Ruse Used, Car Stolen; Four Bits Left Children

It has to date cost two men and a girl just 50 cents for an automobile which they appropriated from the Garage of William Setak, route 7.

"Have you any strawberries for sale?" the party of three inquired of Jimmy and Otto, two of the Setak children. They were answered that berries were plentiful.

"Pick us about 50 cents' worth" one of the men is said to have requested. While Jimmy and Otto were strawberry picking in the garden, one of the strangers was lock picking at the Setak garage. He failed to wait for the berries. When Mr. and Mrs. Setak returned home from Wilhoit springs they were short one automobile.

Albany and Eugene officials have been notified of the theft. The party of three is said to have driven up to the Setak farm in a machine. — Salem Capital Journal.

One Wonders What the Solitary Inhabitants of Tristan da Cunha, Have to Live For.

A British cruiser late in 1920 visited a spot which has had only one other caller at her port since July, 1919. This isolated place is Tristan da Cunha, said to be the loneliest spot in the British empire. The island, which is of volcanic origin, towers to a height of 8,000 feet above sea-level in the south Atlantic. So thoroughly has the never-worry creed taken its hold upon the people that the men move in a listless fashion, only bestirring themselves enough to keep from starving, and let the women do what work there is to be done. There are only 119 inhabitants on the island living in its 22 stone thatch-roofed houses. Their wood is that which drifts in to them on the tide, they raise potatoes as the food staple, they make their moccasins of soft bullock hide, they obtain a few clothes from an occasional ship which calls there, in exchange for geese, fowls, milk, sheep, eggs and cured albatross and penguin skins, and for months in succession they do without bread, tea, coffee and sugar. The people are fast deteriorating in type due to interbreeding.—National Geographic Society Bulletin.

Traveler—I thought you said this was the best hotel in town?
Taxidriver—It is, sir.
Traveler—Well, that may be a good boost for the hotel, but it's an awful knock for the town.

DON'T MEMORIZE SPEECH.

Don't ever commit a speech to memory, says Representative F. W. Dallinger of Massachusetts. If you do when you start to deliver it a great fear will seize you. You can't have anybody prompt you, of course. That would be too ridiculous. No matter how well you know it there is a chance of forgetting. And if you forget you are lost. You will probably not forget, will go all the way through to the end without a bobble. But you are so fearful that you will that you agonize, suffer excruciatingly.

Mr. Dallinger knows. He did it—once.—New York Sun.

MEMORY TESTS.

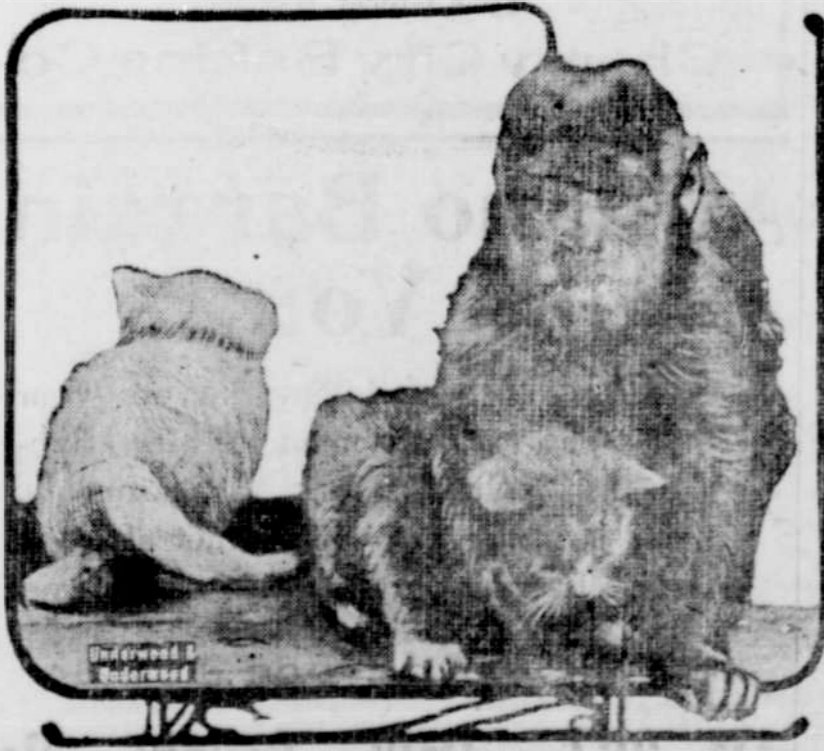

"I can never remember addresses and telephone numbers."
"You should write them in a notebook."
"I do. But I can never remember what I did with the notebook."

THIS IS DANTE YEAR

The six hundredth anniversary of the death of Dante, probably the world's greatest poet, will be celebrated all over the world this year. The actual anniversary of Dante's death, 600 years ago, is September 14. Herewith is a photographic reproduction of a bust portrait of Dante by Paola S. Abbate, prominent sculptor of New York city.

"Janet" Adopts Kittens

"Janet," a monkey owned by Mrs. Mary F. Halpin, Astoria, L. I., "mothering" two of the four kittens which she has adopted. The mother cat left the kits in Mrs. Halpin's yard and then disappeared. "Janet" found the tiny animals crying, picked them up and brought them into the house.
