band is perpetuating her memory in continuing the beautiful custom. Many anthems, mixed choruses, ladies' choruses, male quartettes, duets solos, piano solos, with violin obligatos and joyous Easter anthems made up a program that was thoroughly enjoyed by a capacity house. The local musicians under the direction of J. G. McIntosh were assisted by Misses Helen Cornelius, Hope McDonald and Mrs. Maurice Butler of Monmouth. Mrs. J. G. McIntosh was the capable accompanist. To the leaders much praise is due for their painstaking manner in producing such choice programs.

GIVES WIFE PROPERTY RIGHT

Measure of importance to Women Likely to Become a Law in Saskatchewan.

Under the terms of a bill that has just received its first reading in the current session of the provincial legislature at Regina, Saskatchewan, no married man in Saskatchewan may sell or mortgage his residence without his wife's consent, irrespective of valuation.

This contemplates a much greater degree of protection for a wife, in respect to her home, than was provided in the original act passed several years ago. That act provided that no married man may sell or mortgage his homestead without his wife's consent and fixed a maximum valuation of $1,800.

"Homestead," under that act, meant not only the farm home of 100 acres but also the home anywhere in the province, in city, town or village. Subsequently that act was amended by raising the valuation limit to $5,000 on the ground that $1,800 was not sufficient to protect part of a home where the value was greater.

Now it is proposed to remove the valuation altogether, the condition being created that no home may be sold or mortgaged without the wife's consent, provided it is the actual residence.

This measure is in line with the latitude and consideration generally accorded to women, especially since the war, because of their service in the war, at home and overseas.

QUIET THE SEA WITH AIR

American Ingenious Invention Protects Ships Which Are Lying in Harbor.

In interesting device intended for such purposes as protecting a small port where the cost of permanent works would be prohibitive or for warding off heavy seas from a vessel lying along an exposed pier, recently has been perfected, says a writer in the Engineering supplement of the London Times.

Known as the Brasher air screen, it is the invention of Philip Brasher, an American government engineer. It consists in laying a line of perforated pipes on the bed of the sea. These pipes are connected to an air compressor and when a gale springs up compressed air is driven through them. The bubbles as they rise to the surface form a screen behind which, it is said that a vessel can lie safely, even though a heavy sea may be running a few hundred yards away. The device was first used for the protection of a pier, 4,000 feet long, at El Segundo, in California. In the winter after this pier was built, half of it was washed away, and its owners were contemplating the abandonment of the station when the air screen was installed, with satisfactory results.

EMINENT DOGS.

Among jolly dogs poor old "Jumbo," the fat and famous one who went to war, will be long remembered. He was a typical British bulldog, and was lent by its owner to Jellicoe's flagship as a mascot, where he proved worthy of his trust at the battle of Jutland.

He also collected for charities, like the collies Help and Tim of Paddington station, who between them cleaned considerably over £1,000. And now dog Jumbo has come to join them in the happy hunting ground where John Peel's Ranter and Ringwood and Bellman, as well as Rab and Owd Bob have gone before. Will not somebody write a book about our famous individual dogs?—London Chronicle.

CHURCHES PLAN TO AID RURAL LIFE

Interchurch World Movement Surveyors Find Lethargy in Oregon.

The church used to have to compete with the saloon as the center of recreation. Now it has to compete with the movie, the dance-hall and the motor car.

This is the view of the problem facing rural churches Oregon, of surveyors for the Interchurch World Movement who have spent months making investigations of conditions in the state.

"We cannot complain because these other attractions are drawing the people away from the church," said one, "so long as we do not provide any alternative social attractions. The church has to meet the demands of the community in which it exists, physical and recreational as well as spiritual, and so long as it does not meet them it cannot protest against the fact that the dance-hall and movies occupy the leisure time of the younger people, while the whole family is lured by the prospect of a motor trip rather than by what the church at present has to offer.

"The church has to offer something better. It will not accomplish much by denouncing the dance-hall and other amusements of which it disapproves so long as its criticism is merely negative. It has to take a positive course and provide entertainment and recreation of a feasible attraction and so outstep the bad with the good. I know of one Sunday school that faced this problem in a vigorous way. It found that the local pool hall was attracting large numbers of young men, so it bought the pool tables, thus closing the pool hall. But it did not stop there. It offered entertainment which effectively reached these young men who had previously spent their time at the pool hall. We can have movies in the church too, especially those educational films which can easily be got from the Government departments."

Some surveyors found that there was a general lack of interest in the church and religious things in the rural districts which they visited. "Pastors are becoming discouraged," one said, "and spend part of their time working on farms instead of putting all their effort into church work."

The results of these surveys will form an important part of the program at the conference to be held in this county early in April.

NO SCHOOLS FOR CHINESE.

There are at least 60,000,000 young people of school age in China for whom there are at present no educational facilities at all included in the program of the Interchurch World Movement which will be explained at the conference to be held in this county early in April are five universities in China each involving the cooperation of from four to six denominations.
