond for he was a Union spy. As for the code message, call at the box office when you come to see "Secret Service" Sunday afternoon and night (Nov. 23), and it will be explained to you.

JOYOUS MUSIC AT CHAUTAUQUA

Sierra Serenaders Come With Big program on Last Night

The Sierra Serenaders bring splendid, joyous music to the Chautauqua Festival. These charming and talented young ladies have been one of the outstanding successes among musical companies of the East for several years and their appearance on the Western Festivals is of more than ordinary importance. Their programs are of infinite variety; orchestral numbers, readings, songs, instrumental solos, duets, costumed selections. It is an unusual company which pleases unusually well. Every number, whether vocal or instrumental, is rendered with all the finish and musicianship of which true artists are capable.
