GREEK QUEEN AIDS REFUGEES

Sophie Gets Cabinet to Raise $75,000 to Help Destitute From Caucasus.

THEIR CONDITION DESPERATE

Twenty Thousand Huddled Together in Barracks Not Intended to Hold Half That Number—Disease Takes 1,000 in Month.

Saloniki.—Queen Sophie of Greece, head of the Greek Red Cross, recently summoned members of the Greek cabinet to the palace and demanded that the government take steps to prevent the distress of 20,000 Greek refugees from the Caucasus, now in barracks on the hills of Kalamaria, near Saloniki, from becoming a national disgrace.

In consequence of her action 1,000,000 drachmae (equivalent to about $75,000 at present rates of exchange) were collected for the benefit of the refugees and 15 additional physicians were sent to Saloniki.

The miserable condition of the refugees had been reported to the queen by Colonel Olds, the American Red Cross commissioner for Europe, who inspected their camp. Queen Sophie then sent Dr. Theophanes Aggelopoulos, an eminent sanitary expert, as her personal representative to take charge of the camp. He brought a corps of ten physicians. Until that time only one physician had administered to the thousands ill among the refugees. There had been no one to look after sanitation.

Americans Send Aid. The American Red Cross has sent to Saloniki Col. Henry A. Shaw of the United States army medical corps, with a party of physicians and nurses to aid the Greek government in the care of the refugees. Colonel Shaw plans to gather 1,000 of the orphans in old French barracks, several miles from the present camp, where the children will be given medical attention, while food will be furnished by the Greek government. The expenses of this work will be borne by the government.

Miss Libian Spellman, a Boston nurse, is conducting a Red Cross dispensary at the camp, where she distributes cans of milk and soon will distribute clothing to the small children.

Many of the refugees were lured by promise of rich lands in Macedonia, but the majority fled from the Caucasus, before the advances of the Bolsheviks and the Turkish nationalists under Kemal Pasha.

1,000 Die in Month.

The 20,000 are huddled together in barracks which were not intended to hold half that number. A Red Cross inspector who visited the camp reports that disease such as typhus, dysentery and influenza is prevalent, and that more than 1,000 of the refugees died within a month.

The Greek governor, General Zaitzanos, is in despair, for he expects 15,000 additional refugees to arrive soon and says that there are more than 50,000 others trying to reach Greece. The fund appropriated by the Greek government to feed, clothe and provide medical attention will be exhausted within a month, say the relief agents.

UNAPPRECIATED.

"Oh, George, dear," said the anxious girl, who had been waiting while her lover interviewed her father on matrimonial topics, "what did papa say?"

"Agnes, my love," replied George, diplomatically, "I don't think your father's friends half appreciate what a vigorous speaker he is, or what a wonderful command of language he possesses."

HER TRIALS.

"They say she is extremely particular in all her ways."

"So she is. It was a dreadful trial to her when in the scarcity she couldn't get refined sugar."
