A PREFERENCE FOR THE OLD WAY

gy riding with his best girl. His horse was just moping along. The lines were fastened around the buggy whip, and the lad was telling her of his undying love with both hands. Suddenly I began to ponder, then sulk, and fret, and envy, and when I thought again of that boy, and that girl, and that horse, and of how they were all working together to do their plain duty as they saw fit, I thought also of myself, and my girl, and the steering gear, and brake, and clutch, and bad roads that kept me from enjoying a certain inalienable right that our forefathers called the pursuit of happiness, and I became disgusted and turned that car around and gave it all the speed it had until we got home. After all, what we are in the world for is results, and the next time I go riding I want a top buggy, some stout harness, moderately good roads, a responsive girl, and a horse that is too old and feeble to trot.

WIRELESS PHONES FOR USE OF THE NAVY

System Already Successfully Tested by Secretary of Navy Daniels.

Washington.—Wireless telephony as well as wireless telegraphy will be used by the United States navy in its war operations.

A year ago, by order of Secretary Daniels, navy officers and officials of the Bell system planned and successfully carried out a three day mobilization of communication forces during which war conditions were simulated. Instantaneous communication was provided over the wires by both telephone and telegraph from the office of Secretary Daniels in Washington to all the naval stations in the United States, and wireless communication was maintained between the secretary's office and an American battleship in the Atlantic ocean.

Since then engineers of the telephone company have worked with officials of the navy department and have further developed the wireless telephony for use in the naval service.

DOG CATCHES DESERTER.

Holds Man by Trousers Leg Until Officers Arrive.

Leavenworth, Kan.—James Thompson, special officer here, owns a police dog whose abilities as an apprehender of criminals frequently has been scoffed at by Thompson's friends. The dog has vindicated himself.

William Payne, a deserter last summer from the Missouri national guard, while stationed on the Mexican border, had escaped from the disciplinary barracks at the army post here.

The dog captured the fleeing trusty, holding to the man's trousers leg and impeding his flight until officers subdued him.

A Good Rule.

It is a good rule and it is a safe rule to sojourn in every place as if you meant to spend your entire life there, never omitting an opportunity of doing a kindness or of speaking a true word or of making a friend.—Ruskin.

Control of Clothes Moths

Clothes moths, injurious to woollens and furs, may be controlled by use of simple means, according to George A. Dean, professor of entomology in the Kansas State Agricultural college. Repellents will not protect fabrics if they have become infested. Even to depend upon such repellents as camphor, moth balls or tobacco will prove more or less unsatisfactory. Castoff woollens should not be stored in dark closets or in attics, where they will breed insects that feed on animal matter. The floors and corners in closets should be kept clean.

Articles in daily use, such as carpets, rugs and clothing, are not likely to become seriously infested. Woollen garments, furs and plumes stored in dark closets, wardrobes or bureau drawers suffer most. The greatest damage is done in the summer, when woollens and furs are not in use and the moths are most active.

If such garments and materials that are not to be used are carefully brushed, beaten, sunned and placed in tight pasteboard boxes, the joints of which are sealed with gummed paper, they will go through the summer in comparative safety. Such articles may also be protected by inclosing in paper bags and hanging free of the floor in a closet or in the attic. Clothing put away in a closet or a wardrobe should be brushed and sunned before storage and carefully examined at least once a month throughout the summer.

Trunks or boxes in which clothing is to be stored for the summer should be cleaned and treated with gasoline. The clothing to be packed away in them should first be beaten, brushed and sunned. In addition to this, garments should be fumigated with carbon bisulphide at least once a month from April to August.

RUTH CRUGER WAS VICTIM OF A "RIPEL"

It has been established that Ruth Cruger, the New York High school girl (the lower left picture) found murdered in the cellar of Alfredo Cocchi after being missing four months, was the victim of a "ripper." She had taken the skates shown above and found with the body to Cocchi's shop for repair and disappeared. Cocchi is now in Italy. Mrs. Humiston, a woman lawyer, also pictured above, was the means of discovering the body.

Sell the Champion Cream Saver

THE NEW DE LAVAL

THERE is no machine made in which proper lubrication is more vitally important than it is in a cream separator. A separator that is not properly oiled will turn hard and soon wear out.

The old-fashioned method of oiling through a number of little holes with a squirt-can was unsatisfactory for the reason that some users would oil too much and too often, while others would not oil often enough.

The NEW De Laval is automatically oiled

You don't have to fuss around a NEW De Laval with a squirt-can. Simply keep the sight-feed lubricator on top filled with oil and the automatic oiling system will see that every gear and bearing in the machine has just the right amount of fresh, clean oil at all times.

The automatic oiling system saves time and saves trouble, makes the machine run easier and adds years to its life.

The De Laval oiling system has been greatly improved by the addition in the NEW De Laval of an automatically oiled neck bearing and the consequent elimination of the tube that formerly carried oil to this most important part.

There has never been a cream separator that embodied so many improvements as the NEW De Laval.

The new self-centering bowl with its improved milk-distributing device, and the bell speed-indicator which insures operation at the proper speed, are two of the greatest improvements that have ever been made in cream separator construction.

Come in and see the NEW De Laval.
