An Old Pioneer Dies

Ben Whiteaker, who has been a resident of Polk county since his arrival in Oregon in 1848, died at his residence near Cochran in this county, Sunday morning, August 24, at 5:30. Mr. Whiteaker was born in Leecount, Ill., May 25, 1838, and was 74 years, 3 months and 20 days old at the time of his death.

His father, with the family, came to Oregon in 1848, and settled in Polk county, taking up the property on which Mr. Whiteaker died and where the family burial ground is located. Later, Ben F. Whiteaker took up his own D. L. C. on what is now known as the Webster place.

Mr. Whiteaker had been in fair health until a few days ago when he had a paralytic stroke near the Lerona hotel, and his death was probably due to the shock received at that time.

He was the last remaining of the six children making up the main stock of the Whiteaker family, all of whom have died in the

OUR POLICY

Treat courteously and squarely as man to man, all other customers in every business transaction.

To sell you goods at the lowest prices consistent with the highest quality.

To be fair and conscientious about all our prices, we do not sell you an article at or below cost to get the chance to charge you several prices on an article about which you know nothing.

To adapt every improvement which will make our service better.

To investigate promptly and adjust fairly all claims which may be made against us.

To do away with any feeling that may exist that you are dealing with a firm which has no interest in your welfare and to bring about a friendly feeling between our patrons and ourselves.
