thought the Washington team would win, no one was looking for such a close score. If Charley Smith, Washington's powerful junior who was subbing for Bud Young at quarter back had not shot a place kick between the Oregon goal posts at the 22-yard line the game would probably have closed a tie. Then too Oregon tried a place kick and lost again losing a chance to even up the score at the last moment.

The new stock company playing weekly at the Isis Theatre, gave a good play, The Price She Paid, at that house Thursday night. This troupe is on a circuit of the larger valley towns, including Vancouver, Washington, where they have to compete with the Portland plays, thus requiring a good, clean show all the time. The Isis was taken in on the list by them as this town was situated so they could play it easily in connection with the other towns. Their third appearance will be the coming Thursday.
