FOR A BIG OMELETTE

Lots of boys will have great fun this summer hunting for eggs under the barn and in the hayloft but few will find them as big as the eggs this youngster is gathering. They are ostrich eggs, laid on an American ostrich farm. The eggs weigh nearly two pounds apiece and are good to eat, though much stronger than hen's eggs.

Successful Recital Given Wednesday

A Packed and Appreciative House Greeted the Pupils of Mrs. Lottie Hedges McIntosh.

Numerous art baskets filled with choice Caroline Testout roses, pink and white peonies and an abundance of lacy ferns for a background converted the rostrum of the Methodist church into a bower of artistic beauty for the annual recital of the piano and voice pupils of Mrs. Lottie Hedges McIntosh last Wednesday night. A capacity house greeted the young musicians and guests ushered to comfortable seats by the Misses Muriel Wilson, Edith Plessinger, Ruth Hefley and Mildred Dawes who were dainty in modish summer frocks. The program was rendered in two parts, the latter portion being given over to the more advanced students. The pupils as a whole acquitted themselves most creditably and showed conscientious adherence to the instructions of their teacher. Each number received an ovation and even the "tiniest tots" who appeared played with a firm and expressive touch. The more advanced displayed artistic temperament in several classical numbers. The interpretations of both the elementary and advanced pupils were without mechanical technique and Mrs. McIntosh is doing much in developing splendid musicians who certainly showed up well on this occasion. Besides the program which follows, a group of vocal selections by Paul Scott, who is a local favorite, added much pleasure to the meritorious event:

Mount Holyoke Girls as Painters

The girls of Mount Holyoke wanted their boathouse to be a credit to the institution. But the college had no money to spend on decoration, so the girls themselves mobilized and did the job of painting, quickly and artistically.
