

THE SOCIAL WORLD

BY VIRGINIA SOUTHERN

There is a pleasure in the pathless woods.

There is a rapture in the lonely shore,
There is a Society where none intrudes
By the deep Sea, and music in its roar.
—Hilide Harold.

The inevitable lull that always creeps in on those who contribute largely to the gaieties of social life, during the period between seasons, is very noticeable to the chronicler of social events, and a feeling of languor now seems tenaciously gripped about many would-be hostesses.

As Autumn approaches many cottagers are returning from the beaches, yet some still remain and enjoy tennis, golf, bathing, etc. At the same time merry groups of swimmers are in evidence in the waters of the "Beautiful Willamette" too, ladies with their tango colored and variegated (?) diving caps vying with their sisters at the beaches.

Just a little while under-grads, grads, and post-grads will be in a regular whirl to get bag and baggage in readiness for the approaching college year, and many farewell tributes will be paid by those who remain at home a while longer.

There seems no lack of activity on the part of Cupid for if Dame Rumor be dependable he has aimed his arrow with the usual result and several engagements will soon be announced.

Much time is still consumed in studying the reversible clashes of the great arms of Europe in a bewildering rush of epoch making events, tho' a sanguine feeling is entertained for the safety of marooned friends.

The Housekeepers' Leagues of Washington and New York very recently sent out a message to the Society women of the United States asking them to refrain from extravagant entertaining for the present, and it seems that the request has been generally heeded. Many society maids and matrons, of the larger places and the smaller places as well are planning to devote a portion of every day during the war to some charity, something helpful to their less fortunate brothers and sisters.

FOSTER-MASON

Concerning the wedding of a socially prominent couple in Dallas, the Polk Co. Observer has the following to say:

"Dr. Clinton L. Foster and Miss Wava L. Mason, both of this city, were united in the holy bonds of wedlock Wednesday evening, the Rev. George H. Bennett, pastor the Methodist Episcopal church, pronouncing the impressive ceremony that tied the nuptial knot. Promptly at eight o'clock Miss Golda Vaughn, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. McNicol, sang, 'I Love You and Only You,' which was followed by the solemn tones of the Mendelssohn Wedding March as the wedding party entered the parlors, led by little Ila Mason, who bore the ring in a bouquet of gladiolas. The bride was handsomely gowned in white crepe de chene with pearl and lace trimmings, carrying white carnations and the bridesmaid, Miss Hallie Smith, was prettily clad in blue messaline lace, holding a bouquet of sweetpeas, followed by the groom and Mr. Jud Foster, the best man. The ceremony was performed while the soft, sweet tones of the bridal chorus stole through the rooms. The apartments were tastefully decorated with ferns and pink and white sweetpeas. While the happy couple were receiving congratulations, a beautiful solo was sung by Miss Golda Vaughn. Dainty refreshments were served. The marriage, witnessed by forty guests, occurred in the handsome residence just completed and furnished by Dr. Foster. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Mason. The happy couple will spend several days in Newport, going thither on their honeymoon amid the hearty congratulations and best wishes of a host of friends."

NORTON-WILSON NUPTIALS

A few weeks ago the society columns announced the approaching marriage of Miss Violet V. Wilson and Mr. James E. Norton of Airle.

The pretty romance culminated at Hymen's altar Sunday, the 16th inst., at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Wilson.

Before the ceremony Miss Buna Wilson sang, "In the Garden of My Heart." While the strains of Lohengrin's "Bridal Chorus," as played by Mr. James Chambers, were softly stealing through the rooms, the nuptial party, led by the bride's little sister and her brother entered. Miss Edna Conn was maid of honor and Mr. R. M. Howard of Corvallis attended the groom.

The entire party took their places under an artistically arranged canopy effected by a combination of roses and fir, where the nuptial vows were read before a party of relatives and close friends.

Following the marriage rites a reception was held and congratulations showered upon the happy couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Norton will be at home to their friends in Salem where he has been employed as principal of the high school.

PLEASANTLY ENTERTAINS

Miss Martha Lockridge was recently a delightful hostess to a large party of her friends among the "younger set."

The evening was merrily passed with mirth making games, music, etc., concluding with a delicious luncheon.

ENTERTAIN JOINTLY

One of the prettiest season-end functions was given last Friday afternoon by Mesdames Abram Nelson and Will Walker at the home of the latter on Monmouth street.

Artistic appointments were made at ten tables for the ever interesting and fascinating game of "500" which was indulged in with great enthusiasm and made the afternoon hours pass too quickly.

The delightful hostesses rounded out the afternoon of real pleasure by serving a most tempting collation.

JOINT HOSTESSES

An afternoon at cards was a delightful season-end function when Mesdames P. M. Kirkland and P. H. Drexler jointly entertained at the home of the latter last Thursday afternoon.

Several games of "500," combined with other enjoyable features, made the afternoon especially pleasing.

INTRODUCES NEW ARRIVAL

To introduce Mrs. Sauter, who has recently arrived from Philadelphia to make her home in Independence, Mrs. K. C. Eldridge entertained charmingly for a coterie of matrons and maids at her attractive home on Monmouth street last Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Sauter is a pleasing acquisition to circles here. Her husband will be connected with the Independence Creamery.

