EVIDENTLY KNEW EACH OTHER

This Cat and Dog Had Forgotten They Were Supposed to Be Deadly Enemies.

Many have read and not a few have seen examples of friendship between cats and dogs, where the age-long animosity has been forgotten through long days of comradeship, and canine and feline have romped together without a thought of the ancestral feud between their houses. A passerby on Sixth avenue the other day witnessed an example of this sort.

A German police dog came walking like a patrolman out of a grocery shop. Under the window in the warm sun was lolling a black cat, stretching every limb to catch the raw April sunshine. The dog said good morning and the cat appeared to say the same. There was a little quiet play, then the police dog opened wide his jaws and seized the cat's head between them. Not a motion did she make, though one snap of those strong jaws would have ended her existence.

As calmly as an old lady might survey a patrolman's nightstick she lay quietly before her friend and seemed rather to enjoy his attentions as a caress. Then he released her and left.—New York Times.

"BETTER BABIES FOR JAPAN"

Government Recognizes Importance of Movement Begun by Women of the American Y. W. C. A.

Japanese women have been told by their government not to carry their babies on their backs. This is in an endeavor to raise the increasingly short stature of the Japanese people.

"Sitting on their feet from birth, in the shawl-carry on the back, investigation has proved, stunts the growth," says Miss Ernestine L. Friedmann. "Even the komoris (little girl nursemaids) are no longer to carry their charges in the traditional manner. Nothing is said about the injury to them."

In connection with the work of the Y. W. C. A. in Japan, Miss Friedmann recently made a survey of health and industrial conditions.

"Congestion in factory towns in Japan is so great that beds never get cold," she says. "Each factory girl is allowed one mat, a floor space 6 feet by 3 feet. In their dormitories, the same floor space is used 24 hours at a stretch. Matrons are few. More often some old woman is hired to go about during the night and keep the covers pulled over the girls so that they won't catch cold."

IDENTIFICATION MARKS.

An important adjunct to crime detection is reported from Paris. This new plan supplements the Bertillon system of measurements and fingerprints. It has been found that a man can be traced not by fingerprints alone but by marks on any part of the body. Any of the pores of the skin may be employed. This is the discovery of Doctor Locard, head of the French police school at Lyons. Criminals often use gloves to foil detectives, but the forearm or the elbow may give a print equally as valuable for identification.
