Dancing Party

A most beautiful social function of the festive season was the luncheon dance which Delos Eldridge gave Friday evening for a number of high school friends. Glimmering Jack o'lanterns, witches, owls, black cats and other motifs made the rooms pretty and gay. Lights were beautified with orange-colored shades and dotted plants and fall blossoms were artistically placed. This formed a pleasing background for the attractive misses in their pretty frocks. Rugs were removed from the spacious living room and reception hall providing ample room for the gay revelers, while an Edison cabinet furnished the latest dance music. The smartly appointed luncheon table was centered with a golden-hued pumpkin filled with seasonal fruits over a reflector. Unique place cards and amusing Hallowe'en favors marked covers for the Misses Thelma Williams, Marjorie Reynolds, Kathleen Skinner and Fay Walker and Messrs. Dean Craven, Glen Burright, Robert Craven and Delos Eldridge. Between courses the guests resumed dancing. Refreshing punch was also served during the evening.

Mrs. Eldridge was assisted in entertaining by Miss Eva Robertson and Mrs. Clyde Ecker.