LADIES' AID

The Ladies' Aid had an especially pleasant fortnightly meeting in the Methodist church parlors last Thursday afternoon.

Mesdames W. H. Craven and N. F. Gillispie, the hostesses for the occasion, aside from the regular routine of work indulged in, prepared a splendid repast as a surprise to the assembled members.

In a double boiler scald one pint of milk, beat together five eggs and one cupful of sugar and stir slowly into the scalded milk. When it thickens, strain and set away to cool. Beat one pint of cream to a froth, add to the chilled custard with two tablespoonfuls of vanilla and freeze.

Green Sauce.

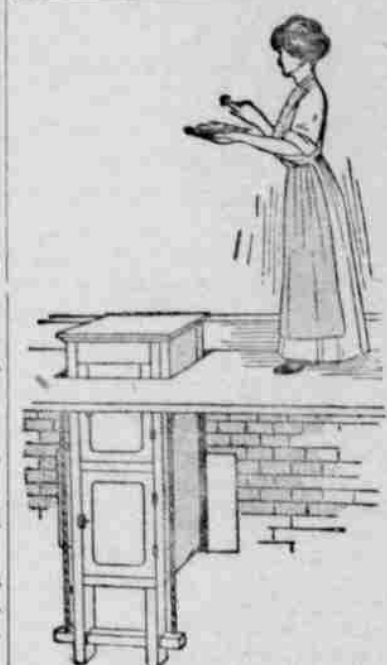

Boil a handful of spinach and squeeze the juice from the leaves through a fine cloth into a bowl. Add this green water to a mayonnaise sauce with some chopped tarragon, chives, parsley and shallots. Serve with cold boiled salmon or salmon.

HINTS FOR THE BUSY HOUSEWIFE

Dumbwaiter That Saves Climbing Stairs.

A convenient dumbwaiter, which may be installed in any home where the kitchen is over the cellar, has just been patented. The top lies flush with the floor. A press of a button or a pull of a lever and the dumbwaiter rises from the cellar right up into the kitchen. It is perfectly ventilated, finished within and without in white enamel, all the openings are screened, and it has several compartments. A slight shove returns the waiter to the cellar without bump or jar. It saves climbing stairs and yet occupies no space in the kitchen.

Care of Brushes.

It is generally understood that washing a brush softens the bristles, and at the same time the brush must be kept clean to be sanitary as well as slightly. An ideal way to keep a brush clean without washing it so frequently is at least once a week to rub the bristles thoroughly with bran, afterward combing out the hair. This removes all grease and leaves the bristles stiff and firm. Should the bristles of the brush become too limber to penetrate the hair thoroughly they may be stiffened again by washing them in hot water to which have been added a couple of spoonfuls of ammonia. Finish by dipping the bristles in water to which salt has been added. The brush should be dried in the open air with the bristles up.

Italian Stuffed Tomatoes.

Six tomatoes, two ounces of bread-crumbs, one ounce cheese, four eggs, parsley. Cut the stem pieces off six tomatoes, remove cores and seeds and fill with the following mixture: Two ounces of bread-crumbs soaked in vinegar and drained, one ounce grated cheese, two hard boiled eggs, finely chopped; a dessertspoonful finely chopped herbs (basil or savory), pepper and salt to taste. Mix well with two beaten eggs and fill tomatoes with the mixture. Cover the top of each tomato with bread-crumbs mixed with finely chopped parsley, put a small piece of butter on each and put on a greased baking pan. Cook in a slow oven twenty minutes.

Panned Tomatoes.

These are excellent served with roast meats. Put in a pan with two ounces of butter six firm tomatoes. If they have been cut in halves, "Crown" party on the top of the range for ten minutes. Then turn quickly in the oven. Remove the tomatoes to a hot platter, and make a sauce by adding to the browned butter two tablespoonfuls of flour and after it is rubbed smooth one pint of milk. Stir until boiling. Season well with salt and pepper and pour over the tomatoes. Garnish with parsley and points of toast.

Lemon Pie.

Beat together one cupful of sugar, one level tablespoonful of flour, juice and grated rind of one lemon, yolks of three eggs. Just before putting the filling in the crust add one and one-fourth cupfuls of fresh milk. Bake carefully and not too long. Beat the whites of the eggs stiff, add one-third cupful of sugar, cover pie with this meringue and brown lightly in the oven.

Emergency Lemonade.

Grate the rind of six lemons. To this add the juice of a dozen lemons and let stand overnight. In the morning take five pounds of sugar and enough water to make a thick syrup. Remove from the fire, and when cool strain the juice into it. Place into jars that are airtight. Two teaspoonfuls of this syrup added to a glass of water are sufficient.

English Raspberry Pudding.

Well butter a pudding dish and line with thin slices of stale bread, fill up with fresh raspberries and a few red currants, sprinkle well with sugar and cover with slices of bread slightly thicker than the lining slices. Cover with greased paper and tie down. Steam for one hour. Serve with cream.

Lettuce Greens.

Lettuce that is too old to be eaten green makes a delicious dish when cooked as spinach or any other green.

