tary of the Rebekahs for fourteen years and had also been secretary of the Star. Thruout her life she symbolized fidelity, constancy, light and purity, fervency and zeal, and her life will be a benediction and inspiration to all who knew her well. For many years Mrs. Henkle had made her home in Independence, but for more than a year she and her daughter, Emma, had lived in Portland. 'Twas at her Portland home, last Saturday, June 5, the summons came at 6 in the evening. There was no lingering illness but the Master called her and she answered without hesitancy. Physicians pronounce the cause as apoplexy resulting from arterio sclerosis.

She is survived by one daughter, Miss Emma, a prominent teacher in the Portland schools; a sister, Mrs. J. B. V. Butler of Monmouth; also two brothers, George W. Harris of Burke, Idaho, and Major F. T. Harris of Lewiston, Idaho, who was a surgeon in the U. S. army and saw two years' service overseas.

Pall bearers for the service were L. Damon, H. Hirschberg, S. B. Walker, W. H. Craven, George Conkey and Newt Jones.

WOMEN ADVANCING.

The modern woman is making her way into the close corporations known as the London city companies. A few days ago a woman proved her right to admission into the Spectacle Makers company, one of the few city companies that require their members to have passed an examination.

Some of the 12 great companies and the 63 minor companies were founded by men and women interested in the industries they represent and some received their charters from queens, but nowadays it is the exception for them to admit women to membership. The Company of Turners, whose craft dates back to Roman times, has enrolled one woman, a master turner who did important work in munition factories.

Later—Tse day was ideal and the grades with their teachers and several friends spent the day picnicking at Rickrall.

Typical Scenery Of France

It was a perfectly rural scene, and the still summer day gave it a charm for which its meager elements but half accounted. Longmore thought he had never seen anything so characteristically French; all the French novels seemed to have described it, all the French landscapists to have painted it. The fields and trees were of a cool metallic green. . . . The clear light had a sort of mild grayness; the sunbeams were of silver rather than gold. A great red-roofed, high-stacked farmhouse, with whitewashed walls and a straggling yard, surveyed the highroad on one side, from behind a transparent curtain of poplars. A narrow stream, half choked with emerald rushes and edged with gray aspens, occupied the opposite quarter. The meadows rolled and sloped away gently to the low horizon, which was barely concealed by the continuous line of clipped and marshaled trees.—From "Madame De Mauves," by Henry James.

At the close of the meeting the hostesses served tea and wafers and the gathering enjoyed a visit over the tea cups.

STORIES TOLD BY DANCES

Popular Steps Said to Have Originated From the Customs of American Indian Tribes.

"Whatever one's view concerning the propriety of the 'fox trot,' the 'lame duck' and the 'grizzly bear,' one fact about them may be of interest—animal dances are not new," says a bulletin issued by the National Geographic society from its Washington headquarters.

"These dances recall the steps long practiced by the American Indians and also by some primitive peoples of the present day.

"The red men engaged in the buffalo, deer, bear and eagle dances with true poetry of motion and religious fervor. Modern ballroom artistry frequently is crude as compared with the dances which long existed among these earlier Americans.

"Ethnologists say the so-called animal dances originated in the stories which tribal braves told around their fires to illustrate their adventures and the actions of their prey during the hunt.

"Travelers in the South seas found the primitive peoples of the Society islands engaging in pastimes which they believe had a similar origin."

MINISTRY OF HUMOR.

P. McMahon Glynn, former minister for home and territories, will be much missed in the Australian house of representatives, which dearly loves its joke. Recently Mr. Glynn was giving evidence before the Northern Territory Royal commission. Noticing that the former minister was standing, and not seeing that the court orderly had omitted to place a chair in the witness box, Mr. Justice Ewing said courteously: "Take a chair, Mr. Glynn." Looking at the empty witness box, the former minister replied: "I have not got one, your honor. I lost it at the last election!"

MONMOUTH—The Foster Lumber company, whose headquarters are at Lincoln, Neb., is erecting a sawmill in Kings Valley, southwest of here. Mr. Bishop of Portland has charge of the construction work. He Card of Thanks.

My most sincere thanks and gratitude are extended to the many friends who so kindly administered sympathy in my late bereavement of my beloved mother. Those beautiful floral emblems with all their loveliness "whisper hope when'er faith grows dim." We cannot fathom these mysteries but the love and sympathy of friends and the expressive language of those beautiful flowers make my grief easier to bear.
