Items of Interest Gathered in and About Town

Asa B. Robinson spent Sunday with his parents, returning to Dallas on the early morning train.

Miss Francis Cooper spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Cooper, returning to her school work at Fall City Monday morning.

Mr. Warren, living south of town, pleasantly surprised the editor of the Monitor, Monday with a fine string of fish, the catch of a few hours in the lakes near his place. Mr. Warren is an expert with the rod and line and where there are fish, there are always a few less after he takes his domicile on the bank for a few hours. We wish to thank Mr. Warren for remembering us.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Wilcox were Independence visitors Saturday, returning to their home Saturday afternoon.

Miss Ella Robinson spent Sunday with her sister Mrs. Hurley, returning to Mountain View Monday to resume her work in the school room.

George Wilson was among the delegates from Independence to Salem Saturday, taking in the fair and having a good time.

John Boneberg of Medford, returned home Saturday, after spending a few days in Independence, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Bohannon. Mr. Boneberg is one of the substantial business men of his community and spoke very nicely about this city.

J. J. Fenton, president of the Farmers State Bank, returned home Saturday from a several weeks visit to Montana. He brought with him his daughter Mrs. Linn who will visit for a few weeks. Mr. Fenton stated "I am glad to get back to the Willamette Valley, and like the cloudy weather now and then." While gone he saw nothing but perpetual sunshine and that plenty warm.

J. A. Montgomery left Saturday for Madras, Crook county, for the purpose of looking up a location to go into business. Mr. C. A. Lochridge accompanied on the trip for the same purpose.

Allen Clark is attending the fair at Walla Walla, Spokane and other points. Maurice Butler is having a few weeks vacation at the same points, the two hobnobbing together on the trip, both reporting a good time.

J. S. Cooper, Jr. was a visitor at the state fair last week and thought it the best he had ever seen for Oregon.

Dick Gaines knocked off a day and went to Salem Saturday to visit the state fair and visit old friends.

Some hops wasn't it. Eleven cars loaded to the capacity, a whole train of them, was shipped out of Independence Saturday for the big brewers and dealers of New York and England. This looks big on paper but it is just beginning. The freight warehouse for hops is just as full as it ever was. You can hardly tell where these eleven cars came from. There are more coming in every day and the big warehouse is just brim full of money. There are enough hops marketed from Independence to make a bottle of beer for every man, woman and child in the United States. Think of that and then cogitate over the fact that at the state fair three little samples of hops, a total about as large as a good sized loaf of bread was all that Polk had to show that she was the biggest hop producing county in the world.

Mr. and Mrs. N. F. Gillispie were Amity visitors Sunday.

Ira Mix took in the fair Saturday, returning to Corvallis Sunday evening.

Harry Block was a visitor at the state fair last week.

A. E. Clyde the founder of the Clydes Kandy Kitchen made a sale of the property this week to Mrs. Rexford of Albany who has taken possession. Mr. Clyde has gone to Albany where he has secured the Dreamland Moving Picture show. Mrs. Ward has accepted a position with Mrs. Rexford.

Night Marshal Fetzer loaned his star to another man last week and went over to Salem. While not a Pinkerton man, he helps grab a pick pocket at the fair, the man trying to make a get-away with a ladies' purse. He said things were interesting there and some of the Independence boys were among the liveliest of the live.

Dr. Allin returned last week from his trip to the McKenzie and immediately took a day off to go to the fair at Salem, before finally settling down to the same old grind of office work. He reports a good time.

The new Masonic hall is to receive its opening Saturday when the lodge will hold a session. Later an extensive dedication program will be given.

The registration books are open for the people of this city to register for the coming city election and will close on Nov. 2. It is imperative that those who wish to vote at this election register with city recorder B. F. Swope before that date.

Under the terms of Senator Lane's amendment to the tariff bill every American farmer, if so disposed, can enter on the manufacture of denatured alcohol after securing a permit from the commissioner of internal revenue in the treasury department.

There promises to be a lively campaign in Marshfield to bring about reform movements. While the "wet" and "dry" question cannot be brought up for some time, those who favor prohibition and reforms are working hard to get all their followers registered for the next city election.

Sheepmen in eastern Oregon are facing a serious problem in what to do for feed for their sheep when they bring them in from the summer range in the mountains, as this summer and fall has been exceptionally dry, and there is practically no grass on the home range.

The senate has agreed to Senator Lane's amendment to the deficiency bill authorizing the use of the appropriation for the Portland postoffice in the erection of a general office building sufficiently large to accommodate the postoffice and other federal offices in Portland that now occupy rented quarters.

Judge Percy R. Kelly of the Marion county circuit court sustained the demurrer of the complaint filed by Attorney General Crawford, on behalf of the state against Governor West, Secretary of State Olcott and State Treasurer Kay, to recover practically $14,000 alleged to have been unlawfully expended from the penitentiary revolving fund.
