A Wheat Producer. Uniontown, Wash , claims for the outheastern corner of the Palouse country the distinction of being the greatest wheat-producing section of the world. Within a radius of six miles of that thriving town there were raised this year upwards of 1,500,000 bushels of wheat, with good crops of barley, oats, hay, vegetables, etc. Fall wheat averaged from 42 to 52 bushels to the acre and spring wheat 23 to 30 bushels. If any other ambitious corner of the world desires to contest