FOR THE CHILDREN

A Geographical Game.

Most girls and boys like games that exercise the wits. Here is a good one for a dull day or a long evening:

A leader is chosen, and every player has a pencil and paper. The leader then selects a word—"Republic," for instance—and each player writes all the geographical names he can think of beginning with it, the first letter of the word. Three minutes are usually allowed for each letter. When the leader calls "Time!" every one should stop writing.

The leader then reads his column of names, and as he calls a word all the others who have it say "Yes" and draw a line through it. If all have the word that is the end of it, but in case some have failed to write it then those who have it write after the word the number of those who have it not. These numbers count for game at the end of the play. When the leader has read all the names on his list the player at his left reads the words remaining on his list, marking numbers after them, as before. If the next player has any words left he reads them, and so on through the company. Then each one adds his numbers and sets down the total and is ready for the next letter. E. The leader calls "Begin!" and at the end of three minutes "Time!" and they proceed as before.

The party may be divided so that sides may play against each other instead of each one for himself. Whenever a name is challenged the writer must tell something about it and where the place may be found. Any number may play—the more the merrier.

Riddles.

What tongue is it that frequently hurts and grieves you and yet does not speak a word? The tongue of your shoe.

Why is the root of the tongue like a dejected man? Because it's down in the month.

Why, in France, is an egg sufficient for a meal? Because an egg is "an omelet" and "enough is as good as a feast."

What is black and white and red (read all over)? A newspaper.

Why is a ladder like a prizefighter? Because it is made up of rounds.

Who are the two largest ladies in the United States? Missouri and Mississippi.

Why is a drunkard hesitating to sign the pledge like a skeptical Hindu? Because he is in doubt whether to give up his jug or not (Juggernaut).

What is the difference between a chatterbox and a looking glass? One speaks without reflecting; the other reflects without speaking.

Dogs In Warfare.

Belgium, France and Germany lead in using dogs for purposes of war. Canine soldiers are used by the police in Belgium and in certain sorts of police work in Belgium and in certain sorts of police work in Belgium.

Hand to hand fighting has, of course, been virtually done away with in modern warfare, and, therefore, dogs are not so formidable as of old, but for sentry duty or the seeking out of wounded on battlefields dogs are invaluable. This was shown clearly during the Russo-Japanese war.

Far back in the time of the ancients dogs served as sentries. Emperor Charles V. and Philip, king of Spain, employed them in this way, and Napoleon Bonaparte used them in the same manner.

polon-consulted Marmont to fasten dogs to stakes around the walls of Alexander's camp to watch and guard. It is well known that dogs' senses are far more acute than those of humans, especially the senses of smell and hearing, so invaluable to police work.

Glass Cut Without a Diamond.

There is a certain method of cutting glass without the aid of a diamond that is comparatively little known. Take a piece of common string and, after dipping it in alcohol, squeeze it rapidly around the glass on the line of cutting. You have a match to the string and let it burn off. The heat of the burning string will weaken the glass in this particular place.

While it is hot plunge the glass under water, letting the arm go under up to the elbow, so that there will be no vibration when the glass is struck. With the free hand strike the glass outside the line of cutting, giving a quick, sharp stroke with any long, flat instrument, such as a stick of wood or a long bladed knife, and the cut will be as clean and strong as though made by a regular glass cutter.

Chain Puzzle.

When guessed correctly the members of each of the following words contain five letters, and they will link—that is, the last two letters of one word will be the first two of the next word, like this, jolly, lyric; 1, interior; 2, mistake; 3, regular arrangement; 4, to rub out; 5, a covered vehicle carried by men; 6, a joint; 7, smallest; 8, a rock; 9, an Ethiopian; 10, a water bug; 11, the result of this puzzle. Answer—1, inner; 2, error; 3, order; 4, eruse; 5, sedan; 6, ankle; 7, least; 8, stone; 9, negro; 10, roach; 11, chain.

Thoughts.

When a little child is naughty And is cross with everything, All his thoughts are changed to hornets That go flying off to sting.

When a little child is happy, Then his loving thoughts I think, Are turned to floating butterflies, All white and gold and pink.

—St. Nicholas

A century ago a workman with the tools of that time could make 5,000 pins a day. Now, with modern machinery, a workman can turn out 15,000,000.

The city of London (England) guards are about to eliminate the word "paper" and to substitute the word "innate" in all official documents, reports, correspondence, etc.

A submerged oak forest covering several square miles, from which logs more than 100 feet in length have been taken, was discovered by Russian engineers while dredging a river.

German naturalists are interested in the fact that the wild rabbits of that country seem to be changing their habits, among other things building their nests above ground instead of in burrows.

Although South America imports about $15,000,000 worth of canned goods annually, the United States furnishes only about 18 per cent of the total, of which the principal item is canned salmon.

Since November, 1910, six states and one territory have given the ballot to women. Seven states are to submit the question of woman suffrage to voters next November and five states in November, 1915.

Apparently the most abundant bird in the United States east of the Mississippi river is the robin, with an average of about fifty pairs to the square mile, or a hundred million robins in the eastern United States.
