NOTICE.

We regret very much to do so, but a rigid ruling of the Postoffice Department requires us to strike off from our subscription list the names of all delinquent subscribers. Happily there are comparatively few on our books who owe us. It will be our invariable rule hereafter to collect the subscription in advance and if not renewed at the time subscribed for, to stop the paper. A large number of our subscribers who renewed during the past week, heartily endorsed this plan.

Some say that rents are too high, that land values are too high, and that there is no money in farming. It is true to a certain extent that money is not piled up so rapidly by the agriculturist now as in the past, but there are good and sufficient reasons therefor. The day has gone by when the seed can be sown and the development of a bountiful crop left in a great measure to nature. The day has come, and some time ago, that the farmer must study his land as does the merchant his stock of goods, as does the manufacturer his machinery. Our land here is rich and fertile, but it must be carefully looked after, or shortly our farmers will abandon it as "killed out," when the fact will be that it is only tierd of poor tilling. When our farmers look after their land—carefully studying its adaption, weigh carefully their stock and feed and get the best possible results from the combination—then will land pay a high rate of interest on a value of $150 or even more per acre.

BENSON TO LEAVE BENCH

Henry L. Benson, circuit judge in the first judicial district and brother of Secretary of State Frank Benson, sent his resignation to Governor Chamberlain Monday to take effect September 10. Judge Benson will retire to private practice as the quickly developing Klamath country affords an alluring field to efficient attorneys. The first district comprises Lake, Klamath Josephine and Jackson counties.

Govoner Chamberlain will be called upon to appoint a successor to succeed Benson at once, and it is thought that either George Nolan or W. J. Moore will get the appointment, with the chances in favor of the former. Both are democrats. Judge Benson has been on the bench in Klamath and Lake counties for ten year, having been elected for a second term four years ago, which leaves two more years of his unexpired term to be served by appointment.

The first judicial district has been divided between Judge H. K. Hanna and Judge Benson on account of the poor transportation facilities. Judge Hanna has charge of Josephine and Jackson counties, while Judge Benson and successor has the Lake and Klamath counties.
