Even the price of white chips is becoming prohibitive, poker players tell us. It takes at least a dollar and a half to stay until the first draw now.

Mr. Harding still lives in the town in which he was born and raised. Usually the "home town" never sees the ability of its boys and girls. They must go among strangers to receive what's coming to them.

While there is no excuse for it except carelessness, much confusion results over the names of Dallas and The Dalles. Even so extensive a traveler as Billy Sunday was a victim. The world in its swift pace is frequently cutting off the "The" and leaving "Dalles" to stand alone which it is unable to do in some cases as long as Dallas is on the map. The best way out of it would be for Dallas to quit altogether and move over to Independence.

THE RHYMING SUMMARIST

Big wars and little wars
 Into the course of events are fitting,
 Nations get to going in a brawl
 An no one thinks of quitting;
 But if Ross Nelson declared war on Portugal,
 We'd know whose bound to win it,
 For in the go
 It is so,
 The time would be a minute.

Sometimes the fist brings the desired result
 And calms the troubled waters,
 And other times it raises Cain
 With bull heads and the sotterers;
 So when to fight or not to fight
 Is a question of much fever,
 So in case of doubt
 Before finding out
 Better not do either.

But despite this rapid age of strive,
 When the dove of peace is buried,
 Our young folks seem to heed it not
 Take chances and get married;
 But to quote a winsome miss
 At whom the bug's been biting,
 "I live with maw
 I live with paw,
 I'm sorter up on fighting."

AT THE ISIS NEXT WEEK

On next Sunday afternoon and evening, Chester Conklin, whose face is familiar to every picture fan, will be at the Isis in person, surrounded with a company of high-salaried, exceptional artists, including Art Penny, one of the best known cabaret entertainers in the country. Mr. Conklin has long wanted to meet his audiences in person and presents a brilliant, modern, delightful revue. It is constructed to amuse and for laughter. There is music aplenty, color, fashion, dance and a touch of travesty for which Mr. Conklin is celebrated. Then he carries with him his own jazz orchestra of picked players, assuring a genuine treat in the lighter kind of music with a kick. May Allison in "The Cheater" is described as one of the photoplay sensations of the year, presenting this fascinating actress in an intensely dramatic role. "The Cheater" deals with the healing of faith, a theme that is uppermost in the minds of thinking people throughout the civilized world at the present time.

In "The Heart of Gypsy" Monday and Tuesday nights, there is mystery without the improbable, there is rich good humor without vulgarity and there is sensible reason for everything. On the same evening episode 13 of "Smashing Barriers" will be shown in which Darling in an automobile dashes into a deadfall trap in the road.

"Are You Legally Married?" is a pictorial sensation. It presents a theme unusual and unique in type and unfolds the bewitching tale of "man-made laws and flaws," interwoven with many stirring bits of unusual excitement, coupled with the dramatic ability and the originality of the only male vampire, Lew Cody. Wednesday and Thursday nights.

On Friday night, Norma Talmadge comes in "The Probation Wife." It is the story of a girl who is the most popular attraction at a notorious cafe. As a result of a raid on the place she is sent up for three years. Escaping on a train she offers herself to a man for food and shelter. Much to her surprise he marries her. "A Little Brother of the Rich" here Sunday night is a screen version of the great novel—one which contains a world of dramatic and human interest.
