Joe Rodgers, Jr., Wins

(H. E. Browne in Salem Journal.)

In the Oak Point school district booth is found many creditable exhibits, and one of especial attraction is made by Joseph Junior Rodgers, eight years old. In a remote part of his father's farm Joseph conceived the idea of producing something for the county fair. On account of his youthfulness and little experience as a gardener he received little encouragement from the head of that family. But Joseph was not easily discouraged—he was persistent—and unbeknown to his parents he created a garden wherein he cared for melons and other vegetables that brought him first in nearly every instance. Next year, said his mother, Joseph Junior will have more encouragement from his parents. Again I am reminded that "a prophet hath glory save in his own country."

STOVES

Time to put them up. Too chilly right now in the morning and at night. As in years past we are official headquarters for heating stoves. We have established a good stove business because we handled A No. 1 Stoves at very reasonable prices. Nobody ever makes a mistake by purchasing stoves at our store—in fact we sell so many we have difficulty in keeping them in stock. If you have never bought a stove of us it is to your interest to do so. If you have bought a stove of us, we know you'll buy the next one here, too.
