

Christmas With Craven & Huff

"Some war," says Huff. "Betcher ife," says Craven. "I notice that it will cause some difference in the Christmas trade this year," says Huff. "How so?" says Craven. "People will buy presents this year but a different kind--useful essential things," says Huff. "Right you are and our store is the place to buy 'em," says Craven. "Sure, it's the place. We know it because we've been here all the time," says Huff. "The lady of the house would be better pleased with a new cook stove than a pearl necklace this Christmas," says Craven. "Sure, cutlery of any sort, silverware, dozens of articles we sell," says Huff. "We ought to furnish the whole family from little Johnnie to the old maid aunt," says Craven. "We will if they come in," says Huff. "They'll come in all right," says Craven.

"Now for the Old Man," says Huff, "I would buy--". "You mean father," says Craven. "Yes, father ought to have--say a razor to slick up with on Sunday morning," says Huff. "We'll sell a few hundred this year," says Craven.

"The Boss," says Huff, "ought to be better equipped to get up the Christmas dinner--she needs a new roaster and other utensils." "You mean the lady of the house," says Craven. "Same party," says Huff.

"Every family has a girl," says Huff, "and--" "We haven't," says Craven. "There's not a man or woman in this county who can't find something suitable for a girl in this Store," says Huff. "Won't be our fault if they can't," says Craven.

"Buy a young wagon for the little boy, a good knife for the small boy and a gun for the big boy," says Huff.

"What about the middle-sized boy?" says Craven. "He feels big enough to accept a man's present," says Huff.

The Place to Buy Useful Presents

"Why don't you cultivate that growth on your face so you can be Old Santa Claus next year," says Huff. "Cut it out, that's plenty," says Craven.

STATE MUSIC TEACHERS ASSOCIATION

A most interesting and profitable meeting of the State Music Teachers' Association was held in Portland Friday and Saturday, November 30 and December 1. Aside from the inspirational music heard, some very helpful and practical suggestions were offered by business men and women of the city, and the business sessions were especially interesting.

One of the features of the meeting was an address by Judge Corliss in which he emphasized the love of the beautiful. A very high tribute was paid the musicians, who are, more than anyone else, teaching the beautiful. Especially in this time of world upheaval it is more important than ever that we turn our attention to music, which if properly taught, develops the finer qualities of one's nature as no other study can.

A definite policy concerning high school credits for music was approved which will be adopted by State Supt. Churchill. A standard is to be maintained for teachers and students of music, which must be met before pupils can receive credit for the study of music outside of school. This will enable the universities to grant full study for music study.

The spirit of good will predominated thru the entire meeting which proves that the leading musicians of the state are willing to sacrifice personal gain for the sake of promoting music as an art thruout the state.

HOW TO PICK A HORSE

Edwin F. Geers, the famous driver of harness horses, who is now fifty-eight years old, thirty of which have been spent in the development of trotters and pacers, in speaking about the selection of horses for track purposes, says:

"The only way to pick a horse is just the way you would pick a friend. Beauty doesn't count. You look at him square in the face, and is he has a good head, full face, a fine eye, and a good matured ear, he is all right. If he looks like a convict, let him alone."--Dumb Animals.

MADGE KENNEDY MAKES HER PICTURE DEBUT

Madge Kennedy, the famous comedienne of "Twin Beds" and "Fair and Warmer," makes her first appearance as a motion picture star in Margaret Mayo's rollicking farce comedy, "Baby Mine," which is the attraction of the Isis Theatre December 12 and 13.

This production is the first comedy offering by the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation, which has arranged a long program of big productions with such stars, in addition to Miss Kennedy, as Mae Marsh, Maxine Elliott, Jane Cowl, Mary Garden and Mabel Normand.

"Baby Mine" has been elaborated for the picture presentation from a comedy that ranked as one of the most successful of recent years and which made a fortune for its owners and producers.

The story of "Baby Mine" is that of a young wife whose pleasure seeking inclinations cause her sober-minded husband to leave her. Madge Kennedy plays the part of the wife, Zoie, and Frank Morgan is the husband.

To entice him home again, Zoie announces the arrival of an heir in the family. Alfred, who immediately rushes home, arrives earlier than expected and complicates the scheme of Zoie and her friends, Aggie and Jimmie, to provide a baby from a foundling home.

Jimmie (played by John Cumberland) has to steal the baby from the home, and when the outraged mother of the child learns of the theft, Jimmie has to get another baby from the washwoman, who has just become the mother of twins. In the resulting mixup Alfred finds both babies and is told he is doubly a father.

But the anguished mother demands her child, and to continue the deception, the other twin of the washwoman is borrowed. Once more, before the first child can be taken away, Alfred comes onto the scene and discovers three babies. Thereupon he is told that he has been presented with triplets.

But very soon the father of the twins and the mother of the other child steal into Zoie's apartment and recover their babies. As they leave the building they are taken in hand by a policeman who brings the parents and children back to the apartment, where Zoie has to confess the deception. But she has accomplished the object of getting Alfred back.

Merchant's Wife Advises

Independence Women

"I had stomach trouble so bad I could eat nothing but toast, fruit and hot water. Everything else soured and formed gas. Dieting did no good. I was miserable until I tried buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-i-ka. ONE SPOONFUL benefited me INSTANTLY." Because Adler-i-ka empties BOTH large and small intestine it relieves ANY CASE constipation, sour stomach or gas and prevents appendicitis. It has QUICK-EST action of anything we ever sold. JIMSON WEED ENEMY TO HOP VINE

According to the United States entomological service the Jimson Weed is a host for the red spider which preys upon the hop vine in many sections. The destruction of this weed destroys the red spider's home and is bound to reduce the damage done by this pest.--Aurora Observer.
