HONOR DEPARTING BROTHER

About one hundred Masons and Eastern Star members gathered at the Masonic Temple Wednesday evening to pay a parting tribute to B. F. Smith who has been the proficient bookkeeper for the Spaulding Logging Co. for the past five years. In recognition of his competency the Company has transferred him to their larger offices in Salem. The reception and card rooms were filled with players who indulged in cards until a most delightful musical program was rendered by J. G. McIntosh and Mrs. Claire Irvine, with Mrs. McIntosh as accompanist. Then the large assemblage went to the banquet hall where the tables were laden with the choicest viands. Pretty vases of lavender and white dahlias beautified the banquet boards. I. H. Robinson was toastmaster and brief talks were made by J. B. V. Butler and S. E. Evenden of Monmouth. Their subjects were "The Blue Lodge" and "The Relation of the Blue Lodge to the Star." Mrs. J. S. Cooper voiced the sentiments of the Star members and Dr. H. C. Dunsmore spoke eloquently of the "Ladies". Each speaker paid pretty tributes to the honor guest.

Mr. Smith is senior warden of the Blue Lodge and worthy patron of the Eastern Star. The speakers emphasized the thought that no member of the orders lives nearer their beautiful teachings than Brother Smith. As we see his personality he does not seek the land of excitement but rather the golden middle as his mean of life. He exemplifies that life or joy is useless if truth be not our mistress and that the goal of goals is the highest manhood and womanhood of a generation.

The honoree was presented with a handsome Masonic ring and the almost overcome with gratitude made feeling remarks of appreciation for the many expressions of esteem that had been meted out to him not only during the evening but through his entire sojourn in Independence. As a close to the evening music was informally rendered by Mrs. Maurice Butler of Monmouth, Mrs. Irvine and J. G. McIntosh.

INFORMAL GATHERING

Mrs. Sara C. Young entertained in a most delightfully informal manner at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. Claggett last Monday evening as a compliment to her sister, Mrs. Richard Franklin Wells, a charming San Francisco matron, who has been visiting her parents.

Intimate friends were asked to make up three tables of 500 and the game was hilariously indulged in until a late hour. Following the games the hostess served one of her characteristic elaborate luncheons.

NEEDLECRAFT MEETS

An unusually pleasant afternoon was enjoyed by the members of the Needlecraft Club and several invited guests at the home of Mrs. N. A. Whiteaker last Thursday afternoon. Guests amused themselves with needle and thimble, at the same time keeping up a merry conversation.

Mrs. Whiteaker concluded the pleasure by serving an appetizing luncheon.

Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 10, the second meeting of the Civic Improvement League for the season will be held at the Moose Club Rooms. All members are requested to be present to keep up the splendid interest manifested at the first meeting.

Mrs. McLeod, worthy matron of Eastern Star, requests that all the members of the order be present at the first meeting next Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fetzer have moved to a farm near Suver. They have been long time residents of this city and their many friends here regret to lose them as residents.
