This Offer is Good up to and Including September 15, 1913

The Monitor stands for all that is good and educational, at all times on the alert for news and articles that will help advance each and every one of its subscribers.

We have been seeking for several months to secure something exceptionally good in standard popular fiction and educational books and the series we have selected are the very best. Our arrangements with the publishers expire September 15, and we will give these books free until this date.

Each book is handsomely bound in English Vellum cloth—the type is new, large, clear, and pleasant to the eye, printed on a superior quality of book paper. These books sell at from 75c to $1.00 at general news stores and our arrangements make it possible for us to give you two of these free. Below we list a few of the thousand and more we have listed in this offer.
