Calling the Chickens.

In England the calls chuck, chuck, or coop, coop, prevail; in Virginia, coo-che, coo-che; in Pennsylvania, pee, pee. This latter call is widely employed, being reported from Germany, Spain (as pi, pi), Bulgaria, Hungary, Bavaria and the Tyrol. In the Austrian province the term is used in combination, thus: Pulla, pi, pi; the eff pulle, pul, pul, also occurs there.

In some parts of Germany the poultry are called with tick, tick; in Prussia, put, put, and young chickens with tuk, tuk (Grimm), and schip, schip, the latter being an imitation of their own cry. In eastern Prussia hens are called with kluckschen, kluck, kluck; also tippechen, tipp, tipp. Grimm records also pi, pi, and tiet, tiet. Weibel reports from Bavaria bibi, bibel; bibidi; pi, pi, and pul, pul.

In Denmark the call is poote; in Holland, kip, kip; in Bohemia, tyoo; in Bulgaria, tiri, tiri.—American Anthropologist.

A Safe Place.
Father Hugh Legan of San Rafael is a pious priest and an excellent raconteur. His reverence relates that he was called in recently to administer the last rites of another church to a dying sinner, who, like himself, was a native of the Emerald Isle.

"I have but one request to make, father," gasped the dying penitent. "What is it, my son?" inquired the priest.

"That when I am dead, father, you will put me to rest in the Hebrew cemetery."

"And what for?" asked Father Legan.

"Because, your reverence," moaned the sick man, "it is the last place on the face of the globe where the devil would look for an Irishman."—London Figaro.

What She Wouldn't Do.
At Hawick the people used to wear wooden clogs, which made a clanking noise on the pavement. A dying old woman had some friends by her bedside, who said to her:

"Weel, Jenny, ye are goun to heaven, and gin ye see any o' our folk ye can tell them we're a weel."

To which Jenny replied: "Weel, gin I should see them I'll tell them. But ye mauna expect me to gang clank-clankin through heaven lookin for your folk."—Scottish Nights.

An Unconscious Rebuff.
The Rev. H. R. Haweis, author of "Music and Morals," tells a good story in his book, "Travel and Talk," of an unconscious rebuff he once received in a railway carriage:

An old gentleman who sat opposite had been eying me over his evening paper with what I fancied was a look of recognition. Presently he handed me the paper and pointed to an article on a musical subject. "I thought, sir," he said politely, "you might like to see this article."

One glance was sufficient. I recognized an almost verbatim chapter of "Music and Morals." Disgusted at the fraud, I handed the paper back, remarking that "I was quite familiar with the contents." "In fact," I rashly added, "it is a chapter out of 'Music and Morals.' You may know the book?"

"Indeed, sir, I never heard of it. Who is it by?"

"Oh," I said, "a man named Haweis—a person, you know."

"Oh, really? I never heard of him!" "Haven't you?" said I.

"No," said he.

"Oh!" said I, and the conversation dropped. So of whomsoever it may be said or sung, "Eduin know where 's are," in the long run "most everybody" finds his level.

Chewing the Betel Nut.
Maxwell Sommerville, in his book "Siam on the Mekong, From the Gulf to Ayuthia," says that, the chewing of the betel nut being a common habit, at every little distance as you go through the bazaar of Bangkok may be seen petty merchants busy making and selling the preparation so universally masticated.

"The leaves in which the prepared mixture is wrapped are from a vine known as the chavica betel. The nut is from the arica betel palm, which reaches a height of about 60 feet, whose branches bear several large bunches of nuts, which harden and redden as they ripen, and which resemble somewhat the bunches of fruit on the date bearing palm. The dealers cut up their green leaves into the proper triangular form, crack the nuts, and with wooden spatulas work the tumeric stained juice into a paste. It is amusing to see how skillfully they form the pieces of green leaf into pointed, cone shaped cups, into each of which they place a portion of the ingredients."

POPULISTS RESOLUTE

Meeting of County Central Committee in Pope's Hall.

At a meeting of the people's party central committee Saturday the resignation of W. S. U'Ren as chairman was accepted, and Henry Thiessen of Milwaukie, was elected to fill the vacancy. The question of fusion is to be settled at the primaries.

The date for holding the county convention was set for March 29. The convention will elect only delegates to the state convention. The nominating convention will be held later. The date for holding the primaries was set for March 12. The apportionment will be one delegate for every 20 voters or majority fraction thereof cast for congressmen, and one delegate-at-large for each precinct.

The following resolution was adopted: "Resolved, by the people's party county central committee of Clackamas county, Oregon, that a referendum election be held at the people's primaries in this county on March 12, 1898, and the members of the people's party be requested to vote on the following question: "Are you in favor of a union of the people's party, free-silver democrats and free silver republicans in this state on one state ticket, providing satisfactory arrangements can be made through a conference of committees appointed by regularly elected delegate conventions, each party indorsing not less than the following in its state platform:

"First—For the initiative and referendum system of lawmaking in its optional form, and the submission by congress of all important national questions for an advisory vote until such time as the national constitution shall have been amended so as to provide for direct legislation.

"Second—For the independent free coinage of both gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1.

"Third—For the abolition of all private and corporate banks of issue, and for the issue of all money by the general government alone, all money so issued to be a full legal tender for all debts, public and private? Yes or no?"

W. S. U'Ren, in tendering his resignation as chairman of the committee, which was accepted, said that, after the action of the state central committee, referring a matter of fusion to county committees, "I am only striving to allay reference to instructions of voters in precincts, he is convinced that the purpose was to make a fusion for office, without much regard to principles. He said he knew our committee could be and had been misled, and supposed he would be misled on old lines and fong.

Many of his old friends, he said, as chairman, he should not lead and leave people, but he could not lead his people, and could not be trusted so much importance in an appearance of room for discussion among his friends, he preferred to do his work in the ranks.

The date of the next meeting was set for March 19. A vote of thanks was tendered the retiring chairman for his efficient services. Some intimated U'Ren would again be called to the chairmanship.

There were some differences of opinion, but a majority apparently favored union on the lines laid down.

Mr. U'Ren will soon begin a stumping tour of the county, speaking on party principles and the legislative. He favors union, if it is recommended by direct vote of the people.

Webster's International Dictionary

Successor of the "Unabridged."

The One Great Standard Authority.

Standard of the U. S. Gov't Printing Office, the U. S. Supreme Court, all the State Superior Courts, and all the U. S. District Courts.

Warranted by State Superintendents of Schools, College Presidents, and all Educators almost everywhere.

Invulnerable in the household, read to the teacher, scholar, professional man, and the educated.

THE BEST FOR PRACTICAL USE.

It is easy to find the word wanted.

It is easy to ascertain the pronunciation.

It is easy to trace the growth of a word.

It is easy to learn what a word means.

The Detroit Free Press says—

"The International Dictionary is the standard among these unending compilations of a dictionary. The International is a dictionary of our growing language, and is a dictionary of our growing knowledge."
