LOCAL OPTION.

If local option was a good thing why was it that so many of the leading citizens and business men left the city soon after it went dry and went to cities where liquor was sold legally? If cities are made corrupt through the agency of the saloon, and if moral conditions are lowered in places where prohibition does not exist, why did these men move their families where, according to prohibition argument, their families will be subject to greater temptations? If all these things are so why did C. C. Parker, George Acheson, W. H. Lee, S. N. Steele, Albert Brownell, James Cantwell, Wilson Blain, Joseph Galbraith, Jesse Galbraith, George Hochstetler, Charles Crowder, W. A. McClain, C. A. Littler, J. F. Troutman, Isaac Beam, L. W. Ross, E. E. Montague, Rev. J. W. McDougal, Rev. Nelson, Rev. T. B. Griswold, E. R. Skrine, Mrs. Adams, D. Winnard, Dr. Starr, and hundreds of others move away from Albany? Albany Herald.

The Prineville Review says: "A man from Albany writes that 'Albany is dry, but wet in spots. We have to pay 25 cents a bottle for beer, and the whiskey is rotten.' This is the kind of prohibition Jacksonville doesn't want. Nor does the county want it, if it can only be made to understand."

The Effect of Prohibition on Albany.

Albany, Oregon, May 17th '08.

Dear Sir:— In reference to the effect of Local Option in Linn County during the last two years, I have this to say: The statements that have gone out by the Albany Herald in reference to business conditions in Albany are absolutely false. There is not an acceptable vacant store building in the city of Albany. The only vacant store building is the old building in which Paul Schmit used to keep his saloon.

There is not a good vacant room accessible; an acceptable house is hard to find that can be rented at any price. Albany is in need of 100 new houses today. The Mayor and every member of the City Council have signed the following:

"We, the citizens of Albany, desire to express our most hearty approval of the Local Option Law, by virtue of which our County has been without saloons for two years. During this period, business has been on the steady increase. The City never seemed so prosperous as it does today.

We believe that the Law should be maintained for business as well as moral reasons." This has been signed by 1000 leading citizens as well as the Mayor and Council.

NEWPORT TIRED OF PROHIBITION.

Blind Pigs at Toledo Convince Lincoln County Voters They Made Mistake.

Present indications are that Lincoln county has had enough of the drought which struck it two years ago when a majority of the voters declared for a dry county, and that at the next election, June 1, the people will switch to the other side and reinstate the saloons.

RECORD OF OFFICIALS

Hon. J. L. Hammersly, candidate for representative, is a man who is well acquainted in this county. His parents crossed the plains with an ox team and settled in Jackson county. Mr. Hammersly lived and studied law in Jacksonville. His opponents say nothing about his character or ability, consequently they concede his superiority as a law maker.

Hon. H. D. Kubli is a native of Jackson county, residing at present at Applegate. Mr. Kubli is a candidate for re-election as state representative. He most ably defended the rights of our people at the last session of the legislature, when the famous "Water Bill" was before the house. Mr. Kubli fought the measure bitterly for 40 days, and today stands before the people on his record.

In county clerk W. R. Coleman Jackson county has one of the most efficient men in the county as a candidate for the position. Mr. Coleman thoroughly understands the duties of the office, and his past record is unquestioned and is justly entitled to the second term which is customary when an official is a good and faithful servant for one term. Mr. Coleman's opponents cannot truthfully bring one item against his honesty and ability to discharge the duties of county clerk.

For county recorder, Dr. R. T. Burnett, is a candidate for re-election. Mr. Burnett is a faithful servant of the people and can always be found at his desk.

"It is no mere accident that Carrie Nation goes around, smashing and destroying property with a hatchet. The essence of the prohibition movement is the same."—DR. FREDERICK COHN; in a lecture at Temple Israel, Omaha, May 10, 1908. It is the same morally. Think it over. Let us stop closing up business for a while and try opening it up instead. Times are hard enough.

For County Judge
JUDGE J. R. NEIL
Regular Democratic nominee for County Judge.
Good Roads, Permanent Improvements.

For County Treasurer
MARVEL M. TAYLOR
Regular Democratic Nominee for County Treasurer. Election June 1, 1908.

Geo. H. Hines, of the Oregon Historical Society, of Portland, was on our streets Thursday, visiting with some of the pioneers. About a year ago Mr. Hines was called to Marshfield on some business, and while on the way he found 4 copies of a newspaper the "Umpqua Gazette" published at Scottsburg in April, 1853. This was the first paper published south of Oregon City in Oregon. This paper was in existence about one year.

In the spring of 1855 the plant was bought by W. G. T'Vault who moved the plant to this county and published the "Table Rock Sentinel." Later the plant was bought by Chas. Nichell who moved it to Jacksonville and published the "Times." Mr. T'Vault was the first editor on the coast. He edited a paper at Oregon City a few weeks earlier than California's first paper.

For Treasurer

Marvel M. Taylor, the democratic nominee for County treasurer is making an excellent campaign, and is receiving considerable encouragement. This office requires the service of a thorough business man, one accustomed to handling large amounts of money, and also one who is accurate and careful. Mr. Taylor, who is a member of the firm of Nunan-Taylor Co. of this city, has been connected with this store for 17 years and has an excellent training for the office of county treasurer.

JUDGE MCFADDEN AT JACKSONVILLE

The size and representative character of the audience that assembled to hear Judge McFadden at the Court House Monday night demonstrated that a temperance meeting in Jacksonville is no longer an experiment but a popular affair. Neither is our young band an experiment. The boys are making marked progress under the musical direction of Mr. Norling. The Medford Male Quartette was there to please with its cultured talent in song and reading, but this audience did not assemble merely to be entertained but were hungry for instructions as to the wisdom of making Jackson Co. "Dry" next Monday. To this end Rev. McHeery of Ashland read letters from two business firms one stating that the circulated report of Albany having a block of business houses vacant was absolutely false—the other firm sincerely hoped the saloons would not return for good business reasons.

The Judge said he used to be a "wet" but he tumbled to the fact that a bartender was not a prosperity maker. Have you?
