

CITY AND COUNTRY

AIRLIE

Mrs. F. R. Arrell is visiting relatives in Coos county.

Major and Mrs. Rose arrived Monday from Newport.

Otto Heike has returned from Eastern Oregon and will remain here this winter.

A delightful club event of the week was the wist party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Word But Monday evening. Members of the owl club and several additional players made up the guest list. Pretty, seasonable flowers furnished most delightful diversion. At the close of the game Mrs. S. B. Walker was present on Saturday afternoon.

Luke E. Weaver and Mrs. Oregon, daughter of John Lay. Born July 22, 1857 at Albany.

Grandma Plant died at the home of the Misses Plant and Rose on Main street Tuesday morning. She had been ill since Friday and relatives had been summoned. Interment will be made at Salem Thursday. The next issue will contain a more detailed account of the passing.

Mrs. Wm. O'Kelley

Following a brief illness, Mrs. Margaret E. O'Kelley passed away at the M. C. Williams house last Wednesday. Funeral services were conducted by Dr. H. C. Dunsmore from the Williams house Friday. Committal services followed at the Kikkrell cemetery. Mrs. O'Kelley is survived by her husband, Wm. O'Kelley, and one son of Kikkrell. Also two step daughters, Mrs. Bush of Portland and Mrs. Clara Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Kelley moved here from their Althe ranche about two years ago and had made an attractive home on Third street. Mrs. O'Kelley was domestic in her habits and kind-hearted. Mrs. O'Kelley was fortunate in her strong talents. She will be missed by a large circle of friends.

A CHRISTMAS CAROL

Come back to Bethlehem, Oh, heart, return to Bethlehem, Oh, heart, return to Bethlehem, Oh, heart, return to Bethlehem.

Excuse for ceasing work

The Russian working people have always prized upon Christmas as an excuse for ceasing all work for a month. Before the recent revolution "Frolinda" was the celebration on Christmas eve, when the peasants gathered about the houses of the nobles, sang carols and scrambled for the coins tossed to them from the windows. Then came a great masquerade, when parents of all ages dressed themselves to represent animals, the dead being to represent animals, the living to represent humans. They are two used car bargains at the Ace Garage. Stop in and see them. Some terms. Ace Garage.
