NURSES IN DEMAND

It Has Been Found Difficult to Supply War Need.

200,000 IN THE COUNTRY.

Trained Women Are Wanted, and a National Census of Nurses Has Been Undertaken to Get an Idea of Who's Who—Inducements Being Made to College Women.

New York.—Meeting what, even in peace time, would be a shortage in the number of trained nurses and public health nurses needed in this country at a time when the Red Cross had enrolled 12,000 nurses for services abroad is the gigantic task which the committee on nursing of the general medical board of the Council of National Defense is undertaking. Thousands of other nurses must go.

Miss Adelaide M. Nutting, formerly superintendent of nurses and principal of the Johns Hopkins Hospital Training school, now director of nursing and health at Teachers' college, is chairman of this committee. Acting with her are Jane A. Delano, chairman of the national committee on Red Cross nursing service; Julia C.

JULIA C. LATHROP, DIRECTOR OF THE FEDERAL CHILDREN'S BUREAU.

Lathrop, director of the federal children's bureau; Miss Lillian D. Wald of Henry street settlement, Dr. Winford S. Smith, superintendent of Johns Hopkins hospital; Dr. S. S. Goldwater, superintendent of Mount Sinai hospital; Dr. Hermann Biggs, state commissioner of health; Dr. C. E. A. Winslow and Miss Ella P. Crandall, secretary of the National Organization for Public Health Nursing, who is acting as secretary of the emergency organization.

The committee already has undertaken a national census of nurses to learn the number of trained and untrained ones and those with special experience in administration, teaching, public health and preventive work, industrial nursing, etc. It is thought that there are about 200,000 trained nurses in the country, of whom perhaps four-fifths are engaged in private nursing. So far the nurses going abroad have contained a high proportion of those skilled in administrative work, and it is hoped to draw in the future largely upon the private nurses, of whom the number, relatively speaking, is plentiful.

The most important work of the committee will be to increase the supply of nurses greatly and promptly.

try are being urged to offer special courses to women graduates of colleges and universities to fit them for special work. In many cases credit for an academic year is given to women who have had selective courses in universities and colleges.

The plans of the committee for an educational campaign to induce educated women to enter the nursing profession have been aided materially by a contribution of $5,000 from Mrs. Felix Warburg. While no general appeal is being made, it is hoped that several other generous persons may aid the spread of the committee's work by other donations.

ACCLAIMED A HERO FOR SHIPPIING BEARD

Italian Now Great Because He Cut Off Peace Deputy's Facial Adornment.

Rome.—The fashionable crowd at the cafe in the Corso Umberto were gazing up at the huge screen on the building opposite, where pictures of celebrities—Sonnino, Joffre, Wilson, Lloyd George—were being thrown on the screen. It is the chief diversion these hot afternoons. Joffre was popular, and Wilson had his admirers. Then came a picture of a man with a great beard. This caused tremendous laughter. But the climax of approval came when the picture of a thin faced man with a workman's cap on his head was thrown on the screen. There was a huge ovation for this strange face.

"And who is the man with the beard?" asked the American visitor.

"Why, that is Maffie. Is it possible you don't know Maffie?"

"And who is the man in the workman's cap?"

"That is the carpenter Tordelli. You don't mean to say you haven't heard of Tordelli? They are the great Italian characters of the day."

Maffie is a member of the Italian chamber of deputies who made a speech in favor of peace, saying it was really not to Italy's interest to carry on the war. Tordelli was for war and felt that the peace speech must be rebuked. He accordingly waylaid Maffie on the tramway as he came from the chamber. Maffie had an enormous beard, which was his pride and best known characteristic. As Maffie stepped on the car Tordelli deftly operated a pair of scissors before the surprised deputy knew what was happening. Then, with a shock of beard in his hand, Tordelli disappeared, while Maffie was left beardless.

Tordelli was arrested, and his trial soon began. All Rome became interested. The question of peace and war divided sentiment into two camps. All Italy awaited the fate of the carpenter. He produced the beard at the trial, and it was duly entered by the court as an exhibit. Thereupon Maffie applied for the return of the beard, but the court held it had been separated from him and was now in possession of the state. Tordelli suddenly became a popular hero as defender of the war.

Sell the Champion Cream Saver

THE NEW DE LAVAL

ALMOST any separator will do fairly good work when it is brand new, perfectly adjusted and skimming warm milk from freshened cows. But a separator can't always be new, cows can't always be fresh, nor can you always separate your milk while it is at 85 or 90 degrees. In other words, your separating is done under practical conditions, and the sensible thing to do is to get a practical separator.

The NEW De Laval is the most practical separator you can buy because it is the only separator that you can depend upon to skim clean under any and all conditions of milk and temperature, and to deliver cream of uniform thickness.

If you want to own a separator that will do its work better than any other, and do it without constant tinkering and adjustment, then the NEW De Laval is the machine to buy.

While this statement has always been true of the De Laval machines, it is true today to an even greater degree than ever before because of the many improvements in the NEW De Laval. The new self-centering bowl which gives the machine greater capacity and skimming efficiency, the De Laval ball speed-indicator, which alone would be worth many dollars a year to a cow owner, the improved automatic oiling system and the many other improvements found in no other make of machine, make the NEW De Laval by far the most satisfactory separator to operate and the most profitable to own. You can buy a NEW De Laval from us on liberal terms. Come in and examine the machine and talk it over.
