Specialist
in Eyesight

Can be seen at his office 211-212 Oregon Building (formerly the Hubbard building). One third of a century practical experience—9 years practice in Salem. My years of experience and the satisfactory service I have rendered to thousands of Marion and Polk county people assures you competent and lasting relief in all your eyesight troubles.

In every trade, profession or branch of work there are found a few men who, from special fitness or education, or both, are better prepared to serve you in their line than the multitude of others in the same field.

Since optometry requires especial ability in both professional and mechanical work, men that are fitted to do both equally well are scarce.

Therefore, you cannot be too particular about the selection of the man to whom you entrust your eyes.

The professional work, the examining and measuring of your eye defects, must be skillfully done. The mechanical part, the making and adjusting of your glasses, is no less important.

I am making a specialty of correcting children's eyes. MY PRICES ARE VERY REASONABLE for the material and service you will receive and I guarantee satisfaction in every respect. Office hours from 9 to 12 a. m.—1 to 5 p. m. Sundays and evenings by special appointment.

Buddhism Seeks to Regain Grip

Buddhist priests of Burma, after ignoring the progress of Christian missions in that country for more than a century, are making a vigorous effort to restore Buddhism to its old place. This is the report made by Baptist missionaries in that field. The outcome of the struggle is of vital importance, as Burma has the most advanced civilization of any part of British India, and its influence is growing.

With this in view, the General Board of Promotion of the Northern Baptist Convention believes that the working forces of Christianity should be doubled. Especially in this so since, under direction of the British authorities, the missionaries sent out by the Northern Baptists are conducting 65 per cent of the educational work of the country. An indication of governmental co-operation is found in the offer of the authorities to pay half the cost of construction of a new plant for Judson College. The government, too, has secured a beautiful new campus outside the city of Rangoon. Schools of every grade, from kindergarten through college and seminary, are conducted by missionaries, and educational work is particularly strong among women and girls.

Some idea of the task of expansion is shown by the fact that there are 40 races in an area as great as Texas and with a population greater than that of New York State. In spite of the work already done, the illiteracy of Burma is estimated at 62 per cent. The needs are taxing the ability to meet them. In their struggle to restore the prestige of Buddha the Occident has furnished Buddhist leaders with an idea. One of their most active agencies is the Young Men's Buddhist Association, which drew its inspiration from the Y. M. C. A.

Before 1924 it is hoped to be able to send 55 new missionary families, as well as 34 new women missionaries and four doctors to supplement the 60 missionary families, 52 single women and four doctors and two nurses now in the field.

Especially is there need for greater medical service, as the present force gives medical attention to more than 10,000 persons a year. Most of these are not in the cities and centers of population. The British Government provides for work in such centers. Missionaries in the field estimate that some 90 per cent of those who die in the non-Christian field suffer to the close without the attention of a doctor or nurse.

Plans favored by the General Board of Promotion favor the use of 25 automobiles in this region, estimating that the activities of the missionary can be tripled by this equipment.

Construction of 25 new school buildings to replace outgrown plants and relieve congestion, the establishment of a school in trades and arts and the founding of new schools for girls are reported as immediate necessities to forestall Buddhist efforts.

Congressman Hawley is back with his old chestnut, "No interests to serve but the public interests."

Northern Baptists Have New Paper

February saw the appearance of Volume I, Number 1, of "The Baptist," the new official organ of the Northern Baptist Convention. Issued in Chicago, the weekly had a first printing of 75,000.

Dr. Lathan A. Crandall, formerly of Minneapolis, is editor-in-chief. Dr. Clifton D. Gray, editor of "The Standard," which "The Baptist" has absorbed, is managing editor. "The Standard" had been a household word in Baptist homes since 1853.

Among the contributing editors of "The Baptist" are Governor Carl Milliken of Maine, Professor William Lyon Phelps of Yale and Helen Barrett Montgomery. The purpose of the new paper is "to portray from week to week the forward steps of the denomination in the general advancement of Christianity."

Employment by many American communities of visiting nurses has inspired foreign mission societies to plan similar work, and a training school is being developed at Moulmein (Burma) Hospital for Women, so that Burmese villages may have similar workers.

Sixty-seven languages are spoken in an area a little larger than Michigan, according to the report of Baptist missionaries in Assam, British India, a province which lies close to the border of Tibet. Assam is a great tea producing center, its exports being 1,700,000 chests in 1917.

AT THE ISIS NEXT WEEK.

"The west that was" with its picturesque lawlessness, its daily shooting scrapes, its gaudy dance halls, its scarlet doves and the fierce untamed passions of its red-blooded men and women, is depicted in "Sundown Trail," Monroe Salisbury's newest Universal starring vehicle, which comes on Sunday and Monday. Salisbury is seen as "Quiet" Carter, an easy-going Southerner who goes to a wild mining camp to discover that red blood counts for more than blue and that "the survival of the fittest" in that quick trigger-finger. Two spectacular incidents in the production are the hurling of Clyde Fillmore, the "heavy," into a rapids, and a hand to hand knife battle between Salisbury and Fillmore. The glittering and gaudy dance halls of the early days are vividly pictured in the production. Alice Elliot, who played the role of his Italian sweetheart in "The Sleeping Lion," is Salisbury's leading woman in "Sundown Trail," the story of a Virginia widow who went to a California gold camp to ransom her stolen baby; how she was mistaken for a Harpy and married by the leader of the Vigilantes to save her from deportation. An amazing account of mistaken identity and the queer tricks played on the mind by asphasia.

The picture par excellence, one of the supreme offerings of filmdom is "The Whip," the attraction for Tuesday and Wednesday nights. The story is of the race track and the intrigue revolving around a famous race horse named "The Whip." This intrigue involves an impecunious "gentleman" and his adventurous partner, a handsome young man in love with the charming daughter of the horse-loving judge who owns "The Whip," the jockey who rides and idolizes the horse, and the unsophisticated and pretty sister of the jockey. Big race scenes, wonderful hunting scenes, the best train wreck and the most thrilling automobile accident ever seen in pictures—all these combined with a powerful and attention-riveting story, make this one of the world's biggest screen plays.

Rex Beach's "The Spoilers" on Thursday and Friday nights. This thrilling romance of the gold fields of our great Northwest, if strong in sentiment, is steeped in fierce primitive passions inspired by insidious evils that invest the closing coils of a great conspiracy for robbing honest toil of its golden fruits, and it has braved privations with death ever imminent, day by day or through the long night of the Midnight Sun. It has the better and brighter things in contrasting figures to the rugged miners, is sweet and refreshing as well as reliant and imperious womanhood, to give it interest in unusual ways—sobering and surprising as it touches the hearts and actions of rugged and battling men. These strong elements in the melting pot of this romance, fuse to make a great work intense, picturesque and potential beyond compare, as far as current production of motion pictures is concerned.

Everyone likes stories that are full of action and thrills. That is shown by the large sale of books of that description, which are read with avidity by persons of every class. Such a story is that of the Pathe Play, "The Girl from Bohemia," starring the charming Irene Castle, which will be here Saturday night. It is tremendously exciting and there is a mystery in it which has you guessing from start to finish. There is a strong patriotic denouement that will grip you and make you glad you are an American.
