LECTURER COMING

Mr. Franklin P. Davis of New York manager and sole director of the Western tour of George Gilbert Brancroft the lecturer and D. Lillian Lewis, vocalist and impersonator, was in our city the fore part of the week in the interests of his attraction, and closed a deal by which the citizens of this city and surrounding country will have the privilege of seeing and hearing the talented pair of artists in the near future.

To enable Mr. Davis to bring his attraction it was necessary to list the town carefully, and our people have responded numerous in the purchase of tickets.

The date set for the advent of Dr. Bancroft and Miss Lewis is Wednesday Sept. 23, at which date they will appear under the auspices of the local order of I. O. O. F. in the I. O. O. F. Hall.

They will present there greatest platform success "Where whom and how to love" a musical lecture novelty of startling originality and a laugh producer of the first magnitude. The old bachelors and maids of our city can well take a night off and get a few practical points on the art of living.

The press of the county speak in the highest term of Dr. Bancroft and Miss Lewis as artist and entertainers and laugh producers of extraordinary merit.

A Traveling Man's Experience.

"I must tell you my experience on an East bound O. R. & N. R. R. train from Pendleton to La Grande, Ore., writes Sam A. Garber, a well known traveling man. "I was in the smoking department with some other traveling men when one of them went out into the coach and came back and said, "There is a woman sick unto death in the car. I at once got up and went out, found her very ill with cramp colic; her hands and arms were drawn up so you could not straighten them, and with a deathlike look on her face. Two or three ladies were working with her and giving her whiskey. I went to my suitcase and got my bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy (I never travel without it), ran to the water tank, put a double dose of the medicine in the glass, poured some water into it and stirred it with a pencil, then I had quite a time to get the ladies to let me give it to her, but I succeeded. I could at once see the effect and I worked with her, rubbing her hands, and in twenty minutes I gave her another dose. By this time we were almost into La Grande, where I was to leave the train. I gave the bottle to the husband to be used in case another dose should be needed, but by the time the train ran into La Grande she was all right, and I received the thanks of every passenger in the car." POST SECURES EDDY

Clarence E. Eddy, a journalist of Idaho, was in the city Thursday. Mr. Eddy has accepted a position on the Post and will be with us next week. As he puts it he wants to get back to the land of plenty; where thunderstorms and blizzards are unknown. He is a native Oregonian, being born in Tualatin, Washington county, Oregon in 1874. When he was scarcely two years old his parents moved to Southern Oregon where they blazed out two town sites. Mr. Eddy is a writer and a poet of high standing. The following was reproduced from a page of one of his books:

IF THERE ISN'T A HELL THERE OUGHT TO BE.

There is a place so preachers tell,
The proper name whereof is hell;
Though in the presence of the ladies,
We simply speak of it as hades.
From all that's said it really seems
Hell is a place of all extremes—
"It's as hot as hell," they sometimes say,
"It's cold as hell," some other day,
"It's wet as hell," some one will cry.
While others swear that hell is dry,
But which of these be true, or not,
It still obtains that hell is hot;
A place for sinners, lost to shame,
To roast red-wrapped in writhing flame.

Yet there are many without grace,
Who say that there is no such place;
That hell in fact, is but a myth
Got up to scare the sinners with;
Yes there was bold Bob Ingersoll,
Who taught that there was no hell at all,
But now, forsooth, that he is dead,
He has learned better so 'tis said,
And thinks an ice-stand would do well
A rushing business down in hell.
But now, it really seems to me,
If there isn't a hell, there ought to be.

Or else a place there should be made
At least three hundred in the shade,
And all the agent of Be'ial
Should be sent there to sweat awhile
Our congressman could, without debate,

The naked sum appropriate;
But such a place they fear to build
Lest it with congressmen be filled,
There are some men who might have cause
To want to send their mother-in-laws
And there would be a mighty host
All richly meriting a roast.

There would be lawyers not a few,
And politicians by the "slew"—
Yes, men, in fact, of all conditions
And not a few from high positions.
And when they all were gathered in
The roasting should at once begin.
The world should shout in ecstasy:
"From all these fiends, we now are free,
This is no 'iridescent dream,'
Ho, Satan, here, turn on the steam!"
And in that happy time would come
The dawn of millennium,
For all the pesky hosts of wrong
Would be in hell, where they belong.
Though wet or dry or cool or hot,
A place of punishment or not,
Who reads my verses must agree
If there isn't a hell there ought to be.

ELECTRIC LINE BEING BUILT

There seems to be no cessation in the work along the line of the Astoria Seaside & Tillamook railway, says the Astoria Leader, no matter what may be the weather the surveyors and the entire force are kept hard at work.

ANOTHER LARGE REAL ESTATE DEAL

The Sears estate consisting of 213 acres, adjoining the city was sold this week to Kiser brothers, of Dakots. The consideration being between $20,000 and $30,000. This property is in the Rogue River fruit belt and will make an ideal fruit farm. The Kiser brothers also bought the Berry ranch and will probably divide it up into small fruit tracts of five and ten acres each. This will be a great benefit to the city as it will make homes for 15 or 20 families within easy walking distance from the business section of town. Another big deal is being considered by another party and will probably be closed within a few days. Geo. L. Davis of the Bank of Jacksonville was instrumental in selling the Sears estate.

Good for Biliousness.

"I took two of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets last night, and I feel fifty per cent. better than I have for weeks, says J. J. Firestone of Allagan, Mich. "They are certainly a fine article for biliousness." For sale by City Drug Store Samples free.
